Two Men Enter Oil Company Collector's Car and Rob Him at Pistol's Point.

FORCED TO DISROBE AND LEFT IN WOODS

Held up by two armed men shortly after 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, D. B. McDaniel, of 541 Ponce de Leon avenue, auditor of the Standard Oil company, was robbed of $542 and a gold watch and left without his clothing on a lonely road near East Point.

Mr. McDaniel, who made a tour each day of the Standard filling stations to collect receipts, had checked up at the station at Howell Mill road and Marietta street and started to leave when two men entered his car, a light coupe, with him and drove away. One man, according to McDaniel's report to police, drove the car and the other covered him with a large automatic pistol.

The bandit pair followed a tortuous course through the city until they crossed the railroad at Spring street, which they followed to Simpson and thence to East Point. They took the first left-hand side road after leaving East Point and followed it for some distance. Screened by bushes alongside the road, McDaniel said the men forced him to leave the car and disrobe and after robbing him of the money, $400 of which was company money and $52 of his own, and a gold watch they drove away in his car.

Mr. McDaniel was picked up by a man and woman in a car and brought to the Standard Oil filling station at Stewart avenue and Lakewood, where he secured clothing and notified police.

According to his description given police, both men wore dark suits and caps. One was described as about 5 feet and 4 or 5 inches tall. The other, McDaniel said, was about 5 feet and 10 inches tall, heavy-set, and wore horn-rimmed glasses. The man covering him with the pistol discouraged his attempts to get more accurate descriptions of them, he declared, by poking him in the ribs with his pistol and commanding him to keep his eyes "straight ahead."

Offer of Religious Truce in Mexico Rejected by Calles

MEXICANS ASKED TO BOYCOTT SHOPS

SIX REPORTED KILLED IN RELIGIOUS RIOTS

Nogales, Ariz., August 2.—(AP) A Mexico City dispatch to the Nogales Herald tonight says six persons were killed and more than 100 injured during demonstrations over Mexico yesterday incident to the new religious regulations. The dispatch gave no details of the reported demonstrations.

Mexico City, August 2.—(AP)—President Calles has rejected the proposal for a truce in the religious controversy made by the Mexican episcopate.

In a statement to the Associated Press the president said:

"This executive has already made known his opinion regarding the religious situation. Replying to the episcopate statement, I will say that the federal government will only limit itself to act with the required energy to enforce the laws of this country.'

Although President Calles has rejected the truce offer of the episcopate, gestures for peace are still under way.

Tentative steps, it is learned, are being taken which are expected to result in informal personal negotiations between Attorney General Ortega and a high dignitary of the Mexican episcopate whereby a settlement of the religious situation may be reached.

Overtures also are understood to have been made for a prominent layman, who is close to the episcopate and also persona grata with President Calles, to attempt as intermediary to bring about an exchange of views in a conciliatory spirit.

TEN MILLION ASKED TO BOYCOTT SHOPS.

BY A. W. FOLGER.

Mexico City, August 2.—Catholics in Mexico have begun an economic war with which they hope to defeat the drastic religious laws of the Calles government.

A sweeping appeal to the 10,000,000 Catholics in the country, urging them to buy only the bare necessities of life as long as the bitterly opposed religious edicts are enforced.

BIG CROWD VIEWS INDUSTRIAL SHOW ON OPENING DAY

Record Attendance Marks Biggest Atlanta-Made Exposition as Doors Are Thrown Open to Public.

With exhibits that fairly speak and displays in a vast colorful panorama, Atlanta's huge industrial exposition opened its doors Monday at the Auditorium to great throngs of visiting merchants and Atlanta patrons. The show is given on a larger scale than ever attempted before and the huge building has been converted into a veritable fairy land with thousands of lights, colored bunting, flags, flowers and prismatic fountains.

Complimenting the far-reaching cooperation that has made such a great undertaking possible, Mayor Walter Sims formally opened Atlanta's exposition. B. S. Barker, executive vice president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, one of the sponsors of the show, introduced Mayor Sims, and thanked the committees from his own and other organizations which have worked for the past six weeks perfecting details of the exposition.

The exhibition is being held in conjunction with Atlanta's annual "Merchants' Week" and thousands of retail merchants from all over the south, who are in the city, are guests of the show. The Elks Royal Purple band is giving concerts twice daily. Motion pictures covering the activities of the Atlanta industrial area will be shown serially every night in Taft hall. The exposition will continue from 10 o'clock each morning until 11 o'clock at night throughout the week.

Representative products from Atlanta's 800 manufacturing plants are shown and many adjoining towns have accepted an invitation to place exhibits. The show is sponsored as a public enterprise by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants and Manufacturers' association and the Georgia Manufacturers' association. In order to help defray the expenses of the big show an admission fee of ten cents is charged.

The exposition might easily class as an art exhibit as well as an industrial display. Throughout the lobby of the building and occupying the stage of the auditorium are wide-

ACTION WITHHELD ON SCHOOL FUNDS

Council Refuses To Approve Expenditures Under Plan "A"; Referred To Committee.

After a bitter fight on the council floor Monday afternoon, city council refused to approve of the school expenditures under the group "A" plan as approved by the board of education and the bond commission, until after it was referred to the councilmanic school committee for consideration.

The fight to refer the matter to the school committee was led by Councilmen Horace Russell and J. Allen Couch. Both Mr. Russell and Mr. Couch pointed out that before council takes action on the measure it should be given the approval of a committee from council which is acquainted with school affairs.

Councilman Russell held that it was illegal in that it did not show the exact and definite amounts for each item. He said that council should approve no measure in spending the bond money until serious consideration is given each item.

Councilmen Russell and Couch also led a successful fight to have a paper authorizing the appropriation of $2,100 for the purchase of land for improvement at the Hoke Smith Junior High school, referred to the school committee of council. Alderman W. B. Hartsfield opposed referring it to the committee.

EIGHT-HOUR DAY MOVE IN COUNCIL PRECIPITATES ROW

PLAN IS OPPOSED FOR COST REASONS

An attempt to put all city employees on an eight-hour daily working basis, with the exception of members of the fire and police departments, brought an exchange of fiery personalities on the floor of city council Monday afternoon.

The ordinance was sponsored by Councilman Cecil G. Allen and was referred to the finance committee after a bitter fight. A near personal encounter between Alderman W. B. Hartsfield and Councilman Allen was precipitated when Alderman Hartsfield declared that "it seemed to be the custom to declare open season on the 'poor downtrodden voter' by presentation of such measures.'"

Charges Hypocrisy.

"I have never engaged in such hypocrisy myself and I do not favor such a move at this time. It will cost lots of money to institute this and we should refer this matter to the finance committee for serious consideration," he declared.

After Mr. Hartsfield had finished his talk, Mr. Allen took the floor and openly accused Mr. Hartsfield of advocating similar legislation during his last race for alderman. The floor was not cleared until Chairman Claude Buchanan called the house to order and instructed that all discussion be confined solely to the measure.

Councilman A. J. Orme opposed the move on the ground that the measure "should have more elasticity." "As the measure now stands it would be impossible to carry out. We have not provided funds for the employment of extra help and until this is done we should not approve the measure," he said.

"I am not opposed to having all city employees work on an eight-hour a day basis but in many instances it would be impossible to carry the idea out. All heads of the city departments should have a chance to consider such a move before it is given our approval," Mr. Orme added.

In Alderman Hartsfield's talk he declared that such a proposal would be out of the question until some provision could be made to employ extra help. He pointed out that every department would be affected including Grady hospital, where he said, it would be next to impossible to take care of the change at this time.

Councilman Harry Roberts advocated the immediate passage of the measure, saying that he was always in favor of "an eight-hour-day employment basis for city employees."

NEELY WILL HEAD BOND COMMISSION; CANDLER RESIGNS

FRANK NEELY MADE CHAIRMAN MONDAY

Resignation of William Candler, Atlanta financier, as chairman of the Atlanta bond commission, appointed by Mayor Walter A. Sims to supervise expenditure of the $8,000,000 bond issue for civic improvements, was formally accepted Monday by Mr. Sims, and the commission Monday afternoon at a called session elected Frank Neely as chairman to succeed Mr. Candler.

Mayor Sims stated Monday night that he was not prepared to name another member of the commission, but will make an announcement within the next few days. He declared that Mr. Candler in a letter had declared that pressing business demanded his attention to such a degree that he could not devote the time necessary to serve as a member of the commission.

Report Confirmed.

Mr. Neely late Monday night confirmed reports that he had been named chairman at the special meeting of the bond commission, at which resolutions deploring the resignation of Mr. Candler were passed.

He praised Mr. Candler's unselfish service at the expense of his own large business interests.

The following resolutions were passed by the bond commission at the meeting at which Mr. Neely was named to head the commission:

Resolutions Adopted.

"Whereas, it has just come to the notice of the Atlanta bond commission that William Candler, chairman, has resigned from the bond commission, and,

"Whereas he has from the first meeting of the organization of the bond commission been a great inspiration to every member of the commission, and

"Whereas, his clearness of vision and forcefulness as a presiding officer has impressed each and every member, and

"Whereas, his conception of the duties of the bond commission have been on the highest plane and removed from any suggestion of politics or influence,

"Therefore be it resolved, That in his resignation as chairman of the bond commission and as a member of the bond commission, the Atlanta bond commission considers it has sustained a great loss.

"Resolved further, That a copy of this resolution appear in the minutes of the bond commission, a copy be furnished Mr. Candler and a copy furnished each of the newspapers."

Peachtree Creek Park Is Approved By City Council

'SARI' HAS PLOT, BEAUTIFUL MUSIC, GORGEOUS SCENES

Hunter, Templeman and Powers Are Outstanding Stars of Superlatively Fine Production.

BY LOYD A. WILHOIT.

Though it's a full-blown bromide, this writer can't resist the temptation to recall the oft-repeated truism that ofttimes "the best is reserved for the last."

The ancient saw may be applied only with certain reservations to this week's bill of the Municipal Light Opera association—"Sari," the colorful and musical Hungarian operetta of Julius Wilhelm and Max Grunbaum. For "Sari" isn't exactly the last offering of the season, but in reality is the next to last.

And, while I haven't seen every one of the past six productions of the company, I don't believe that anyone who sat in the capacity first-night audience Monday and witnessed a revival of the lilting vehicle that brought the charming Mitzi Hajos to the peak of her popularity will raise any particular storm of disapproval when it is said "Sari," as was offered here, is one of the high lights of the 1926 summer opera series.

Has Real Plot.

In the first place, "Sari" possesses a distinct advantage over its fellows in the musical comedy calendar in that it boasts a real plot, one that leaves a thought for the spectator to carry home with him and speculate upon. It raises in a different way the issue of youth and age, the new and the old at conflict. If a modern writer turned the thing out, I'm convinced he'd have beaten the man who conceived the title, "Flaming Youth," to his goal of punchy words.

Not that "Sari" is risque or radical, for it isn't. It's a simple little love story, with a golden thread of comedy running through it and a deep note of tragedy to make it worth while and to season it for the mental palate that demands something less insipid than the usual run of its kind. The music is beautiful, and is good.

WILL BE NAMED FOR BOBBY JONES

Sims To Name Committee To Map Plans for Beautifying Famous Battleground of Civil War.

First steps were taken toward establishment of a mammoth historical park and a golf course to be named in honor of Bobby Jones, king of golf, on the present site of the Peachtree creek disposal plant when a resolution was passed Monday by city council providing that Mayor Walter A. Sims appoint a committee of seven to map plans for the proposal.

Councilman Horace Russell, of the ninth ward, author of the measure, declared that the city has an opportunity to establish at a nominal cost a great park in memory of the heroes of the south and also to honor Jones for his great achievements.

The measure was given the unanimous approval of council, and according to provisions of the paper, Mayor Sims is expected to name three citizens, two members of council and two members of Fulton county commissioners.

Before the plan for location of the park on the present site of the disposal plant could be pushed to consumption, the plant would have to be moved, and tentative proposals are to combine this and the Proctor creek plant on the banks of the Chattahoochee river.

Henderson Hallman, secretary of the bond commission which will assist in supervising expenditure of the $8,000,000 bond issue voted in March for civic improvements, first suggested location of the park on the proposed site. The proposal has met with almost universal approval, and many civic patriotic organizations have indorsed it.

A great sewer development expected to care for needs of the city for the next 50 years is expected to be begun before the park finally is located on the site.

"I feel that the golf course could be started at once and that the city could begin to acquire acreage now in contemplation of establishment of the park," Mr. Russell stated Monday night in speaking of his motion. "That is the reason I initiated the move this afternoon. Atlantans really need another great park in that section of the city, and this seems to me to be an ideal location. Then, too, it would have a sentimental value in that it would be a fitting memorial to the valor of the two armies which struggled for possession of Atlanta in the sixties."

WARNED TO CEASE EFFORT TO SOLVE DONALDSON CRIME

Official Reluctantly Admits Receipt of Death Messages When Asked To Confirm Rumors.

CITY IS OVERRUN BY VICE, HE SAYS

Sensational disclosures in the investigation of the murder of Bert Donaldson, crack criminal investigator of the solicitor general's office, Monday came in swift succession as authorities announced they are nearing a solution of the bold crime.

They were:

1. Discovery by the Constitution that the life of John A. Boykin, Fulton solicitor and director of the sweeping hunt for the slayers, has been threatened many times and that the official has been warned to cease his activities against those of the underworld responsible for the death of his lieutenant, who was lured to a room in the fashionable Georgian Terrace hotel last Thursday night and slain with a shotgun.

Crime Rampant in City.

2. Issuance of a formal statement by the solicitor declaring that Donaldson's murder was a "challenge from the criminal element of the city" that demands instant and drastic action on the part of the honest citizens. "The city is honeycombed with vice and crime," Boykin declared. "If citizens do not rally to their duty at this time, criminals will become bolder and the city will be engulfed with crime."

3. Arrival in Atlanta Monday night of the wife of Jack Wilson, Chicago gunman who, it is claimed, murdered William H. Cheek, Peachtree road grocer, in a holdup last Christmas, and a severe grilling of the consort of this desperado by the solicitor's forces. The wife of Wilson was arrested Sunday in Columbus, Ga., on instructions of Atlanta detectives.

4. Arrest in Macon of two women associates of H. L. and C. K. Hughes, held incommunicado in Fulton tower on suspicion of being implicated in the slaying.

Another Arrested.

Martin Killing Brings U. S. Warden Here

Washington Sends Game Warden To Stop Further Bird Slaughter.

The United States government has warned Atlanta police not to kill any more purple martins.

Complaints pouring into the bureau of biology and survey, at Washington, from all sections of the United States, against the alleged ruthless slaughter by the local constabulary of martins roosting in trees on Capitol avenue, prompted Talbott Denmead, head of the federal department, to dispatch E. B. Whitehead, United States game warden, of Thomasville, Ga., to Atlanta.

As soon as Mr. Whitehead arrived in the city he went straight to Chief of Police James L. Beavers and instructed him to warn all of his men against killing of the birds, pointing out that such action was contrary to the game laws of the United States. Following his conference with Mr.

Woman Evangelist Defended

By Missing Radio Operator

Chicago, August 2.—The man who was accused as her paramour has come to the defense of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, the famous Los Angeles evangelist.

"In the hope that it will save Mrs. McPherson much embarrassment," Kenneth G. Ormiston, long missing radio operator of Angelus temple, has revealed in an affidavit that she was not his companion in the mysterious "love nest" at Carmel-by-the-Sea.

The woman who was with him at Carmel was a "Miss X," says the affidavit, which was made public here today by Ormiston's attorney, Edward H. Martin. A copy of the document has been airmailed to the district attorney at Los Angeles.

Mrs. McPherson accounted for her strange disappearance at Venice beach on May 18 and her return to her flock by way of Agua Prieta, Mexico, five weeks later by declaring that she was kidnaped by bandits. There were so many reports, however, that she had been seen in various parts of California with Ormiston that a grand jury gave up its investigation for lack of evidence supporting the evangelist's story.

According to Attorney Martin, the radio operator turned up here last week. "He made the affidavit before my son," Martin said. "My son is now on a vacation so I can give very little information except that we merely took the document and mailed it to Los Angeles. We have no other connection with the McPherson case. Ormiston paid his bill and left so I have no idea where he is. He seemed to want to help Mrs. McPherson."

In the affidavit Ormiston said he took "Miss X" to Carmel in an automobile from San Francisco on May 20 and that they lived together in the Carmel cottage for a week. When he read in the papers that his name was being used in the McPherson case he decided he had better move.

Ormiston and "Miss X" then drove down the coast, the affidavit says. Ormiston believes that on this trip "Miss X" may have been mistaken for Mrs. McPherson as they are said to look something alike. He gave himself up to Los Angeles officials and after a brief questioning was dismissed.

Ormiston's affidavit suggests that if this statement is not sufficient evidence to clear Mrs. McPherson, perhaps the mysterious "Miss X" will draw a similar document explaining her part in the affair. Ormiston's statement, however, gives no clews as to "Miss X's" identity.

MACON GIRL HELD IN FATAL SHOOTING

Mount Holly, N. J., August 2.—(AP) Betty Queen, chorus girl, who gave her address as Macon, Ga., was held without bail today for the grand jury on a charge of having shot and killed Margaret Craig, of Des Moines, Iowa, an actress known on the stage as Pearl McSherry.

Miss Queen was held for murder, despite the fact that Ellis Parker, Burlington county detective, thought the killing to have been accidental, the result of a desperate attempt by Miss Craig to prevent Betty Queen from committing suicide.

The shooting occurred Sunday night in a summer cottage occupied by the girl and by Dorine O'Connor, of Centralia, Ill., another actress. Miss O'Connor was held as a witness, but Detective Parker said he would be willing to release her on bail if she could obtain security.

Miss Queen and Miss O'Connor have been hysterical most of the time since the shooting, and it was with difficulty the detectives were able to obtain a coherent version of the killing.

Detectives learned that the three girls had been in a stock company in

The Amusement, Recreation and Entertainment Period

If you are old enough to remember, check back and see if it were not about twenty years ago that the "quiet evening at home" began to slip into the realm of things that were, and people began to go in for amusement, recreation and entertainment.

It was just about that time that everybody decided to own an automobile as soon as they could afford it; "variety" shows became known as vaudeville; moving picture houses were opening up; the "bunny-hug" had started a new interest in dancing; the phonograph was gaining its devotees; the golf "bug" was biting new victims daily; ladies had definitely discarded the long skirt and were taking a new interest in sports; card playing was gaining in favor—and generally speaking, the world had started in for amusement.

Amusement, recreation and entertainment is sought by all in the afternoon and evening. People do their reading now in the morning. That is why The Constitution goes into more homes in Atlanta and suburbs every day than any other Atlanta newspaper.

GIRL NEAR DEATH BY POISON DOSE

An unidentified young woman, apparently about 22 years old, and well dressed, is at the point of death at Grady hospital after drinking a large bottle of lysol while riding in a taxicab late Monday night.

She was seen talking to a man said to have given his name and address as Joe Moore, of 45 Vedado way, at the Terminal station just before calling a taxicab. As she drove away from the station Robert Melton, the taxicab driver, thought her conduct unusual and asked her if she had not drank poison.

She replied that she had just drained a bottle of lysol. She then asked to be taken back to the station, where she talked to her companion, and he ordered her taken to Grady hospital. Her companion is said to have boarded a train for Jacksonville, Fla., immediately afterward.

The young woman had on a wedding ring and a black onyx ring. The onyx contained a small Masonic emblem in one corner and a chipped diamond in the opposite corner.

New York, August 2.—(AP)—A cat named Bunnty at Belleaire, a suburb, ought to live in luxury the rest of its life, for its mistress, Cecelia Romain Stinson, left $200 by will to care for the only surviving animal creature of her household. Miss Stinson left most of the rest of her $11,000 estate for prevention of cruelty to animals and to a home for "poor cats."

SECOND SPOUSE OF AL JOLSON GETS DIVORCE

New York, August 2.—Al Jolson, noted black-face comedian, has been divorced in Paris by his second wife, the beautiful Ethel Delmar.

Asa Yoelson presumably is none other than the famous "mammy" singer himself, the most successful of comedians and wealthiest of actors, Al Jolson. Ethel Delmar is Alma Osborne's stage name.

Jolson, who rose from comparative poverty in Washington, D. C., where he was born the son of a Jewish cantor, to become so famous and popular that he could return to his native city and keep a cabinet meeting waiting while he entertained President Coolidge, was separated from his first wife in 1919. Three years later, he married Alma Osborne, keeping the marriage secret for some weeks.

ANGRY ELEPHANTS QUIETED BY CLOWN WITH TOWN BREAD

Edmonton, Alta., August 2.—(AP)—Music that charms to soothe the savage beast but bread is better.

Fourteen circus elephants went on a rampage here and began tearing up the town when a dog barked at them. Everybody ran. The elephant man, chased into a cemetery, saved his life by dodging behind tombstones.

A clown rider of the circus rode around and bought up all the bread in town. Then, stepping out boldly with the enticing loaves, he coaxed and hobbled every beastly pachyderm, and took them all back to the tent.

The invitation to attend the dedication was received several weeks ago and has been taken under advisement.

Quietly, without the display which marked the loyalists' parade Sunday in behalf of the government, the effect of the trade boycott is becoming evident throughout the country.

Not Yet Begun.

"We have not yet begun," a high churchman said Monday in discussing the boycott with the United News. He pointed out that plans for the boycott were known throughout the country and that little more in the way of campaigning was needed to make it successful.

The high churchman denied reports that the Catholics in Mexico had lost spirit in the conflict. He declared that the spirit of resentment was submerged under a deeper determination to continue what he termed "a legal fight," and pointed out that the Calles government was powerless to adopt legal measures against the boycott. Ultimate compromise, bringing success to the religionists, will be accomplished by the boycott, he predicted.

It is felt in Mexico City that the government will not permit the closing of large businesses as a result of the boycott, unless the employers pay their workers three months' salary as required by law. This is expected to have a powerful effect against the suspension of business.

City Remains Calm.

Outwardly Mexico City remains calm, despite the fact that the religious conflict is well past its opening stages. Motion picture shows, which suffered a slump during the week preceding enforcement of the decrees, had improved attendances Monday.

Effects of the boycott were not felt to any great extent in shops supported by men. Barrooms and pool halls continued to do business as usual.

The government, following a statement Sunday by Attorney General Ortega that the country was quiet, apparently attached little importance to the plot against President Calles. Seven others were arrested in connection with the plot, but the police insisted that they considered it merely the dream of a hysterical, over-religious girl. The inquiry will be continued, however.

President Calles reviewed 12,000 troops stationed in and around Mexico City Monday, while Chief of Police Roberto Cruz instructed his men to take stern action in case any disorders resulted from the controversy.

Archbishop Mora categorically denied that any prisets had been arrested in Durango, pointing out that only two had been stationed there.

U. S. BLAMED IN RELIGIOUS ROW.

Buenos Aires, August 2.—A pamphlet issued by Catholic cultural organization and distributed in the churches here casts blame on the United States government in connection with the present controversy in Mexico.

Under the heading "Who Is Responsible for Persecutions of Catholics in Mexico?" the pamphlet quotes Archbishop Curley, of Baltimore, as saying: "The machine guns turned against the clergy and people at San Luis Potosi were American. We, through our government, armed salaried bands of the Calles regime."

The reference of Archbishop Curley, as quoted in the pamphlet, is to the firing on Mexicans by government forces at San Luis Potosi during riots there several weeks ago.

The newspaper La Prenso, commenting on the pamphlet, says:

"Here is a really grave circumstance. No country or government has a right to intervene in the internal conflicts of another. This American doctrine, founded in connection with the sovereignty of states, cannot be violated in America. No country, under nay pretext, can mix in another country's affairs."

OBREGON SUPPORTS CALLES IN CRISIS.

Nogales, Ariz., August 2.—(AP)—Former President Alvaro Obregon, considered a potential candidate in the 1928 Mexican elections, late today threw his support to President Calles in the nation's religious controversy by declaring that "the high dignitaries of the Catholic church provoked this conflict." The statement was contained in a signed declaration given the Associated Press.

It was General Obregon's first public statement regarding the central government's policy since the religious law was enacted, and was issued after he had refused earlier in the day to commit himself.

"It is evident that the high dignitaries of the Catholic church provoked this conflict, when through the mouth of its most exalted representative Senor Mora y Del Rio, the first declarations were made public, with an evident rebellious spirit against the fundamental laws in force," he said.

"The conflict will disappear automatically when the directors of the Catholic church in Mexico will subordinate their vanity, at present wounded, and declare they are ready to obey the laws and the authorities who are there to see they are complied with and when they advise this line of conduct to all believers."

MEXICO SUSPENDS CATHOLIC NEWSPAPER.

Mexico City, August 2.—(AP)—Dispatches from Puebla say that police have closed the plant of the newspaper, La Cronica, which is considered Roman Catholic in its tendencies. Francisco de Velasco, the director, says that, although he is a Catholic, he has been printing only straight news reports. The dispatches did not indicate whether De Velasco was arrested.

K. OF C. COUNCIL TO DISCUSS SITUATION.

Philadelphia, August 2.—(AP)—The religious situation in Mexico will be the most important question discussed by the Knights of Columbus convention, James A. Flaherty, of this city, supreme knight, said today as delegates gathered for the opening of the annual supreme council of the order here tomorrow.

"It is possible the result of the convention's deliberations will be an appeal to the government to protest against the high-handed manner in which President Calles is suppressing religious freedom," said Mr. Flaherty.

MEXICO JUSTIFIED, DECLARES EDUCATOR.

New York, August 2.—The board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church has made public a report made to it by Gonzalo Daez Camargo, a Mexican educator, which declares that justification may be found in Mexican history for confiscating church property in Mexico, deporting foreign priests and limiting their number.

Camargo is vice president and professor of history in the Puebla Institute and Normal school at Puebla, Mexico. The Methodist board refers to his report as a "bill of particulars."

"The Mexican government respects the religious beliefs of everybody," Professor Camargo says. "No creed, rite or sect is persecuted on account of its religious views. No individual is troubled on account of creeds. As long as their practices do not infringe on morality or trample the rights of a third person, Catholics, Jews, Protestants, Mormons, Mohammedans or whoever they may be, can hold whatever religious beliefs they like best and practice whatever ceremonies seem best to them, without the government troubling them in the least."

The professor declares that "in this the government does nothing more than fulfill the Mexican laws which grant, insure and defend absolute liberty of thought and conscience."

U. S. CATHOLICS TO PROTECT RIGHTS.

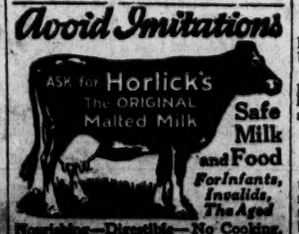

New York, August 2.—(AP)—Steps were taken today by officers of the newly-organized Catholic Association for the Protection of Religious Rights in Mexico to form branches of the association in every important city throughout the country.

The purpose of the association is "to combat the spread of false propaganda from Mexico, spread by Mexican representatives in this country by a truthful explanation of the real situation in that country."

PROTESTS REPORTED IN CHURCH SEIZURES.

Mexico City, August 2.—An unconfirmed report says that the governments of Chihuahua, Michoacan and Guerrero provinces have objected to the law permitting seizure of churches by municipal authorities on the ground that such action constitutes an invasion of state sovereignty.

Chicago and after the season closed they rented the cottage at Brown's Mills.

Returned From Bathing.

Last night Miss Craig and Miss O'Connor went bathing and when they returned they found a note signed "Gip," the nickname of Miss Queen, indicating she intended to kill herself. Rushing into another room, Miss Craig saw Miss Queen pointing a shotgun at herself and trying to pull the trigger. Miss Craig tried to take the gun away from her, and in the struggle the weapon was discharged.

The shot was heard by Breven Clemenson, a neighbor. He found Miss Craig on the floor of the cottage and Miss Queen nearby with the shotgun in her hands and screaming that she had not meant to kill her companion.

Miss Queen adamitted to detectives that she had been drinking for two days to "drive away the blues."

"It didn't do any good," she said. "They kept coming back. I didn't have any money and I didn't see any use in living."

BETTY QUEEN UNKNOWN IN MACON.

Macon, Ga., August 2.—(AP)—No person by the name of Betty Queen has lived here in recent years, as far as could be learned tonight.

Primary Tickets Mailed.

Mrs. Bessie Anderson, secretary of the state democratic executive committee, mailed Monday the official ticket for the democratic primary to be held September 8 to the various country committee chairmen in the 161 counties.

Democrat Sees Tariff and State Rights as Issues

New York, August 2.—(AP)—Tariff reduction and states' rights, oldest planks in the democratic party's history, are fast moving to the front as the issue of the campaign of 1928, Raymond R. Angell, representative of the democratic national and congressional committees, said today on returning from a tour of 14 western states.

"Farmers will not be satisfied," he said, "until relief legislation is enacted, and are now looking to tariff reduction to bring prosperity.

"I believe prohibition will not arise as an issue in the democratic convention this time," he said, "except as it is moulded in the general question of state's rights. Two-thirds of the voters in the west are dry, and I see no way to alter the 18th amendment with more than one-third of the states believing it is a good law."

Those mentioned prominently to Mr. Angell as likely candidates for leadership of the democratic ticket are Edwin T. Meredith of Des Moines, Iowa, who was secretary of agriculture under President Wilson; Governor Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland; Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York; William G. McAdoo, and former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska.

INDUSTRIAL SHOW DRAWS MUCH INTEREST

Commodious lounges and overstuffed davenports, deep, comforta'le chairs, the occasional and the end tables, which are shown in the lobby, are representative products from the J. M. Carmichael Furniture company and the Knott and Carmichael company. Presented on the stage with a beautiful back drop and an elaborate lighting effect are furniture displays from the Southern Spring Bed company and Fox Manufacturing company.

Catering to the vogue for Chinese lacquer work is the beautiful booth of the Spratt Chair company. This exhibit has an artistic breakfast set done in the popular Chinese red and elaborately decorated with oriental figures. Forming a background to the display is every type of screen, also in enamel and lacquer, painted as delicately as etchings from the far east.

Lovers of artistic wrought iron hover around the display of Riddell Brothers, which features cleverly turned gates of twisted iron, a large variety of ornate hinges, pretty structures especially made to hold rural mail boxes and in the center of the exhibit is a replica of an ancient sailing vessel, every tiny cord and sail, delicately fashioned in iron.

Fine Displays.

Molding vessels after the ancient methods of their forefathers is the distinctive feature of the Brown Pottery concern, an Atlanta industry which has been carried on from father to son for four generations. This display embraces a large variety of urns for household and garden use.

The Atlanta and Lowry National bank shows the growth of its business since 1865 in a historical and instructive exhibit. In the center of the large space is the old safe used after the civil war, the original leader in which the firm first opened accounts. Contrasted to this, are modern methods of up-to-date banking. Attracting a great deal of notice is a contest staged in this booth for guessing the number of pennies found in a great glass jar.

The Southern Bell Telephone company has one of the most comprehensive and complete displays in the show. Starting with a replica of the original telephone invented by David Graham Bell, the evolution of the instrument is shown by actual demonstration, step by step, to the present dial telephone. More than two hundred parts, contained in the modern telephone, are mounted on a board for inspection and a small switch board is shown.

Great crowds center around the comprehensive displays of the H. F. Linder company, where a dozen skilled workmen behind plate glass are making fine quality jewelry. The Lapping company has installed an entire workshop and a finished signet ring is turned out every ten minutes. The All Star Manufacturing company has a colorful booth, silk draped with tie materials and showing finished Atlanta-made ties.

Numerous Exhibitors.

Convincing as a reflection of Atlanta's great industrial district are the exhibits showing cotton cloth and clothing manufacture, cold drinks, steel and steel products, window shades stoves and caskets, and hundreds of other products. Among the exhibitors with extensive displays are the Lullwater Manufacturing company, the General Outdoor Advertising company, Zachary Manufacturing company, Cairo Syrup company, Gate City Coffin company, Southern Saw works, Couch Brothers' Manufacturing company, Atlanta Tent and Awning company, Georgia Railway and Power company, Atlanta Cap company, Atlanta Casket company, Carter Show Case company, Etowah Monument company, Brower Candy company, Richard Hellman, McCord-Stewart company, Swift & Co., Piedmont Laundry, Fulton Bag and Cotton Mills, Tripod Paint company, NuGrape company, Southeastern Express company, Moncrief Furnace company, Coco-Cola company, Hennard Mayonnaise company, Maddox Coffee company, Frank E. Block Candy company, Tuno Packing company, Empire Printing and Box company, Atlanta Milling company, International Vegetable company, Atlanta Envelope company, Rosenfield company, A. M. Robinson company, Crescent Manufacturing company, Atlanta Stove works, Girens Refrigerator company, J. K. Orr Shoe company, F. J. Cooledge company, Atlanta Sheet Metal company, Fletcher-Wilson Coffee company, Ridley-Yates company, H. Mendall & Co., McClure company, John Silvey & Co., M. C. July Weather Was Almost Normal for Heat and Rain

Weatherman Predicts More Thundershowers With Probability of Heavy Rainfall in August.

Although the month of July was slightly warmer than the average month and just a little less rain fell than usual, the month of August has started out on an entirely opposite course, according to C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist.

A continuance of thundershowers with moderate temperatures may be expected for several days yet, he said. The sub-tropical storm which a few days ago spent its fury on the southeast has settled in this section and for the present it will remain with showers and low temperatures, Mr. van Herrmann said.

After giving out his official prognostication of "more rain and moderate temperatures," Mr. von Herrmann declared that the month just spent by Atlanta was none other than an ordinary month. Temperatures, rain and wind combined to make the weather pleasant, although many other parts of the country suffered with intense heat during most of the month.

Mean Temperature for Month.

The mean temperature for Atlanta during July was 78.5 degrees—just .4 degrees above normal. The total rainfall was just .24 of an inch below normal, there being 4.49 inches of precipitation during the month.

The mercury reached 90 degrees 10 times during the month and on July 21, it climbed to 100 degrees, the highest of the year. The lowest recorded in July was 59 degrees on July 14.

To show that last month was a fine summer month Mr. von Herrmann produced figures from the stack he usually keeps, showing how the records have run in the past. Last July the mean temperature was 81 degrees while the mean temperature in 1883, the hottest July on record, was 82 degrees. The mean temperature in the coolest July on record was 75 degrees in 1891.

Inch of Rain Sunday.

The wettest July on record was that of 1887, when 14.11 inches of rainfall was recorded. A precipitation of only .56 of an inch was recorded in 1881, the driest of all July's in Atlanta.

With comparison of records disposed of Monday, Mr. von Herrmann ventured the statement that August "may have plenty of rainfall." An inch of precipitation was recorded Sunday and Monday .80 of an inch fell. With one or two more days of rainy weather the month promises to be one with plenty of rain, he said.

Temperatures are predicted to be about the same today as Monday, when the lowest was 71 degrees and the highest recorded was 84 degrees.

DAVIS IMPLICATED BY FINGERPRINTS

Macon, Ga., August 2.—(AP)—The fingerprints found on the bloodstained pay envelope of Miss Hilda Smith near the spot where she and her fiance were murdered July 10 are "identical with those of Bars Davis so far as they go," is the somewhat cryptic message received by Solicitor General Charles H. Garrett from Captain M. J. Wright, fingerprint and Bertillon expert tfor the Atlanta police department.

The report of Captain Wright bears out the identification made by W. C. Dean, expert for the Macon police, and two others he called into the case. Solicitor Garrett will present this evidence to the grand jury when it convenes at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning here.

Captain Wright has been summoned from Atlanta to appear in person before the inquisitorial body as will Mr. Dean and a number of others.

Mrs. Floy Cobb Lee, daughter of G. L. Cobb, is one of the witnesses listed by Mr. Garrett to appear before the jury. She was arrested by sheriff's officers Saturday noon on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Cobb himself, alleged moonshiner and whisky seller, has been listed as another witness. The entire list includes more than a dozen names.

Ed Glover, a negro who has confessed to firing the shotgun charges that ended the lives of Miss Smith and E. W. Wilson, is not to appear as a witness. He is now under conviction to die in the electric chair September 9. In his confession at the trial a week ago he declared that Davis hired him to do the shooting, the price being a gallon of whisky and $25.

BANK IS PLANNED AT MARYLAND PEN TO AID PRISONERS

Baltimore, August 2.—(AP)—A bank, with all the counters and grill work that go to make an up-to-date savings institution, is under construction at the Maryland penitentiary here. The bank has become necessary, Warden Patrick J. Brady announced, because of the thrift of prisoners and the amount of money handled each month in their accounts.

The total of prisoners' savings is between $200,000 and $300,000 yearly, he said, and is gained through their work in the prison shops.

Stage Is Set For Talmadge, Brown Debate

All is in readiness for the joint debate scheduled for tonight at McRae between J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, and Eugene Talmadge, his opponent in the primary for that post, and many politicians from various parts of the state will be on hand to hear the issues of the race discussed. Several prominent Atlanta state officials left Monday night for McRae to be present at 11 o'clock Tuesday when the debate begins.

In a statement issued Monday Mr. Talmadge said the debate would begin at 11 o'clock and would last "indefinitely." He said as far as he is concerned it will be pitched on a high plane. Mr. Brown expressed readiness for the debate before leaving.

The two candidates also will meet in a joint discussion Wednesday night at Dawson, both being invited to speak in that place at that time by the mayor of Dawson.

The debate will be staged in the Telfair county courthouse and if the crowd is too large it will be continued in the open air if fair weather prevails, it was stated.

COMMERCE HEADS IN TEXAS TOWN VISIT EXPOSITION

To see how Atlanta plans and carries out an industrial exposition such as that under way this week at the auditorium, three officers of the chamber of commerce of Sherman, Texas, motored all the way to Atlanta, arriving Monday afternoon.

They are C. L. Pool, president; Lee Simmons, secretary, and A. G. Mayse, editor of The Sherman Democrat. They paid a visit Monday to the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, looked into its various departments, and went to the auditorium to talk to exhibitors about the best way to put on an exposition of "made-at-home" goods.

"We have a fine town of 18,000 citizens at Sherman," said Secretary Simmons. "We are building up quite a bit of manufacturing industry there, and for several years we have held an exhibit of 'made-in-Sherman' goods in the retail show windows. But next year we plan to hold it all under one roof.

"Newspapers reaching us in Texas told of Atlanta's plans for a big industrial exposition, and we decided to take a little motor trip over here and pick up a few tips. We expect to make quite a tour of your southeastern industrial cities while we are this far from home."

CANDLER ON STAND AT WHITE TRIAL

Contending that W. H. White, Jr., former president of White Provision company, used funds of the concern to buy stock in the Miller Union Stock Yard company, the state placed Asa G. Candler, Jr., president and a large stockholder of the company, on the witness stand Monday morning in the trial of White on charges of embezzlement in Fulton superior court.

The trial Monday entered its second week before Judge R. N. Hardeman, of Louisville, who is presiding in the absence of Fulton county jurists on their vacations. Indications are that the trial will be concluded the latter part of the week.

Mr. Candler has been a stockholder in the packing house company since 1922 and on the board of directors since that time. Robert P. Jones conducted the examination of Mr. Candler for the state on Monday.

Shortage Disclosed.

Mr. Candler testified that White came to his home and sold him stock in the company. The first Mr. Candler learned of alleged overdrafts of the former president was in the latter part of 1925, he declared. "This was when the directors met to provide means for the company—it had insufficient working capital. Mr. White did not attend this meeting. The first vice president disclosed Mr. White's shortages at this time. I did not know that he owed the provision company anything at that time. I loaned the company $150,000 in December, 1924," Mr. Candler pointed out.

When questioned as to why he made the loan, Mr. Candler replied that he did so because the company's affairs were such it could borrow money in New York or Boston. "The money was loaned for a period of two years and I gave Mr. White's firm one check for $150,000. Mr. White asked me to let him have the money in three checks for $50,000 each. I did so, drawing them on the National City bank of New York. I took the mortgage on the company's property just to have a record of the loan. I never put the mortgage on record," he said.

Destroyed Mortgage.

"It was not on the books except as an entry of $150,000 with my name and I destroyed the mortgage later. I think Colonel Peel drew the mortgage. Later I let the company have $60,000 more and cancelled the loan. When I let Mr. White have $150,000 certainly I did not know of any indebtedness of his," Mr. Candler asserted.

Mr. Candler stated that he had no knowledge of any transactions of Mr. White in cotton futures or other speculations at the time of the loan and that he was satisfied the directors did not know of this.

Attorney Conyers asked the witness did the board of directors "attempt to kick White out" after Mr. Candler had urged Mr. White to take a trip to Chicago. "No," replied Mr. Candler, "Vice President E. S. Papy said Mr. White was not going to attend because some of the directors were criticising him," the witness asserted.

KIDNAPING TOUR PUZZLES POLICE OF FORT WORTH

Fort Worth, Texas, August 2.—(AP) The kidnaping of a man from one of Fort Worth's busiest business corners here Saturday night by six robed but unmasked men continues to baffle police.

A policeman and a newsboy, eyewitnesses to the kidnaping, said the man was standing near the curb when an automobile stopped in front of him and the robed men seized him, threw him into the motor car and sped away before anyone could interfere. The officer said he witnessed the kidnaping from a distance of about 20 feet.

Constitution Screen Test Entrants Who Will Face Movie Cameras Today

Five more young people will be present at the Howard theater Tuesday night to have screen tests made under the auspices of The Constitution and the Famous Players-Lasky company in the screen test contest now under way at that theater. Among those who will appear Tuesday is Miss Nellie Kincaid, of Birmingham, who was "Miss Birmingham" in a recent national beauty contest at Atlantic City and who came to Atlanta recently as one of the entries in The Constitution's "Charleston contest," winning one of the major prizes in that event.

Alderman J. Allen Couch Monday served notice on council that he will not vote for any change of the city's traffic laws until "some systematic system" is developed, and carried out his threat by being the only member of council to vote against placing of boulevard stop signs at eight street intersections.

The signs were recommended by the traffic committee of council and were passed with but one dissenting vote—that of Alderman Couch.

In making his statement, Mr. Couch contended "no member of this council knows the traffic laws of this city, and we should devise some method of standardizing the regulations regulating vehicles."

Councilman Harry York contended that placing of the signs was not a change of the laws, but an effort to prevent accidents.

RELIEF DISPATCHED TO STORM VICTIMS FROM FLORIDA PORT

West Palm Beach, Fla., August 2.—(AP)—The first relief expedition from this port to the storm-stricken Bahamas set sail from Palm Beach tonight aboard the yacht Christine, which was ladend with supplies. The expedition was initiated by Captain Gus Jordahn, who tendered his boat for the trip, and sponsored by the greater Palm Beach Chamber of Commerce. Roy Chaffin, representing the chamber of commerce, is in charge of the expedition, which comprises Captain Jordahn, several members of the life-saving organization and newspaper representatives.

Pending information regarding the condition and needs of the Bahamas relief is being confined at this time to foodstuffs. The expedition plans to go directly to West End tonight, cruising among the islands tomorrow in an attempt to distribute supplies and make a survey of conditions.

WOOD FORESEES CRUSHING DEFEAT FOR HOLDER, BROWN

J. O. Wood, candidate for governor will deliver two speeches in his statewide speaking campaign today. At 11 o'clock this morning he will address voters at Cornelia, and will return to Gainesville to speak to a mass meeting in the Hall county courthouse at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Wood has just returned from a trip to southwest Georgia. He expressed much satisfaction at the outlook for his candidacy in Americus, Columbus and other cities in that section.

"A month ago I went over the state and at that time there was general talk that Holder had the governorship 'sewed up,'" the candidate said, "but from a more careful study of politics in every section of Georgia I find that the belief had no foundation whatever." He predicted that the "Holder-Brown machine" will be overwhelmingly defeated at the polls.

BARENBLIT DIES ON OPENING DAY FOR NEW STORE

Louis Barenblit, 64, of 593 Capitol avenue, died suddenly in his new store at 159 McDaniel street early Monday morning. According to Coroner Paul Donehoo, Barenblit's death came as the result of a heart attack.

Mr. Barenblit recently come to Atlanta from Nashville, Tenn., to open a store on McDaniel street and died shortly after he had opened the doors to a new trade.

The body was taken Monday night to Nashville for funeral services and interment.

TRAVELING LIGHT

Tourists Reported as Carrying But Little.

Boston, August 2.—When the summertime girl decreed that her wardrobe would not exceed in the vicinity of 15 ounces, little did she realize that her decision would cause an at least temporary slump in a flourishing business.

However, this has resulted and the latest wail emanates from the trunk dealer who declares that milady's flimsy garments are hardly enough to fill a handbag much less a round-topped trunk. The reflex action, however, is not confined to the trunk dealer alone, but also to the baggage-transfer houses who report a 10 per cent decrease in the volume of business handled during the last two months. "We're selling more hand luggage than in former years," said the manager of one of Boston's leading houses. "Our trunk business has fallen off to almost nothing. We sell many of the smaller steamer and wardrobe variety, with little or no trade in the big, old family trunks."

As to baggage transfer in trunks it seems there isn't any. "Why the modern lady's clothes can't fill a trunk," declared an agent of a transfer company here. "All they use now is a handbag and that gives room enough." The men, too, are just as bad, he said. All they take along now is a grip, a razor and a toothbrush. Most men, he said, resort to sport clothing and seldom carry any excess "dress suits."

AUGUST NUMBER OF CITY BUILDER ATTRACTIVE ISSUE

With one of the most attractive numbers ever published, the August number of the City Builder, official organ of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, has just come off the press and is ready for distribution. The August issue is dedicated to the publishers and printers of the city and several articles from Atlanta's leading publishers are contained in it.

Leading articles for the month include a resume of the printing industry in Atlanta; an article entitled "Atlanta Leads in Class Journals," and various articles on leading commercial concerns of nation-wide scope recently establishing branches in the city.

The issue is well illustrated with numerous attractive engravings which, including the front cover, were all made by the Southern Engraving company, of Atlanta.

Sailors Fight Fires.

Everett, Wash., August 2.—(AP)—More than 1,600 sailors from the United States fleet at anchor here aided in combating six fires of alleged incendiary origin that menaced the city last night and early today. Fire departments from three cities also combined to fight the flames, all of which were under control this morning. The damage was placed at $300,000. A wood and coal company's plant, part of a ball park, a lumber company, several small mills, an oil company warehouse and a laundry were destroyed by the fires.

HELD ON CHARGE OF USING MAILS IN FRAUD SCHEME

R. E. Awtrey, alias Folbreth, Monday was held in default of $1,000 bond to the federal grand jury on charges of using the mails to dafraud following a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner L. S. Ledbetter.

Awtrey, according to evidence brought out at the trial, offered to secure positions for persons who answered an advertisement he published, but required them to make $10.000 bonds, for which they paid him $10. He then failed to produce the promised lucrative and responsible position, according to complaints.

F. E. Bradshaw and Thomas J. Northcross were prosecuting witnesses in the hearing Monday.

Railroad Objection Filed.

Tallahassee, Fla., August 2.—(AP)—The state railroad commission, through Fred H. Davis, attorney, filed objections with the state supreme court to an amendment of answers by the Seaboard Air Line and Atlantic Coast Line in the petroleum rates case. The railroads contend that petroleum products moving through tanks in Port Tampa and Jacksonville is one continuous interstate movement, while the supreme court recently held such to be two distinct shipments, making intrastate rates applicable from tanks. The court will decide tomorrow whether the roads will be permitted to amend their answers, which would result in a rehearing of the case. The railroads claim their case as previously presented is not complete enough to be appealed to the United States supreme court.

Easy To Gain Weight With Yeast and Iron

New Combination of Yeast With Vegetable Iron Builds Up Weight in Three Weeks

Thin, run-down and underweight men, women and children can improve their health, increase their energy and put on from five to twenty pounds of good solid flesh in three weeks.

A new combination of yeast vitamines with vegetable iron, renews the action of sluggish blood cells, drives out dangerous body poisons, increases energy and endurance and supplies the system with the vitamines that build up weight.

For years yeast has been known as a rich vitamine food, but not until we perfected "ironized yeast"—which comes in concentrated tablet form, was it possible to take yeast and iron in the right proportions to build up weight.

Vegetable "Iron" when combined with yeast is quite easy to digest, therefore better for the system. And "yeast" when ironized becomes just twice as beneficial as ordinary fresh or cake yeast.

Ironized Yeast tablets are composed of concentrated food elements, therefore they are pleasant to take and free from drug-like effects. It makes no difference how old you are—or how young you are—how long you have been under-weight—or how much underweight you are, "ironized yeast" tablets are positively guaranteed to pick you right up, and add from five to twenty pounds of good firm flesh in three weeks' time. If they fail get your money back.

CHURCH IS SCENE OF WET ARGUMENT

San Francisco, August 2.—(AP).—Representative Florence P. Kahn, who ardently advocates modification of the Volstead act, voiced her opposition to the prohibition law in a church here yesterday.

The injection of prohibition into the congresswoman's address occurred when Mrs. Minerva Swain, presiding at the First Congregational Church, asked Mrs. Kahn for her attitude on the issue.

"I am for law enforcement," she declared, "but before we can have that we must have an enforceable law."

Applause greeted her statement that government regulation was probably the best answer to the problem of national temperance.

A heckler in the rear of the church who asked whether her campaign was financed by bootleggers, was told by Mrs. Kahn that she did not know a bootlegger, "although I have accepted wine at dinners in the homes of my friends."

THEATERS PADLOCKED

Motion Picture Houses Are Closed.

Greenwood, S. C., August 2.—(AP)—Two local moving picture theaters were closed by padlock early this afternoon when the furniture and fixtures of both were bid in by an agent of the South Carolina tax commission at a sheriff's sale. The sale was for approximately $2,700 in amusement taxes owed by the theater and alleged not to have been paid.

Two sales of the equipment, including practically everything in the houses, were necessary, due to the inability of the first purchasers to meet their bids with cash or a certified check. At the first sale B. M. Humphreys, of Gaffney, and Don E. Eaves, of Union, the latter said to be the owner of the two theaters, were the successful bidders for approximately $2,300. They failed to put up cash money, and Sheriff White, who conducted the sale, reopened the case after waiting 40 minutes on the bidders to arrange for the cash, which they did not do. On the second sale, W. C. Schenck, representing the tax commission, bid in both theaters for approximately $2,400. The two theaters involved are the only moving picture shows in the city.

GIRL KIDNAPED BY EX-CONVICT IN ILLINOIS

Jacksonville, Ills., August 2.—(AP)—David Cooper, 33, a former paroled convict from the Joliet penitentiary and a voluntary inmate at the state hospital for the insane here during the time of his parole, early today kidnaped Beulah Kitchen, a 16-year-old patient at the hospital, and escaped in an automobile.

Cooper, acquainted with the customs of the inmates of the institution, waited near a walk along a row of industrial buildings until the women patients passed on their morning walk and then seized the girl. He thrust her into an automobile which had been waiting and drove out of sight before an alarm could be given.

HISTORIC SPOT MARKED

Bronze Tablet Marks Tree Where Washington Stood.

Cambridge, Mass., August 2.—(AP)—A small bronze tablet bearing the simple inscription, "Here stood the Washington elm under which George Washington took command of the American army, July 3, 1775," replaced the famous tree today.

The tablet was decided upon when the last vestige of the giant elm was removed several years ago.

INDIAN PREFERS MODERN VANITY TO WAR PAINT

Edmonton, Alta., August 2.—(AP).—There is at least one Indian in Canada who prefers the modern vanity case and make-up box to the war paint of his ancestors, according to H. P. Murphy, trapper and explorer from the Ptarmigan lake district.

Murphy says that recently he met an Indian on the trail wearing a vanity box where formerly a scalping knife had hung. From this the Indian pulled a powder puff, powdered his face and then extracted a small mirror from the bag to assure himself that his make-up was good.

PONZI ORDERED TO SERVE TERM

Austin, Texas, August 2.—(AP)—Return of Charles Ponzi to Massachusetts to serve a theft sentence of seven to ten years was ordered this afternoon by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

With the granting of the governor of Massachusetts' requisition, Ponzi's battle for freedom moves to Houston where habeas corpus proceedings will be held before District Judge Charles Ashe tomorrow.

Ponzi was arrested several weeks ago at New Orleans while working as a common seaman on an Italian ship. He had been seen and recognized by a dock worker when his ship was in port at Houston, Texas. The dock worker informed county authorities and Deputy Sheriff Lacy took up the trail. He finally found the former financial wizard in New Orleans.

When arrested Ponzi was dressed in rough working clothes. His captor asked him whether he wished to return to Massachusetts from New Orleans or Houston and Ponzi replied that he preferred to take his chances on extradition from Texas.

He was returned to Houston where he has since been in jail. He is wanted in Massachusetts to serve a seven to ten-year sentence for theft.

FRATERNITY ROW WILL BE REBUILT ON EMORY CAMPUS

While officials of Emory university are working every possible clue in order to apprehend the firebug whose activities during the past five weeks have destroyed two and partially damaged three fraternity houses, members of the building committee have authorized work to be started in the planning for a new and more modern "fraternity row," of fireproof structures and uniform architectural design, it was announced Monday.

Work has already begun in clearing away the grounds, and plans for the new fraternity houses are being drawn. Fraternity row will begin at Oxford road and will extend to the railroad station, fronting on an eight-acre lot.

Officials of Emory stated Monday that the new row will be one of the most attractive in the south and no house will be erected at a cost of less than $20,000. Emory will furnish the ground, and funds for erection of the buildings will be loaned to fraternities to the extent of 60 per cent provided the petitioning fraternity raises the remainder. The loan would cover a period of 15 years.

During the course of a few years, it is planned to have the entire student body in the new division. Dormitories, a new gymnasium and an athletic field will constitute the remaining building projects of the institution.

SOUTHERN OFFERS CUP FOR FINEST TEN EARS OF CORN

The latest issue of the Southern Field, published by the development service of Southern Railway system, is devoted to the 1926 competition for the Southern Railway corn cup. This is a handsome silver cup awarded annually for the best ten ears of any variety of field corn grown and exhibited by a farmer in Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Tennessee or Virginia.

Competitors in each state will enter their exhibits at any one of the fairs designated in that state where they may first compete for the prizes offered by that fair. The ten-ear exhibit, judged to be the best entered in competition at each fair, is sent in a sealed package to the general agricultural agent, Southern Railway system, Atlanta, Ga., with a letter certifying the name and post office address of the grower and exhibitor of the corn, and the county in which it was grown. As soon as the prize-winning exhibits have been received from all of the fairs designated, the winner of the cup, with his county, state, and year of winning, will be engraved on a silver plate to be attached to the base of the cup. The winner will hold it until it is awarded to the prize winner of the next following contest.

The Southern Field contains an account of the award of the cup in 1925 to William Patton Boland, a 16-year-old corn club boy of Pomaria, Newberry county, South Carolina, on corn which had been awarded first prize at the South Carolina state fair at Columbia.

BEAVERS TO VISIT ALL POLICE BEATS ONCE EACH WEEK

Chief of Police James L. Beavers, back on the job Monday, told the morning watch that he was going to try to comply with revised rule No. 22, which says that he must make a personal visit to each watch at least once a week. The chief said that he was physically able, all right, but he declared he didn't know whether his automobile would hold out or that he would be able to find some of the men who have large territories to cover.

"All I can do is to look for you," the chief said. "I'll make a written report to the police committee, telling the time and the territory traversed in looking for you. In event I do not find you, I will report accordingly to the committee and if it isn't satisfied then it can deal with you."

Chief Beavers warned his men that he was not going to make any appointments with them, but was going to try to catch them by surprise.

"I am going to make my best efforts to comply with the rule," Chief Beavers said, "and I believe that my efforts will be rewarded with success."

The chief read a letter from a citizen of Atlanta complaining of discourtesy on the part of some officer, after which he made a plea to the men to be always courteous, and pointed out the needlessness of abusing prisoners, either when arrested or after incarcerated at police station.

Reporting for active duty Monday, the chief appeared to be in greatly improved health after his vacation of six weeks. He promptly took charge of the police department's end in the investigation of Bert Donaldson's death.

ALDERMEN REFUSE TO RATIFY TWO COUNCIL ACTIONS

The aldermanic board Monday afternoon concurred in all papers passed by council with the exception of a paper to condemn sidewalks on Glenn street and another to pay the Parent-Teacher association of the William A. Bass Junior High school $400 for grading work done on the school, which the association paid for.

Dr. P. L. Moon, alderman of the second ward, asked that the measure seeking condemnation of the sidewalk be carried over until the next meeting of the committee in order that he might investigate in the interim. Alderman Allen Couch attacked the paper appropriating the $400 to the Parent-Teacher organization and the board voted to non-concur.

Wants Ratification Of Reinstatements Of Police by Council

Council will have to ratify all reinstatements of previously discharged policemen if that body approves a measure introduced in council Monday by Alderman William A. Hartsfield, chairman of the police committee. The paper was referred to the police committee for a recommendation.

In presenting the resolution Mr. Hartsfield contended that reinstatement should be a matter of serious and careful consideration, and that it should be done only in rare cases when the applicant for reinstatement has been "fired" after a hearing before the committee.

"We should be extremely careful in placing those who once have broken rules of the department again on the force," Mr. Hartsfield declared. "I move the paper be referred to the police committee for consideration." This was done.

CARSWELL ANNOUNCES DATES FOR SPEECHES

Macon, Ga., August 1 (AP).—George Carswell, of Irwinton, candidate for governor, rested here today before continuing his campaign this week. Mr. Carswell made many speeches last week and the procedure will be continued until the primary, September 8.

Tomorrow Mr. Carswell will speak at the noon recess of the Dodge county superior court. Tuesday he will go to Washington, Wilkes county, where he will deliver an address at noon. At 4:30 o'clock the same day he will speak at Lincolnton, Lincoln county.

Wednesday three engagements have been made for Lim at Thomson, McDuffie county, 11 o'clock; Harlem, Columbia county, 3 o'clock, and Dearing, McDuffie county, 8:30 o'clock.

Thursday Mr. Carswell will make three speeches in Jefferson county. At 11 o'clock he will speak at Wrens; at 3 o'clock he will speak at Louisville, and at 8:30 at Wadley.

Friday morning at 11 o'clock he will speak at Bartow, Jefferson county, and during the afternoon will go into Washington county, speaking at Tennile at 4 o'clock and Sandersville at 8:30.

He will conclude the week with three addresses, the first at Sparta, at 11 a. m.; Warrenton Warren county, at 2 p. m., and Crawfordaville, Taliaferro county, at 4:30 p. m.

LICENSE TAX SALES SHOW MARKED GAIN

Sales of automobile license tags showed a marked increase Monday at the office of the motor vehicle department at the capitol when they were placed on sale for the first time this year at half price. A long line was present when the office opened Monday morning and sales were brisk throughout the day. From August 1 through the rest of the year the price of tags is one-half the fee charged for a license for the entire year.

HARVEY LAD BAPTIZED IN RIVER JORDAN WATER

Water obtained from the River Jordan, at or near the spot where Jesus was baptized was used Sunday to baptize James S. Harvey, young son of R. W. Harvey, head of the Harvey Advertising agency.

Mrs. Ella Dillard, grandmother of the Harvey youth, recently returned from a visit to the holy land and brought some of the water from the River Jordan with her. Young Harvey was baptized at the morning service of the Episcopal Church of Our Savior, by the Rev. G. W. Gasque, rector of the church.

ACCIDENT DEATHS IN CITY INCREASE

Thirty persons were killed in Atlanta in traffic accidents during the first six months of 1926, an increase of six over the same period last year, according to figures given out Monday by George Diebert, secretary of the Atlanta Safety council. It was pointed out that only three deaths were reported during July, a decrease of four from June.

Traffic accidents recorded by police during the month of July surpassed those of June with 186 against 164, an increase of 22, and although the accidents were more, the injured list during July was only 79 as compared with 116 injuries in June.

MINOR ACCIDENTS ON AUTO HIGHWAYS RECORDED SUNDAY

Aaron M. Burnett, 10, of 146 Wells street, was treated at Grady hospital for cuts and bruises about the right knee, thigh and back, which he is said to have received in an automobile accident. He gave no details and police have no record.

After a chase of several blocks, L. P. Taylor, of 66 Boulevard terrace, was arrested by Policeman F. L. Tippen and R. H. Davis, following a collision with an automobile driven by W. H. Jordan, of 417 North Boulevard, it is stated. No one was hurt, but police charge that Taylor failed to stop after the smash and increased his speed until overtaken.

Thank you Atlanta

WE knew Atlanta would welcome us royally, because that's the way of Atlanta—the Spirit of the South.

But little did we know the extent of the welcome. You who came to our store yesterday saw it, know how we feel as we try to tell you of our thanks.

It was unlike any other opening day we have ever seen because here we were greeted alike by our competitors and our customers; welcomed, as it were, to the bosom of Atlanta, made a part of her life to share with her in her future greatness.

For the business you gave us we are most truly grateful. We believe that it meant an appreciation of the values we have to offer. But more than the business, we appreciate the spirit of the welcome.

May we tell you of Atlanta that it shall be the aim of this store and this company to merit your support.

The opening day is passed but its impression will remain through the years.

SYSTEMATIZED GIVING.

The citizens of Atlanta ought to give thoughtful consideration to the Community Chest and to the good work it is doing. When we compare the situation today with what it was before charity and uplift work and similar activities for humanity that are dependent upon public donations were organized under one systematic administration, we cannot fail to realize what a splendid institution the Community Chest has proven itself to be.

Prior to its organization every business man in Atlanta was approached every day, and sometimes many times a day, for donations for this, that and the other thing. "Tag days" were conducted almost every week. The streets were full of tambourine bearers, some worthy, like the Salvation Army, but many not so worthy. In the course of the year the charity tax upon the citizen aggregated a great deal more than it does now, even with liberal Community Chest donations. It merely illustrates the efficiency and the economy of organization.

Business men in 233 American cities put their "giving" on a business basis through similar financial and social service federations. They realized that casual careless giving away of money hurt people. They realized that without some community planning organization to supply the social service necessary to help them spend their money wisely in helping people, they were not only hurting people with their own personal giving, but were often the victims of professional collectors and managers of drives, who could persuade them to give without any real assurance that the money would be properly used.

The thoughtful business man approves when the reputable social agencies in the community united, elected a board of directors composed of the city's most trustworthy leaders, and submitted their budgets to the scrutiny of a committee whose ability and sincerity could not be questioned. He was delighted when, after three years' operation in Atlanta, he found that the social service program was being improved, and that the cost of campaign and collections and chest administration had been cut to 8½ per cent.

And yet business men of Atlanta have not all given to the chest as the average in other cities, and the program of the agencies has been seriously cramped as a result.

FARM AREA SMALLER.

The United States bureau of census reports that for the first time in any census period in the history of this nation there has been a decrease in the crop area during the past five years. In the whole harvested crop area this decrease amounts to 19,000,000 acres—confined largely to the cotton area in the southeast, in the corn and winter wheat belts and in the dairy and hay region from Lake Michigan to the Hudson valley.

According to the census report, increases have taken place in the semi-arid western portion of the great plains region extending from southwestern Texas to Montana and beyond; in the upper portion of the Mississippi river bottoms, central Florida, southwestern Minnesota and northern Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The major areas of stationary crop acreage are the central and western corn belt, central Kansas, the subhumid portion of the spring wheat region, northern New York and New England and the north Pacific coast.

The reduction in crop area represents a decrease of 5 per cent, the 19,000,000 acres having reverted to pasture or been allowed to lie idle. During this period the acreage of forest cut-over land and woodlands increased about 9,000,000 acres.

This decrease has been in the face of an 8 per cent increase in general population during the same period, and reverses the record of crop area increase of 45,101,000 acres during the period for 1909 to 1919.

The direct cause of this startling decrease has been farm depression—the boll weevil in the cotton belt, the overproduction, or surpluses, piled up in the grain belt, and other economic and political causes which have kept the farmer to his knees—

And yet, decrease in commodity acreage can be made an asset instead of an economic liability. This country has always suffered from too large commodity acreage and too small commodity production to the acre. In many European nations, the farmer grows more to an acre than we do to ten. If our farmers apply more intensive methods and plant more to the acre the fact that we have fewer acres under the plow may be turned to a decided advantage. We make an average of 140 pounds of lint cotton to the acre, and yet other nations growing cotton make an average of 250 and upward. If we grow and harvest ten bales of cotton from twenty acres we are certainly making more money than in harvesting ten bales from forty acres. By intensive cultivation many Georgia farmers—especially cotton club boys—make a bale to the acre.

Acreage decrease need not be disturbing. It should be a good indication—not, however, if it is the result of farm abandonments and imigration to the cities.

THAT STATE SERVICE.

What will become of the handsome silver service that was presented several years ago "by the people of Georgia" to the battleship Georgia?

The presentation, it will be recalled, was personally made, at a great function aboard the battleship arranged for the occasion by the late Governor Terrell.

This silver set is now chucked away somewhere in a navy department store room at Mare Island, California. The floating unit bearing the proud name of the Empire State of the south was scrapped in accordance with the treaty arranged at the disarmament conference held in Washington in 1921.

In the 69th congress a bill by Senator Harris was passed and signed by the president authorizing the return to the state of Georgia of this silver service. It has not been returned through no fault of the government. The navy department is awaiting "orders."

For the most part, the set was purchased by various municipalities of Georgia. Savannah and Atlanta gave the two biggest pieces, and Columbus also contributed a large piece. Then, Macon, Brunswick, Athens and Albany bore the expense of a portion of the set. Some two dozen silver cups were the gift of small towns in the state and individuals. The three central pieces were to be the gift of the state itself, but it developed that the state constitution would not permit an expenditure for a gift. The jeweler had purchased and engraved the set without profit, and the nearly $2,000 that he failed to receive was a dead loss, which he carried until the time of his death.

The governor has been granted a contingency fund for the furnishing of the new governor's mansion. It would not be contrary to the constitution to purchase this silver for the mansion, and if it is in as good shape as the other silver sets returned by battleships to their presenting states, it does seem this historic set should be preserved intact. The state auditor is now considering the legality of this action.

The first step, however, would be for the various cities and towns to volunteer to make a present of their pieces to the state for such fitting purpose. Certainly the pieces would be of little value isolated from the set for which they were made.

There must be concerted action on the part of all involved and to get this will require leadership. Certainly something should be done promptly.

DR. WILLIAM RAWLINGS.

The death of Dr. William Rawlings at his home in Sandersville Sunday removes from American surgery one of its most distinguished specialists. His sanitarium in his home town had become nationally known, and patients from every state in the union, and from other countries, had gone there for diagnosis and for treatment and surgical operations. He had made Sandersville, Ga., famous, as the Mayo brothers long ago made Rochester, Minn., famous. In his professional career he had frequently held clinics in conjunction with the staff surgeons at Johns Hopkins hospital, with the Mayos, and with other celebrated surgeons throughout the country.

Dr. Rawlings found time, despite the arduous exactions of his sanitarium, to help build Georgia, and his work in developing a large purebred cattle ranch, and in demonstrating the economic possibilities in modern dairying, stands out as forceful factors in turning Georgia from a one-crop state toward a system of balanced production. His ranch was annually visited by hundreds of farmers from every section who studied successful methods. He unselfishly provided demonstrators, and took a commendable pride in using his private enterprise for public benefit.

Dr. Rawlings, a great specialist, was also a most useful Georgian.

Looking and Listening

BY SAM W. SMALL.

The opening in Atlanta yesterday of the mammoth southeastern distributing plant of Sears, Roebuck & Co. was much more than that. It was one of the most significant events in the whole history of the city.

The planting here of this huge unit of a nationally functioning and prosperous business is but the coming of the advance corps of an army of occupation that will continually increase.

It is the testimony that shrewd, experienced business calculation has found the true strategic center for covering and concentrating the popular commerce of the southeast.

The adoption of the slogan "a 24-hour service" proves that Atlanta is so located and equipped with distributive facilities as to make such a service immediately practicable. Study the railway and mail schedules out of Atlanta and you will be amazed to learn how far in every direction you can go in 24 hours.

The sweep of that 24-hour radius easily reaches all the territory bounded by the Potomac, Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Within that compass live almost exactly 25,000,000 persons—more than one-fourth of the population of the 48 states of the Union. Any one of them, with few exceptions away from mail routes, can now get round trip service—order to goods delivered—from Atlanta within 72 hours.

Is it to wonder, then, that considerations of proximity, facilities and rapid turn-overs of capital and stocks, are impelling great national businesses to anchor in Atlanta?

* * * *

More in the Offing.

It is known that other great national enterprises are considering locations in Atlanta. Doubtless they will reach favorable decisions within a short number of months. Some of them doing nation-wide trade will erect here producing and assembling plants of huge proportions and employing little armies of artists, artisans and laborers. They will add immense increments of capital and population and make large demands upon the housing, church, school and retail trade facilities of this phenomenally growing metropolis.

* * * *

Where We Were Born.

All of which brings up the fact that Atlanta owes much to those of her citizens who have come into her fold through just such agencies as those mentioned.

The safest estimate that I can get from those whose daily contacts should give them reliable data, is that the population of Atlanta is about 280,000; that one-fourth, or 70,000, are negroes; and of the 210,000 white residents fully 80,000 were born in other states than Georgia. That is a greater percentage than for the state at large since 89 per cent of our state people is native stock and only 11 per cent is from elsewhere.

* * * *

How We Live in Atlanta.

The same statisticians—some of them expert local politicians who know "who's who in Atlanta," tell me that we have some 40,000 dwellings in the city, that they house 52,000 families, and that the number of persons to each dwelling is now 5.3, whereas in 1900 it was 4.4.

That suggests closer crowding of the inhabitants and may be accounted for by incentives to economy against the high cost of living, as well as to a shortage of one-family dwellings. The latter, indeed, is one of the muniments of a healthy city that Atlanta lacks.

* * * *

Our Foreign Fellow-Citizens.

In Atlanta the last census credited us with 4,738 foreign-born whites.

To what country are we indebted for the greater number of those overseas immigrants?

It will astonish most of you to learn that more than one-fourth of them—1,207, in fact—are Russians! The next largest contributor is Poland with 479. England follows with 476, though the British Isles gave us 849, of whom only 208 are Irish.

Byron made the Turk awake in alarm at the cry of "The Greek, the Greek!" and some of our homefolks, seeing fruit stands, cafeterias and hot-dog joints in the hands of Hellenes of the city, are also inclined "to view with alarm" an imaginary Greek invasion, but there are only 434 Greeks reported among us. Germany has three less in our midst. Canada sent us 282. Strange to note, France and Italy stand equal footed here with 98 each and Syria goes each of them 5 better, figuring at 103.

Notwithstanding our Burns Club, with its replica of his famous cottage and the vogue he retains with our clansmen and literati, our Scottish-born are only 143. And of genuine Dutchmen, born in Holland, we have only 17 since Pierre van Paassen has gone to Europe to count the new windmills on his native heath.

UNDERCOVER MAN RECEIVED $15,000 IN CASE OF DWYER

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, August 2.—A. Bruce Bielaski, the under-cover agent who obtained the evidence that convicted William V. Dwyer of conspiracy to violate the prohibition act, was not on the payroll of either the treasury department or the department of justice, according to Representative F. H. LaGuardia. The New York attorney did receive more than $15,000 from Walton A. Green, chief prohibition investigator, out of a fund provided by congress to enforce the prohibition and narcotic acts, according to LaGuardia.

"I am quite sure," Congressman LaGuardia concluded, in a statement issued today, "that the next session of congress will present further abuses of public funds in such manner."

Remainder of Estate Bequeathed to Miss O'Connell.

Washington, August 2.—(AP).—Under the terms of the will of Baxter Clegg, who died here July 27, his wife would be given $1 and the remainder of his estate would go to Miss Irene O'Connell of Montreal, Canada.

Included in the Clegg estate, the value of which was not announced, are the Ansela Butte oil fields in St. Martin's Parish, Louisiana.

Mrs. Clegg now makes her home in Lafayette, La.

In the will Clegg wrote that he had not lived with Mrs. Clegg for 14 years and that "my reason for making this will is to protect Irene O'Connell in case of my death before I marry her."

Legal interpretation of the will is awaited, the point having been raised that local laws provide that a widow might not be deprived of her dower in her husband's estate.

LIGHTS OF PARIS

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

All foreigners visiting Paris for the first time feel that they have not done themselves justice if they aren't able to return home with the thrilling news that they've seen the Folies Bergeres. Contrary to the expectations of the homefolks, they proclaim that there's nothing in it, as a general rule. And strange though it may seem there is fully as much nudity in any of our bigger, better productions as in the most wicked of these Paris revues.

There is actually nothing in the play itself to impress the visitor with the city's lax morality. As more often than not the star performers—nowadays are Americans, considered rather second-rate if New York, the spectator isn't even afforded a first-rate performance.

* * * *

The humor of the show is usually of extremely doubtful color, but since the average foreigner is not conversant either with the topical allusions or with French slang, they rather miss everything they came for. One shock usually afforded the thrill-seeking American is the spectacle of black people playing opposite whites in a way that would not be tolerated in America.

* * * *

This attitude of the French toward colored people is amazing to Yankees. Indian princes and African notables are universally received in Paris society and it is no uncommon thing to go into one of the fashionable night clubs in Paris and find that the best table has been reserved for one of these dusky potentates, who presently enters with several members of his suite and a party of society folk. Later he is seen dancing with the feminine members of the party.

After the first gasp or two, however, the tourist grows used to this.

* * * *

Between the acts at the Folies Bergeres one watches the promenade which is really just a display of feminine charms. In the Folies Bergeres there is to be found every sort of device for making the place appear wicked and sinister. There are sideshows where one may watch the "stomach" dance being performed—a harmless enough pastime, but carefully advertised as a highly immoral performance. Everywhere one sees people looking for sensations.

* * * *

Dozens of solemn-faced men stand gazing eagerly at small illuminated pictures of dancing girls, performing the usual gyrations incidental to hula-hula dances. They crowd around these tiny lit screens, pushing and jostling each other in order to see the comic figures. They are very earnest about it all—very much preoccupied.

And to see grown folk buying absurd little dolls of flexible rubber which can be made to contort in suggestive positions, makes one think that the whole show is a gigantic childish attempt to be bad. And still tourists believe that this is the real Paris!

* * * *

The Folies Bergeres is no more typical of Paris than is the commercialized Montmartre which is open to the tourists. It is just one of the things devised by the Parisians—a race of shopkeepers is a description of them which fits them far better than their English neighbors to whom they themselves invariably apply it—to relieve the dumb foreigner and provincial of his 'galette' (cash) and make him believe he is seeing Life.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Barbaric Prince.

Instead of showing his majesty, the sultan of Morocco, some of the majestic Christian churches in Paris, they took him to see a mosque. Now the sultan must have seen a few mosques in his day and he actually complained that he was tired of seeing mosques. Not knowing the sultan's tastes, the authorities charged with his entertainment, took him one afternoon to one of these exclusive dancings in the Bois the Boulogne as a sort of prelude of an evening in Montmartre. For a time the white-robed, last of the "barbaric" monarchs looked on at the ondulations and quiverations of the Parisian smart set. Moulay Youssef got up in disgust and called for his car. "We would not allow anything like that in Africa. I don't see how husbands allow their wives and daughters to engage in such dances. I am shocked." And with these words he left. The trip to Montmartre was postponed.

Poetic Flight.

Set aglow by a flame of inspiration, a young French poet, a student in the Sorbonne and resident of the Latin quarter, climbed a few of the steel cross beams of the Eiffel tower and began to declaim sonnets of his own making at the top of his voice. Some people stopped to listen. Others shrugged their shoulders and passed on. A policeman summoned the disciple of Minerva to come down. The poet climbed a few beams higher. The policeman went for reinforcements. A crowd had gathered. The poet refused to quit his modern Olympus and kept on reciting verse. The fire brigade was called out, but the poet climbed out of reach of the highest stream of water. By this time, streets in the vicinity had become impassable and traffic had come to a stop. The poet alternately sang, declaimed and took long pulls from a flask that he carried in his pocket. Finally he came down of his own accord. He was arrested. But when brought before the judge it was found that there is no law against singing on the streets, nor against drinking, nor against reciting verse. He was therefore fined five francs for ascending the Eiffel tower without paying the required price of admission.

Blasphemous Proposal.

France is in a difficult financial situation. "The situation is," as the politicians say, "grave, very grave." Different remedies have been proposed, but none have so far been accepted. A totaly new proposition was brought forward the other day by M. Jean Ubry, socialist deputy. He suggested that France sell the Louvre museum and its art treasures and so cover the deficit and pay its war obligations to the United States and England. Of course there is great indignation in the press over such a proposal. One paper asks who will buy our treasures, such as the Venus de Milo, the Victory of Samothrace and La Jaconda? And the answer is: "The Americans, of course." "If that be so," so continues the paper, we will have to change the last part of the Lord's Prayer and say henceforth: 'And lead us not into temptations, but deliver us from the Americans.'" It would be better, if any change is contemplated in the words of that prayer to make it read: "Deliver us Frenchmen from ridiculous proposals by absurd compatriotes," instead of saddling Americans with an offense with which they have nothing to do.

Land of Contrasts.

Here are two excerpts from a prominent London journal. Quite accidentally, no doubt, these items appeared side by side in adjacent columns. The first item was this "There was a collection of gorgeous toilettes at the third reception at Buckingham Palace. Never before was such splendor seen. In the midst of this incomparable pomp, the robe of Lady Louis Mountbatten created a sensation. The robe was entirely of silver. Thousands of fine chiseled silver pieces had gone into its make-up. It was a triumph for the couturiere and for the immensely rich lady who wore it." The other item at the side ran like this. It is from an article by Miss Whately, the well-known social worker: "The only comparison that I can make with conditions in Lanarkshire was the situation in Russian refugee camps during the frightful Volga famine. Ten thousand children are starving. The condition of the people is deepest misery, the details are too disgusting to relate." Lanarkshire is not three hours from London by train.

NEW PARLIAMENT WILL BE OPENED BY DUKE OF YORK

BY JACK MYERS.

(Copyright, 1926, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Sydney, August 2.—The Duke of York will open the first commonwealth parliament to be held in the new federal capital in Canberra next May.

The duke, accompanied by the duchess, will arrive in Australia on a mail steamer escorted by a warship. It is not yet known what route will be taken to the capital, but the federal government is preparing an itinerary which probably will be similar to that followed by the father of the present British king when he inaugurated the commonwealth 25 years ago.

All states are cooperating, and official circles express the hope that many representatives of the United States will be present at the opening of the parliament.

PLAYCRAFTERS BEGIN REHEARSALS FOR FALL

Members of the Playcrafters, a dramatic organization composed of young Atlanta boys and girls are preparing for the second annual season which will open in September at their theater in West End.

The cast consists usually of 10 girls and 15 boys, but in several of the productions which require larger casts, others are inserted in the plays.

Young boys and girls of Atlanta who are seriously interested in various phases of stage work and are of high school age are invited to communicate with Fred Stewart, at 1237 Gordon street.

There will be the regular Saturday night performances of three one-act plays with many Friday night bills, featuring novelty acts and full length dramas.

Several specials have already been booked for an early showing in the fall season, which include "A Thing Apart," an original play by Charles Willis, local playwright, whose works have been produced by the Playcrafters and the Oglethorpe Players; "Pelleas and Melisande," "Sun Up" and many other specialties.

NORWEGIAN NAMED LEADER OF WOMEN AT HOLLAND MEET

Amsterdam, Holland, August 2.—(AP)—Dr. Ellen Gleditsch, of Norway, was elected president of the International Federation of University Women today. Professor Winifred Cullis, of England; Mme. Nelly Schreiber, of Switzerland, and Prof. Joanna Westerdyk, of Holland, were chosen vice-presidents.

Dr. Gleditsch is one of the world's most famous women scientists. She specializes in radio activity and has often worked with Mme. Curie in the latter's famous radium laboratory in Paris.

ACQUITTED, BARON PLACED IN JAIL AT OWN REQUEST

Miami, Fla., August 2.—(AP)—Baron Michael Royce-Garrett, former member of the Russian nobility and husband of the woman who last Friday night flung herself from the 18th floor of the Everglades hotel here, today was committed to jail for two days at his own request by Justice William G. McRae.

The baron was granted his request following the coroner's inquest into the death of Baroness Vera Royce-Garrett, of which her husband was exonerated of all responsibility.

ATLANTA YOUTH WINS HONORS AS MARKSMAN

Fort Benning, Ga., August 2.—A. B. Thomas of 157½ Honeycut street, Atlanta, now serving in the regular army as a private in the Howitzer Company, 29th Infantry, has been awarded an official qualification as expert gunner for his excellent firing in the record target season just completed.

Thomas has been in this organization for three years, participating in demonstrations and instructions given at the infantry school to selected officers of the army of all grades from second lieutenants to brigadier generals, ordered here as students for advanced work in military technique and tactics.

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WM. BRADY.

NO USE HAVING BAD TONSILS.

A woman aged 37 has suffered with attacks of quinsy since she was 16, at least one attack each year, sometimes two. At the age of 32 she had her tonsils removed. Still she has quinsy. She says she has consulted many doctors in the attempt to prevent or abort attacks; her throat has been lanced repeatedly, but with relief only a few times. The attacks are not so severe since the tonsils were removed, but still they last a few days.

Quinsy is abscess, a "gathering" in the tissues of the throat near or around the tonsil. Like a collection of pus (matter) anywhere else, the sooner it is drained the better. "Lancing" sometimes fails to give any relief because the doctor fails to find the abscess. I have never had quinsy, but from the great suffering which attends the attack I judge I should prefer to have my throat lanced again and again rather than endure such prolonged suffering as the victim of this disease must endure if he waits for the abscess to "break." Lancing is no fun—that is, for the subject; for that matter, it isn't a task the doctor revels in, either. Yet I can think of no other medical or surgical service a doctor can render which gives so much relief as this—as a rule.

In many instances the removal of the tonsils does put an end to the annual bout with quinsy. The nest or depot of the infection, the flaring up of which brings on the attack of quinsy, is probably within the tonsil in most cases. Complete removal of the infected tonsil therefore ends the trouble.

A man aged 21 says his tonsils have been infected for over five months and asks whether operation is the only cure. He has "Ben Told" by several friends that it is dangerous to have tonsils removed, because the tonsils absorb poisons in certain diseases such as diphtheria.

Normal tonsils probably serve some such function in childhood, at any rate. The lymphoid cells they give off have some phagocytic action—they tend to destroy disease germs in the throat and mouth. Perhaps the crypts or openings in the tonsils receive disease germs and the tonsil cells destroy the germs there, the detritus being extruded from the crypts into the throat and mouth. But all this is conditional upon a normal state. When the tonsils are infected or diseased, they are dangerous to keep in the throat and the sooner they are removed the better for the individual's health.

A correspondent of indeterminate gender says the nose and throat specialists in a capital city have crowded offices all day—patients seeking removal of tonsils, adenoids, bones, growths, etc., and does this seem natural or as the Creator intended or can it be so ascribed to the bad climate, and so on? It isn't normal, not according to Hoyle, but Hoyle may be out of date. There is no denying, however, that the frenzied or born nose and throat specialists nowadays are in many cases too ready to cut something out.

A physician deplores the tremendous number of unnecessary operations performed today, particularly for the removal of tonsils "on a bet"—the bet being that the tonsils harbor the focus of infection responsible for joint disease and other systemic troubles. There are so many young men, rushing into the nose and throat specialty, this physician remarks, young men absolutely unqualified to do that work and who haven't the judgment to decide whether an operation is required or not. This physician puts it mildly, I'll tell the portion of the world that reads these articles. I refrain from citing instances of the frenzied surgery these unfit specialists do—I can't name names, and without the names the incidents seem incredible.

Readers frequently inquire about "electric" treatment in lieu of surgical removal of diseased tonsils. All I can say about that is that if my tonsils were concerned there should be no "electric" treatment.

Nowadays there is a considerable demand for X-ray treatment of simply enlarged tonsils—the thickening of the tonsils which commonly accompanies adenoids in children. For this condition X-ray treatment is often sufficient; it brings about an atrophy or shrinkage of the tonsillar and adenoid tissue. It preserves the tonsils intact. It is quite expensive, however, as compared with the cost of tonsil and adenoid operations. X-ray treatment is not only useless but even harmful in cases of infected or diseased tonsils. It is helpful only when there is no demonstrable infection in or about the tonsils.

In childhood the tonsils are normally rather large and prominent. The judgment of a family physician is better than the half-baked impulse of the born specialist in deciding whether or not the large tonsils of a child call for any treatment.

Milner Attacks Napier's Record In Railway Suit

In a campaign statement issued Monday J. H. Milner, representative in the legislature from Dodge county, who is opposing Attorney General George M. Napier for reelection, attacked the record of the attorney general in conducting the litigation between the state of Georgia and the city of Chattanooga over the opening of Broad street in that city.

Mr. Milner said the state would not get the amount of money out of the settlement that it ought to and declared that the attorney general, in issuing opinions on various phases of the litigation had revised and modified these opinions on several occasions. He said the work of the attorney general in the case is "a laughing stock."

The Dodge representative said the attorney general met defeat in the litigation. He also attacked The Constitution because of its editorial opinion expressed on bonds and other public questions.

Parachute Jumper Injured in Leap From Plane Sunday

When Jimmy Calhoun's rain-soaked and only partially opened parachute plunged him into the lake at Lakewood Amusement park Sunday afternoon it injured the arm broken in his last previous parachute jump, made in south Georgia in June, and very nearly cost his life, it was disclosed Monday when surgeons were called to reset the fractured member.

Calhoun hit the water at a faster rate of speed than customary in a parachute leap, his wife explained, and the difficulty of guiding the falling bag in its semi-open condition resulted in an awkward fall, throwing the entire force of the descent on the weak arm.

Calhoun stated that, despite the injury, he would be in condition to make a second leap into the lake at Lakewood next Sunday, when he expects to accomplish the water landing in proper technical form.

FARM RELIEF ISSUE LOOMS, SAYS GEORGE

Dublin, Ga., August 2.—(Special.) Farm relief is the greatest question before America today, declared Senator Walter F. George in an address delivered at the courthouse here this morning to an audience that crowded the building, filling all seats, with many standing in the aisles.

Senator George was introduced by Solicitor Fred Kea, who praised him for his record as a servant of the people of Georgia.

Senator George outlined the outstanding legeislation brought before the senate during his term of office, explaining these matters in detail and giving reasons for his position on each.

Changes must be made in the tariff laws and freight rates on farm products must be reduced, stated Mr. George, if relief is to be brought to the farmers of this state. In explaining his vote upon the Robinson bill he stated that he was for this measure, as it provided for the financing of farmers just as the federal reserve fund was provided for financial institutions.

In speaking of the cooperative associations he declared his faith in them, stating that his own cotton was marketed through the Georgia association.

Senator George stated that he had voted for all bills to reduce taxes, and that he was pledged to demand the payment of all debts owed this country by foreign nations.

Touching upon the world court, Senator George outlined the contents of the bill which he supported in the last session of the senate. He declared that the world court was founded on the same principles as The Hague court, of which America is the founder and to which she belongs. One of the provisions of the bill was that no matter could be carried to the court without the approval of the president and two-thirds of the senate, stated the senator, and America would have the privilege of withdrawing at any time. The bill also carried with it the provision that America would not become involved in any disagreements between other nations.

Judge John Bassett Moore, America's representative in The Hague court, aided the democratic senators in drawing this bill with its amendments, according to Senator George, and so far only three nations have accepted these regulations as set forth by America, while 45 have refused.

Senator George was most emphatic in his statement that he was opposed to war, declaring that he would never vote for war except in defense of his own country, and then only if it were impossible to settle it in any other way.

One of the big questions of the next session of congress, according to Senator George, would be the decision to be made concerning the vast sums that spent in some states to insure the election of certain candidates. He declared that this practice would soon make a mockery of democracy and would wreck popular government.

GRAND JURY INDICTS 'CRY BABY BANDITS'

New York, August 2.—Balancing accounts with gangland, which is richer by about $36,600 in August crime receipts, a grand jury Monday indicted the Oberst gang, whose members came to jail to brag of a score of crimes and stayed to weep.

The "cry baby bandits," who introduced the red eye and the sopping handkerchief as weapons of defense against prosecutors, are charged with assault and robbery. Hence, the tears have been turned off. They had feared murder indictments in addition to those charging the $8,000 Roosevelt hospital robbery.

But after two hot days of plain and fancy hi-jacking, the police are far behind in their pursuit of the bandits, courteous and rude, immaculately clad and shoddy, who have boosted the total of crime returns.

Monday's operations included the bombing of a jewelry store, the hold-ups of 19 women and a man in a $3,600 bakery pay roll robbery and the slaying of a man accused by the woman who shot him to death with pawning her jewels.

Four young hold-up men trailed an armored pay car to the Cushman & Sons Bakery plant Monday. Here they courteously but firmly insisted that the 20 employees hold their hands aloft. They examined a money bag, containing $3,600, and shook out $5.50 as "lunch money for the girls," and bowed themselves out to their gaudy automobile.

The infuriated woman who killed Andrew Ferrieri because she said he had pawned her diamonds, chose a pawnshop in Brooklyn as the scene of her crime. She too escaped. She fired upon him twice before the clerks could stop her. A moment later Ferrieri fell dead. With the automatic pistol still in her hand, the woman ran from the shop and was lost in the crowd.

PROTESTANTS ASK FAIRER DEALING AT SPAIN'S HAND

(Copyright, 1926, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Madrid, August 2.—Taking advantage of widespread enthusiasm in Spain over the reception accorded Catholic visitors to the Eucharistic Congress by the predominantly Protestant population of America, Spanish Protestants are appealing to the directorate for more liberal treatment.

The constitution of the country provides that while the Roman Catholic religion should be the official religion, other sects should be allowed freedom of worship, but the nature of tolerance has been strictly interpreted. For instance, it is impossible for other than Catholic churches to inscribe their names on their buildings or to use bells calling worshippers to church, or to hold public processions. Despite these limitations, quite a number of non-Catholic sects have reached a flourishing condition.

What is to the Spanish mind the dramatic character of the welcome accorded the Eucharistic Congress visitors, where Protestants collaborated with Catholics, has aroused the Spanish protestants to appeal for more tolerance in their direction.

SUBSCRIPTION LISTS OPEN TO DEALERS PICNIC

Subscription lists to the entertainment fund for the joint picnic and outing of all food dealers and their employees, to be held at Lakewood park August 18, will close at the luncheon meeting of the joint outing committee at the chamber of commerce Thursday. Subscriptions will be accepted until then through J. L. McCord, Ray Bergern, secretary of the Atlanta Retail Food Dealers, or other members of the committee.

Definite plans for the entertainment program for the day will be laid at the Thursday meeting as soon as the total amount of the entertainment fund is reported. J. Edward Raley will head the entertainment committee.

FINAL TRIBUTE GIVEN CUMMINS

Des Moines, Iowa, August 2.—(AP) With simple funeral rites, Iowa late today paid final tribute to Senator Albert B. Cummins and laid him to rest in Woodland cemetery with the nation and the state honoring him. He was eulogized as one of the state's greatest sons.

A number of his colleagues in the senate and house, state political leaders and friends attended the home services, conducted by the Rev. Charles S. Medbury, pastor of the University Church of Christ.

Only the distinguished personages and Dr. Medbury's brief reference to Senator Cummins leadership in national affairs, set the services apart as attending the passing of a man who had guided the destinies of the state for six years and had a commanding voice in the councils of the country for 18 years.

The services concluded, men who had worked for years with Senator Cummins gathered to select a man, on Friday, to finish his unexpired term in the senate.

A call for a special republican convention Friday was issued tonight by Willis L. Stern, of Logan, chairman of the state committee, and at the same time a committee was named to frame an official tribute to Senator Cummins.

Sentiment indicated that the convention will, through the memory of Senator Cummins, emphasize the new unity of the party and decide upon a candidate acceptable to each faction. This outcome is the hope of the new party organization, privately expressed today.

Court Decision Gives Support To Rum Drives

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, August 2.—Efforts of the coast guard to stamp out rum-running in American territorial waters by vessels of American registry are given strong support, the department of justice announced today in an opinion of the United States circuit court of appeals reversing a Connecticut federal district court ruling and holding that American vessels engaged in illicit trade may be searched and seized wherever found.

On December 7, 1924, the American vessel, the "Underwriter," was seized by the coast guard on the high seas 35 miles off Block Island and was found to be carrying a cargo of 811 cases of liquor for which it had no transportation permit. In the federal district court it was contended that the coast guard has no right to seize a vessel on the high seas regardless of its nationality and the judge agreed that the seizure was unlawful.

The circuit court of appeals, however, held that the right of jurisdiction over vessels owned by a nation's subjects authorizes the detention and commands the capture of the vessels found on the high seas where there is reason to believe that the law is being violated. The same opinion ruled that the extension of the coast guard's authority to foreign vessels coming within twelve miles of the shore was not intended to limit its authority over American boats wherever they might be found.

FARM LOAN OFFICERS MEET IN COLUMBIA

Columbia, S. C., August 2.—(Special)—With several hundred delegates here representing practically every county in Georgia and Florida, the third annual session of presidents and secretaries of national farm loan associations began today with Dr. J. B. Game, of Tallahassee, presiding. The main feature of opening session was the address of W. E. Arnold, of the Federal Land bank.

The afternoon session was devoted to a round-table discussion of general problems and the day was completed with a banquet at the Jefferson hotel.

Off the Reel

The Mobbing of Justice

BY SAM W. SMALL.

The crime problem is the hereditary goitre on the neck of every civilization. Where society is unorganized there is no crime. When every man is sui paris, the arbiter of his own actions, common law does not exist; but when men enter social and civil compacts a law code that commands what is right and prohibits what is wrong is a necessity.

Government is organized to express and enforce the will of sovereignty whether personal or popular. Its classic definition in America was first written as it remains to this day in the constitution of Virginia: "That government is or ought to be instituted for the common benefit, protection and security of the people, nation or community."

Courts, therefore, are necessary institutions of government and have three functions—to enforce rights, protect property and punish crime.

General Toombs, in the Georgia convention of 1877 said: "Six hundred and more years ago our rude ancestors on an island in the Thames forced the sovereign to write into the charter of their liberties in one line of bad Latin that we will deny to none, we will delay to none, we will sell to none, right and justice, and we ought to make as many courts as are necessary to carry out those grand principles."

Ready access to open courts and the speedy operation of the machinery of justice are the chief safeguards of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness—of the safety and tranquillity of the community.

The American Bar association and many other reputable voices in the nation are decrying the manifest failures of the courts to function with speed and precision, especially on matters of crime.

Designing politicians and ranting demagogues years ago excited the people into a mania for electing every public officer, from president to dog-catcher, at the polling booth.

The election of judges here in Georgia went into the pot with the balance of the brew, with the consequence that our judiciary is more a political than judicial system. It is the victim of the personalisms and prejudices of the caucus and the hustings. It needs the reform represented by careful, responsible selection and independence of the ward boss and the cross-roads Catoline.

BANKS IN TAMPA JOIN IN MERGER

Tampa, Fla., August 2.—(AP)—A triple bank consolidation, involving the elimination of N. A. Perry as a factor in local financial circles, is announced here.

Banks concerned in the merger were the Merchants and Mechanics bank, the Bank of Sulphur Springs, the Latin-American Bank of Ybor City, First National bank, Citizens Bank and Trust company and Exchange National bank.

Under the plan as announced by J. A. Griffin, president of the Exchange bank, the Merchants and Mechanics bank becomes a branch of the Citizens Bank and Trust company; the Bank of Sulphur Springs affiliates with the Exchange National and the Latin-American bank has been absorbed by the First National.

Mr. Griffin declared that the consolidation would result in a stronger banking situation in Tampa. Mr. Perry issued a statement in connection with the merger. He said he thanked the public for its support of the so-called Perry banks.

The combined capital of the three banks taken over is about $200,000, said an announcement from the Citizens Bank and Trust company. This is the second combination of capital in Tampa within the last few months. On the former occasion the Bank of Commerce was absorbed by the Citizens Bank and Trust company.

Start Hay Fever Prevention Now

Medical Bulletin Advises Commencing Treatment Before Mid-August

"Now is the time to start your battle to prevent hay fever, rather than in August when the disease is under way," says a bulletin issued by the publicity bureau of the Indiana State Medical Association.

This advice is particularly timely for those who will take advantage of the remedy which is based on Dr. W. I. Fugate's discovery of the basic cause of this distressing malady.

So effective is this remedy in removing the cause of hay fever and asthma, and preparing the system to resist the ravages of these two distressing maladies, that Mrs. John Hendricks, wife of the manager of the Cincinnati baseball team, writes:

"After having hay fever and asthma for a period of twenty-five years, and trying practically every known method to cure this trouble, I purchased a bottle of Dr. Fugate's Hay Fever and Asthma Remedy on August 8, 1924. I was immediately relieved and after finishing one bottle have not been troubled with either the hay fever or asthma since that time.

"Since then I have been instrumental in many of my friends purchasing this remedy. I can very sincerely recommend it to any one subject to hay fever or asthma."

Dr. Fugate's Hay Fever and Asthma Remedy excels because it strikes at the root of the disease instead of merely treating symptoms. Gives best results if taken in advance of the season. Contains no narcotics or habit-forming drugs. Sold only under the guarantee to return money if two bottles do not give relief. In many cases a single bottle gives lasting immunity. Luke Rader, the evangelist, in a trio.

Rev. Luke Rader, pastor of the Central Baptist church, will preach on "What Price Liberty," to be followed Wednesday night by "What Price Victory," on Thursday night by "What Price Glory" and Friday

In case of rain before sundown, services will be held in the Central Baptist church, on Cooper street.

Any Instrument Eligible in Contest At Lakewood Park

Any instrument from a mouth organ to a bass fiddle will be eligible to the city-wide children's music contest to be held at the children's matinee at Lakewood Amusement park Wednesday afternoon, it was announced Monday by Oscar Mills, secretary of the Southeastern Fair association which is sponsoring the contest.

A committee of judges prominent in Atlanta musical circles will hear each group of instruments separately and pick one from each group to be eligible for membership in the children's band of Atlanta's "queen of curls." Free admission to all amusements of the park on next Wednesday will be awarded to each of the winners in addition to free admission to the photoplay "The Ten Commandments," which is being shown in the airdome the first three nights of the week.

If Wednesday afternoon is fair, the music contest will be held in the airdome at 5:30 o'clock. If it is rainy the contest will be held in the dance casino, where "The Ten Commandments" contest was held last week.

Races for girls 10 years of age and under and 14 years of age and under will be held on the midway at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, with free tickets to all the amusements in the park as prizes to first and second place winners.

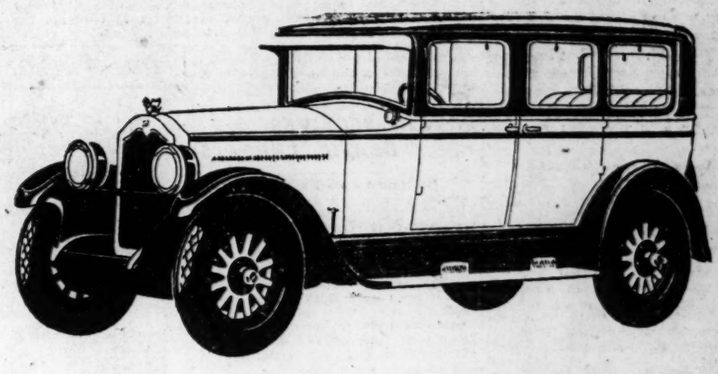

WATERMELON CUTTING FOR RIVAL CLASSES

As a gesture of friendship from a victor to a vanquished foe, the James L. Mayson class of Grace Methodist church will entertain the Alpha class of Wesley Memorial church at a watermelon cutting at Lakewood Amusement park Friday evening, it was announced at the joint meeting of the two classes held at Grace church Sunday.

Lakewood was selected as the location in order that one of the exposition buildings of the park might be available in emergency and the outing held "rain or shine," Mr. Mayson announced.

The James L. Mayson class, taught by the city attorney, last Sunday won an attendance contest held for six weeks with the Alpha class, taught by Marvin Williams, pastor of Wesley Memorial. The Mayson class registered 960 in attendance against 612 for the Alpha class at the last Sunday service. More than 500 members of the two classes attended the joint meeting Sunday.

Voters in Southwest Ballot Today on Klan And Prohibition Issues

Missouri, Oklamoha and Kansas Vote in Primaries; Curtis and Paulen Victories Conceded.

Kansas City, August 2.—(AP)—Voters of Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas will go to the polls tomorrow in statewide primaries to choose candidates for the general election in November. The prohibition question has been brought to the fore in Missouri, while the Ku Klux Klan has been made an issue in several of the contests in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Partly cloudy weather for Missouri and Kansas and unsettled weather in Oklahoma was forecast tonight.

In all three of the states, nominations are to be made for the United States senatorship, and in Missouri the unexpired term of the late Selden P. Spencer is to be filled this fall. The incumbents, Georgia S. Williams, Missouri; John W. Harreld, Oklahoma, and Charles Curtis, Kansas, all republicans, are candidates for renomination. Senator Williams seeks nominations for both the short and the long term.

State and County Tickets.

Oklahoma and Kansas nominate complete state and county tickets, including governors, but in Missouri there are only two or three of the less important state offices to be filled.

The prohibition question has attracted much attention in Missouri, particularly in the senatorial contests of both parties. Within the past few days, charges were issued from the Williams camp, based on an affidavit by Ernest D. Willson, for a time a worker for the David M. Proctor organization, charging collusion between the Proctor (dry) forces and the Blodgett Priest (wet) forces to defeat Williams. These charges were promptly denied, and Mr. Priest declared he had been offered appointments if he would withdraw from the republican senatorial contest.

In Oklahoma, four democratic candidates seek nomination for the place of Governor M. E. Trapp, ruled ineligible by the supreme court to succeed himself. Included in the number are J. B. Robertson, former Governor W. M. Darnell, farmer; O. A. Cargill, mayor of Oklahoma City, and Senator Johnston. Five democrats, including J. C. Walton, deposed governor of Oklahoma, and Congressman Elmer Thomas, seek the opportunity to oppose Senator Harreld in the general election.

Curtis Victory Conceded.

In Kansas, the republican senatorial nomination is conceded to the incumbent, Senator Curtis, republican floor leader. Governor Ben S. Paulen seems assured of the nomination on the republican ticket. He made few speeches in his campaign and closed tonight by going to a circus. For the democratic gubernatorial nomination—one of the three contests on the democratic state ticket—Governor Paulen's immediate predecessor, Governor Jonathan Davis, is opposed by Donald Muir.

Interest in the Kansas races centered in the races for attorney general and secretary of state, since these officials are ex-officio members of the state charter board, and this board for more than two years has steadfastly refused to grant a charter in Kansas for the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan of Georgia.

Assistant Attorney General William S. Smith, one of five candidates for the attorney generalship, and Frank J. Ryan, incumbent, one of four candidates for the secretary of state position, are outspoken opponents of the klan.

THREE CANDIDATES IN VIRGINIA RACE.

Norfolk, Va., August 2.—(AP)—Ending one of the most extensive campaigns in the history of the second district, three candidates for the democratic nomination for congress in the primary tomorrow took their fight into the eleventh hour tonight. Representative Joseph T. Deal, who is seeking reelection, is opposed for the nomination by Colonel George C. Cabell, of Portsmouth, and former State Senator Alfred C. Smith, the last named of whom was unseated at the last session of the legislature and who also was deprived of his certificate to practice law in Virginia on the ground it had been improperly obtained.

BOYKIN RECEIVES DEATH THREATS

blanket charge of suspicion for later questioning in connection with the crime.

6. Disclosure that five men who have been ordered apprehended by the solicitor were members of Floyd Woodward's notorious "bunco syndicate," lending color to reports that Boykin is working on a theory that Donaldson's old enemies of the gang he scattered and jailed plotted his death.

The total number of arrests since the investigation was launched after the finding of the body of Donaldson, riddled with buckshot, in a room in one of Atlanta's most fashionable hotels, late Monday night grew to seven. Tosh was taken in custody shortly after 9 o'clock by City Detective John C. Davis, who is working on the case under the direction of Acting Chief of Detectives T. O. Sturdivant.

Tosh is being held at police headquarters on a blanket charge of suspicion in connection with the murder of Donaldson, but was not questioned Monday night, according to police. He is expected to be extensively grilled this morning.

Woman Questioned.

In the custody of county policemen, Captain A. T. Butler and Charlie E. Lyle, Mrs. Wilson was returned to the city late Monday afternoon from Columbus, Ga., where she was arrested Sunday afternoon following advice from T. O. Sturdivant, of the Atlanta police department.

She was carried immediately to the office of Solicitor Boykin in the Fulton county courthouse, where she underwent a brief questioning and later was carried to the Fulton tower, where she is being held.

Solicitor Boykin's written statement of Monday is the first formal utterance he has made concerning the Donaldson case since its inception. Heretofore he has been reticent, refusing to discuss details of the slaying or his position in the matter.

Formal Statement.

His full statement follows:

"A most dastardly crime has been committed in the assassination of Bert Donaldson, cunningly planned and executed. When his life was taken the law was murdered and justice trampled under foot. He was pursued the organized gamblers, bootleggers and bunco gangsters and he was slowly but surely bringing them to justice.

"The assassination of Donaldson is a challenge to all authority. His assassination is conceded to be the boldest and most brutal murder ever committed in the history of Fulton county. Who is safe if the honest and upright citizens of the community do not arouse themselves over this situation? No means should be spared to track down and bring to justice the gangsters and murderers who took the life of Bert Donaldson. I appeal to all sheriffs, special agents for railroads, police departments, hotel detectives and all other law enforcement agencies of this state to assist me in apprehending these murderers.

Appeals for Support.

"This city is absolutely honeycombed with vice and crime of all kinds. Citizens of Atlanta, I appeal to you to arouse yourselves, for I, here and now, warn you that if you do not do this the criminals will become bolder and bolder and this fair city and community will be engulfed with crime. We have reached a crisis where our very civilization is imperilled. I am getting full cooperation from the Atlanta police department and all law enforcement agencies for which I am deeply grateful."

Admits Threats.

Solicitor Boykin reluctantly admitted when questioned by Constitution reporters that the mails have brought threats against his life and warnings for him to cease his activities to bring the slayers to justice.

It also was learned he has been threatened with death on the streets and that Saturday night several men were discovered lurking about the solicitor's home in a suspicious manner. They fled when his presence was discovered.

Mrs. Boykin is terrorized, the solicitor said, but he declared he would continue the investigation regardless of the threats against him. He said he had received full cooperation of the sheriff's force and the city police department. Sheriff James I. Lowry and Acting Assistant Chief of Police A. J. Holcomb Monday night pledged their full support to Boykin in the work.

"We are with him 100 per cent to bring the murderers of Donaldson to justice," they said.

While Solicitor Boykin was silent on the matter, it appeared probable that federal authorities will be enlisted in the search on the basis of the fact that the mails have been used to threaten the life of Boykin.

Simultaneous with the bringing of Mrs. Wilson to Atlanta came news from Macon that the two Atlanta women acquaintances of H. L. and C. K. Hughes had been placed under arrest by City Detective Gus Carroll in a downtown hotel in Macon.

Name Tattooed on Arm.

The two gave their names as Mrs. J. C. (Mabel) Jones, of 200 Spring street, an intimate acquaintance of Claud K. (Mickey) Hughes, and Mrs. J. W. (Jimmie) Cooke, 105 1-2 North Pryor street, a friend of Hughes' brother, H. L. Hughes. The nickname of C. K. Hughes, "Mickey," is said to be tattooed on the left arm of Mrs. Jones.

An extraordinarily large assortment of baggage containing a quantity of clothing and other objects said to be the property of the Hughes brothers, found in the custody of the two Atlanta women, is said to have revealed clues that may have a vital bearing on the case. The women are being held pending advice from Atlanta authorities.

Following the identification of one of the Hughes brothers as a man who had been seen in the fashionable hotel just prior to the assassination of the investigator, detectives are said to have visited the Hughes home and discovered the disappearance of several suit cases of clothing.

A significant development of Monday was the fact that newspapermen learned that five additional men ordered arrested were members of the old Floyd Woodward "bunco syndicate." While the solicitor declined to comment on this fact, it appeared to support the theory that Donaldson may have been slain by enemies connected with the great swindling system he broke up a number of years ago.

Included in those held in connection with the case is Donald Taylor, 19, said to be a sign painter working in College Park, who was taken in custody early Monday morning by Call Officers J. L. Hughes and W. C. Duncan in a rooming house on Whitehall street. Taylor is being held on a blanket charge of suspicion at police headquarters.

LIFE THREATENED

Solicitor General John A. Boykin, who admitted Tuesday, when questioned by The Constitution, that he has received several anonymous threats against his life through the mails.

Held in Murder Probe

MRS. JACK WILSON,

$253,000 Funds To Be Explained At Probe Today

Chicago, August 2.—(AP)—Statements from Frank L. Smith, republican senate nominee, and his campaign manager, Allen F. Moore, of Monticello, explaining Smith's expenditure of $253,000 in his primary contest, will be offered for the second time to the senate campaign funds committee when it reconvenes here tomorrow to resume its inquiry into political expenditures.

Both statements will be accepted by the committee, Chairman James A. Reed, democrat, Missouri, has intimated. They have been altered since the committee refused at the outset of the hearings to let them go into the record and portions regarded as controversial have been eliminated.

Tomorrow's session may begin with Senator Reed constituting the entire committee, for Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, is detained at home by business, and Senators McNary, republican, Oregon; Goff, republican, West Virginia, and King, democrat, Utah, have not attended any of the sessions. King may arrive during the week.

Fred Lundin, Illinois political leader, and a reputed lieutenant of Governor Small's organization, is ready to testify tomorrow and Samuel Insull, public utilities magnate, whose contribution of $175,000 to various primary groups already has been revealed, is to be asked whether he made other donations than the committee has learned about.

The hearing was begun a week ago today and is expected to be terminated this week.

VOTE RECOUNT MAY BE ABANDONED.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, Ill., August 2.—Despite charges that 50,000 votes had been stolen in the democratic primary here last April, watchers who were keeping tally for the faction headed by former Mayor Carter H. Harrison and former Governor Edward F. Dunne, were withdrawn today because of insufficiency of funds. Unless volunteers come forward to serve without pay, the recount will be abandoned.

Robert P. Burkhalter, attorney for petitioners who claim they were robbed of nominations, said today:

"The recount thus far has disclosed that thousands of votes were stolen for the so-called 'regular democratic' candidates. On the basis of frauds uncovered to date, we estimate that more than 50,000 votes were stolen from our candidates.

"This is an alarming situation and shows the extent to which ballot stealing can be carried. The voters of Chicago should awaken to the fact that they are being disfranchised. The 'system' is so thoroughly entrenched that it will require concerted and determined action to eliminate the ballot thievery that is undermining our system of government."

MARTIN KILLING BRINGS U. S. WARDEN

Hundreds of complaints have been received by federal game wardens concerning the slaughter of what has been described as "a wagon load" of martins on Capitol avenue. Residents of the avenue, in the immediate vicinity of the roost selected by thousands of migrating martins, declared that the presence of the birds created a most unpleasant situation, from a standpoint of cleanliness and health and quiet.

Police were summoned to the scene, and with shotguns succeeded in killing a few hundred of the birds. Although residents declare the "slaughter" did not result in abatement of the nuisance, it did result in a storm of protests from every quarter of the city except in the neighborhood occupied by the martins.

Press accounts carried the story of the martin slaying all over the country, with the result that protests have poured into the game department by the hundreds.

Washington Wires.

"Proceed promptly to Atlanta," Director Denmead wired Mr. Whitehead, "to investigate report of martin killing by police. Advise officers it is contrary to federal law and suggest driving birds away by throwing water through fire hose or roosting birds off by shooting roman candles through the trees after dark, hanging bright or noisy objects, as bells or tin cans in trees. Blank black powder shotgun shells also should be tried."

The police department, with the aid of Mr. Whitehead, is considering effective means of ridding the neighborhood of the martins without any casualties.

An old legend is that an ancient drunkard placed a curse on the spot where the martins roost years ago because he was thrown out of a tavern which then stood there for failure to pay his bill. The martins were supposed to return periodically to make life miserable for the community. This story is doubted, however, and it is said that the martins probably were in the habit of roosting in the spot years before the erection of the old tavern or the birth of the old drunkard.

CLAIRE DUX MARRIES CHARLES H. SWIFT, MILLIONAIRE

Chicago, August 2.—(AP)—Green and yellow decorations of the University of Chicago chapel, the bride's peach chiffon gown and her bouquet of roses and lilies dashed with the only color of a gray day, for the wedding this afternoon of Claire Dux, opera favorite, and Charles H. Swift, millionaire packer and art patron.

The service, read by Dr. T. G. Soares, head of the department of practical theology of the university, closed to the bride the career in grand opera which won her decorations from three European rulers and which brought her to America four years ago as a prima donna of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

She has said she would quit the stage upon her marriage, but only Sunday was she finally able to do so, when the San Francisco Opera company released her from contracts calling for her appearance there this season, and accepted Miss Florence Macbeth as a substitute.

The wedding, at the Joseph Bond chapel of the university at 5:30, was attended by friends of the pair, after which relatives were guests at a reception and dinner.

Harold H. Swift, the groom's brother, served him as best man, while W. K. Winterberg, of San Francisco, gave the bride away and Mrs. Winterberg attended her.

The bridegroom, who is 53, is vice president of the packing company which bears his father's name and was a lieutenant colonel in the world war. He met his bride several years ago at a luncheon at Chicago's stock yards.

"SARI" HAS PLOT, BEAUTIFUL MUSIC

All who can hum "Softly Through the Summer Night," "Love's Own Sweet Song" and "My Faithful Stradivara" know that. These three gems brought encore after encore Monday night, and to cap the climax of excellence Louise Hunter wove in "Je Suis Titania" in French, singing it so gloriously that she was called again and then took many curtain bows.

Then there's plenty of the peppy little tunes one can't get along without in musical comedy. Of course you'll remember "Doing the Hot Sot Za," that weird Hungarian Charleston dance that Louise Hunter, in the title role, teaches to Gaston, who is in love with her and probably can be excused on that ground. "Pick A Husband," "Paris," and "Marry Me" are a few other catchy airs that caught the fancy of the firstnighters.

Miss Hunter and Louis Templeman and Lou Powers were the shining lights of "Sari." Templeman duplicating the triumph he scored in the role of the major general in "Pirates of Penzance." Miss Hunter, as the little Hungarian gypsy girl burdened with the care of half a dozen little brothers and sisters, a father who was a genius and a brother who was another, never appeared to greater advantage.

Hunter Acts Well.

Her singing was just what Atlanta has grown to expect from Louise Hunter, and in addition she was called upon to do some very subtle acting, acting that embraced both comedy and tragedy, and she rose nobly to the occasion.

Louis Templeman, as Pali Racz, leader of the gypsies, was ideally cast, putting a deal of fire and emotion into the difficult role of the man who represented the old school and who was forced to bow his head before the march of "triumphant youth."

Lou Powers, as Cadeaux, official "shadow" of the Count Mustary, afforded many a good, hearty guffaw for relief from the prevailing tone of sadness sounded by Templeman. Maybe he was spurred in his efforts to "get over big" by the fact that his young daughter played the part of one of Pali Racz's children and kept an eye on her daddy through the performance.

Gorgeous Effects.

The Hungarian and Parisian scenes in "Sari" afforded Manager Lewis Hasse's scenic artists probably their greatest opportunity for gorgeous effects, and they turned out stage sets so colorful and so perfect that the audience was amazed at their beauty.

Mary Patterson was a dainty and charming Joska Fekete; William McLeod was an acceptable Gaston. Arthur Burckley was applauded as Laczi, and Francis Tyler and Leslie McLeod were warmly received in the roles of the counts of Estragon and Mustary respectively.

NORRIS, INC., TO HOLD ANNUAL BARBECUE

Officers and employees of Norris, Inc., will hold their annual barbecue Tuesday, August 10, at "Sirron Gardens," Chamblee, the country home of A. L. Norris, vice president of the company, it was announced Monday.

Invitations have been sent to all members of the Retail Druggists' association of Atlanta and to all dealers in Norris' candies, it was stated by Miss Mable Loeb, advertising manager, who is in charge of the arrangements.

Automobiles will leave at 12:30 o'clock from the main office of Norris, Inc., in the Witt building on Peachtree street, to carry all guests to the barbecue.

Bond Commission And School Board Meet Postponed

The called meeting of the board of education to which members of the city bond commission were invited and which was to have been held this afternoon was postponed Monday, according to Dr. R. M. Eubanks, president of the board of education.

Dr. Eubanks stated that William A. Hancock, member of the commission and chairman of the school contact committee, is out of the city and it was specially desired that he be present. The meeting will not be held until Mr. Hancock returns, Dr. Eubanks stated.

Although no definite announcement was made as to the date of the meeting, Dr. Eubanks stated that it will not be called until after the regular meeting of the board of education, August 10. Mr. Hancock is expected to return to the city about August 15.

The meeting was called in an effort to obtain a conciliation between the two bodies on the question of employing architects for drawing plans for school buildings provided in the $8,000,000 bond issue. Dr. Eubanks stated Monday that members of council will be invited to the meeting when it is called.

To Hold Smoker.

Woodrow Wilson chapter No. 1, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, will hold a smoker tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Ansley hotel, as a feature of a membership drive now in progress. Reports of the various teams will be made at the meeting and other matters of importance to the chapter will be discussed.

LOOT WORTH $1,500 TAKEN BY BURGLARS

Jewelry and clothing valued at $1,500 was stolen from the home of Mrs. G. T. Pierce, at 39 Ponders avenue early Monday night, according to police records.

Detectives J. J. Chester and D. E. Blair, arrested Will Long, negro, Monday night on Piedmont avenue carrying a sack on his back. The officers opened the sack and found a large quantity of electrical fixtures and clothing. Some of the clothing has been identified as stolen from an automobile and officers urge others who have lost clothing or electrical fixtures to call at police station and identify their losses.

The negro is being held, pending a further investigation.

Call Officers C. E. Ford and M. C. Williams, were summoned Monday morning to 497 Hill street, the home of L. J. Connally, by neighbors who stated that they saw three negroes enter the house through the rear door. After an investigation it was found that the house was completely ransacked and a large quantity of clothing was missing. Mrs. Connally has been ill in a local hospital for several days and no one was in the home at the time.

Carroll Furniture company at 119 Whitehall street reported that several panes were torn from a rear window but the burglars were evidently frightened away as nothing was reported missing.

People Are Learning the Great Advantage of Paying Cash for Their Furniture

Stephen Philibosian Points Out the Growing Popularity of This Logical and Economical Plan.

The buying public is learning more and more the advantages of paying cash as they go along, and are thus escaping the burden of debt and the high premium one must always pay for the privilege of having merchandise charged.

That this is true is best evidenced by the fact that in addition to paying cash for groceries, for drugs, clothing and other necessities of life, the idea has extended to furniture.

A few years ago the grocery stores' great bulk of business was on credit. It was not only an unsatisfactory business for the store keeper, but the customer, himself, seldom could tell how much his groceries cost, and at the end of the month there was always an "explosion" over bills, bills, bills. Such a condition applied also to the drug store, the clothing store and others.

Enter the Cash Store With Lower Prices.

Then came the cash grocery store, the cash drug store and the cash clothing store with amazingly lower prices. The public at first resented the idea of paying cash and said such a policy wouldn't last, but the difference in price soon overcame the inconvenience of paying money with each purchase.

Today a great majority of people pay cash for such merchandise and are saving many dollars each month by such a policy.

Can Save on Furniture the Same Way.

The same reasons that enabled the American family to reduce their food bills by paying cash, enable them to save by paying cash for furniture.

A year or so ago, Stephen Philibosian announced that he would open a store to sell household furnishings for cash. At the same time he promised the public a big saving in price by this policy.

When Philibosian announced such a plan ninety per cent of the public was buying such merchandise on terms. Many people, who were amply able to pay cash, bought on credit from force of habit.

Tremendous Savings Are Apparent.

Day after day, week after week, and month after month, Stephen Philibosian, Inc., has preached the economy of paying cash for furniture, rugs and draperies, and anyone today, who goes to their store and sees the quality of their merchandise and the amazingly low prices cannot help but be convinced that there is logic and sound business principle in the plan.

"It has been somewhat of a slow process, but people are gradually awakening to the economy of our plan," says Mr. Philibosian.

"The thing that is selling the public on the wisdom of paying cash is an actual visit to our new store."

Seeing is Believing.

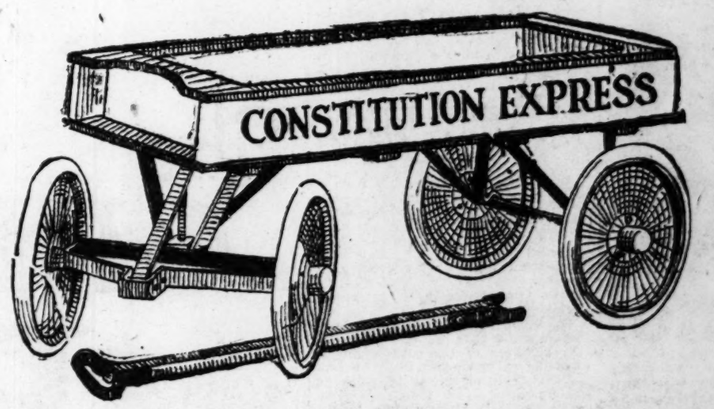

"Ladies visit our store and see for themselves that every claim we have ever made regarding lower prices is true and they are instrumental in convincing their friends.

"Our patronage is steadily growing and our cash plan is enabling the average family to own much better furniture and home furnishings."

Mr. Philibosian has recently returned from the furniture market where he made extensive purchases and this beautiful new furniture can now be seen on display at the store at 581 Peachtree street, adjoining the Georgian Terrace.—(adv.)

FRENCH FINANCIAL PLANS EXAMINED

Paris, August 2.—(AP)—The senate finance committee today began its examination of Premier Poincare's financial measures, which were passed by the chamber of deputies Saturday.

Appearing before the committee, the premier requested that all haste be made in voting the bill, and this met with the committee's approval. Consequently, it will deliberate throughout the night, and Senator Cheron hopes to prepare a report in time to have the bill come up for discussion in the senate tomorrow afternoon. It is probable the bill will be voted before the session is adjourned.

Meanwhile the French cabinet has approved the proposal of the premier that an independent sinking fund be created to redeem the state's obligations and handle the national defense bonds, forming the greatest part of the floating debt.

Tobacco Trust Is Basis.

Commercialization of the tobacco monopoly is the basis upon which the amortization fund is to be created. An effort will be made to have the sinking fund plan approved by the chamber and senate before the end of the week. Then both houses will be convened as a national assembly at Versailles August 10 to make the statute governing the sinking fund a fundamental law of the republic, so that it cannot be altered by any ordinary legislative act.

The franc was stronger on the Paris exchange today. It opened at 40.13 to the dollar and 195 to the pound and gained steadily, closing at 37.95 to the dollar and 184.50 to the pound.

Premier Poincare, informed of the rise in the franc as he left Elysee palace, remarked:

INTEREST PAID TO UNITED STATES.

Washington, August 2.—(AP)—France today paid $10,000,000 to the United States as its interest payment on its war supplies debt.

The interest payment, which was due August 1, was paid in cash. If the French-American debt agreement goes into effect the payment today will apply as the first payment which was due under that agreement in June.

At the treasury today it was stated no word has been received from France as to her intentions of taking up the debt agreement for ratification.

It was the opinion here, however, that Fra.. e would do well to act at an early date on the debt settlement. It was believed that France eventually will have to obtain considerable outside credit.

Scenes at Opening of Mammoth New Department Store On Monday When 30,000 Atlantans Thronged Building

Top, some of the thousands of parked automobiles and a corner of the great crowd which were to be seen all day Monday around the great new department store of Sears, Roebuck & Co. on Ponce de Leon avenue. The store was formally opened for the service of Atlanta and the southeast on Monday morning.

Lower left, facade of the magnificent new 13-story building with a few of the thousands of visitors who inspected it and the marvelous range of merchandise it contained on Monday.

More than 30,000 visitors passed through the doors of the new Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s building on Ponce de Leon avenue during Monday—the greatest throng ever to attend an opening of a branch house in the history of the business, and easily the greatest ever assembled for a similar event in the city of Atlanta.

Braving drenching rains and threatening storms, thousands of automobiles and pedestrians poured into Ponce de Leon avenue from every conceivable direction. All roads lead to the Sears-Roebuck building and street cars seemed to have been used for no other purpose than to bear those who had awaited this event since first announcement was made of the great concern's advent—and who had made their intentions doubly firm while they watched the giant home of the firm mount skyward in almost unbelievably short time.

That area of Ponce de Leon avenue from North Boulevard down past Glen Iris avenue and up eastward on the other side to Bonaventure has seen some terrific crowds in its day, while thousands milled about in an effort to see some attraction at Spiller's field—such as the "little world's series" between the Fort Worth and Atlanta baseball teams last year, but not in its history has such a sustained traffic congestion made itself felt—for from the time the great store flung open its doors until the last curious visitor heard the big portals slam behind him last night, it took a round dozen sturdy policemen to direct the surge of automobiles and humans, to make way for those who wished to come and those who were finally willing to go.

Colorful Crowds.

And it was a colorful throng, seeming not to dread the possible dampening of summer finery. It represented a complete cross-section of Atlanta's life, interested in possible purchases in days to come. Leaders of business and captains of industry, gratified to see another such monument to Atlanta's progress a vibrant reality, came to see and admire.

At 1 o'clock Monday afternoon 19,106 persons had visited the store, and in spite of drenching rains and threatening storms, before the doors were closed at 6 o'clock, more than 30,000 had inspected the huge plant, which was formally opened to the public Monday morning.

Manager L. H. Beall declared that he was more than gratified with the interest Atlantans displayed Monday in the Sears, Roebuck building, and from indications on the opening date, almost as large a crowd is expected at the plant today.

Traffic Police Required.

As early as 7 o'clock Monday morning hundreds gathered on the broad sidewalks in front of the building in order to be among the first to inspect the store and its limitless stock of merchandise. Automobiles lined the curb and before 10 o'clock, the hour of opening, several traffic cops were necessary to manage the stream of automobiles and pedestrians, pouring from both directions on Ponce de Leon avenue.

Visitors crowded every department of the retail store throughout the day. A heavy volume of business was transacted, and the dispatch which has marked all of the company's operations in Atlanta was apparent in the big store Monday, evidencing the careful training which has been given to 1,200 employees of the local establishment, most of whom are original Atlanta residents.

Mail Orders Pour In.

And while the retail store handled an almost unbelievable volume of business, the mail order departments kept busy throughout the day. Where a thousand orders were expected four thousand and more poured in through the mails.

Great trucks, loaded to the guard rails with merchandise of every description marked for shipment to all parts of the southeast, formed a continuous procession from the loading platforms of the building to shipping depots. The business of the mail order department passed all expectations of the Sears, Roebuck officials, as did the activities of the retail department.

The huge store was thrown open to the thousands of visitors. They were allowed to inspect the huge stock of goods at close hand. The clerks were remarkably accommodating and there was a friendliness about the whole store that made one feel at home at once, and not mind asking the questions which as a rule fail to fall from the lips of the timid soul.

Mayor Hoists Flag.

At 10 o'clock Monday morning Mayor Walter A. Sims, with Mr. Beall, Charles M. Lafferty, manager of the retail sales department, officials of the B-W Construction company, which had the major contract for the building, and of George C. Nimmons company, architectural concern, which designed the structure, assembled while the city's chief executive hoisted the flag to a height of 232 feet above the heads of the thousands on the ground.

The flag which waved in the breeze high above the majestic building is one of the largest in Atlanta. It was impossible to raise it from the ground or roof, so great was its size, and it was necessary to go to the very base of the flag pole itself before the beautiful emblem could be sent whirring skyward to fly in a breeze which frequently during the day took on the speed of a brisk wind.

Special guests at the opening included General R. E. Wood, vice-president, in charge of retail stores, who expressed extreme gratification over the wonderful response of the public. Other prominent guests of the opening were W. H. Alexander, manager of all retail stores, and C. R. Cook, general merchandise manager, of Chicago.

Hundreds of Floral Tributes.

Hundreds of floral tributes from friends of the company were distributed throughout the building. At first it was decided to bank the flowers near the entrance, but the huge baskets and bouquets poured into the store so fast and with such volume that it was necessary to make room for them on counters and tables over the whole first floor.

Every conceivable article was on display in the retail store Monday. If ever here was a doubt in the minds of Atlantans that the company actually kept in stock the thousands upon thousands of articles shown in its catalogue, that doubt was erased after a tour through the building.

Included in the stock is everything anyone could use, or think of using, ranging from a package of pins to furniture for a three-story house. Never has Atlanta been introduced to a more complete stock of merchandise than is contained in the Sears-Roebuck building.

Building Beautiful.

The building itself forms a beautiful background for the exquisite display. Stately, snow-white columns mark the aisles; lines of hanging baskets, green with fern and moss, make a very effective color scheme, enhanced by the countless floral tributes arranged about the building.

The structure housing the Sears-Roebuck and company's southeastern plant represents one of the most costly and valuable of Atlanta's industrial and commercial plants. It was erected on the site of the once famous Ponce de Leon springs within the short space of six months, and the opening Monday was made on time to the minute, according to the schedule set January 4, 1926, when the first spade was turned.

Sixteen railroad cars of merchandise can be unloaded simultaneously at the Sears-Roebuck plant. The clerical department contains 160 typewriters, 160 adding machines and 100 billing machines. An estimate of $350,000 will be spent on postage during the first year. About 14,000,000 persons throughout the southeast are expected to receive accommodations from the store during the year.

A ten-acre field has been converted into a parking ground, which will hold 1,000 automobiles. This is systematically planned, so that automobiles may be moved at any time.

Hall-Mills Case Will Be Probed On Crime Scene

Somerville, N. J., August 2.—(AP)—State Senator Alexander Simpson, appointed by Governor Moore as special prosecutor for the state of New Jersey in the revived Hall-Mills murder inquiry, will personally conduct his investigation on the "scene of the crime."

This determination, announced by Mr. Simpson today, will take him over the same ground covered by numerous county, state and private investigators for weeks following the finding of the bodies of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, choir singer in his New Brunswick church. They were slain on a farm in Somerset county four years ago.

Mrs. Hall, widow of the slain clergyman, was arrested last week charged with the murder.

The authorities of both Somerset and Middlesex counties today promised their aid in the new investigation. The slain couple lived in Middlesex county. Formal notice of the supreme court's approval of Simpson's appointment as official state prosecutor has not yet been received by the appointee, but Justice Charles W. Parker has mailed the papers from his summer home in Maine.

Governor Moore conferred with Mr. Simpson in Jersey City today. The governor asserted emphatically that there was no political aspect to his ordering of the investigation.

"There has been so much talk of corruption that we must sift to the very bottom of the case," he said. "This unsolved mystery has caused so so much criticism of the state that we must go into the case to the very bottom."

William Phillip, who had been held in the county jail since last Thursday as a material witness, was released today when he furnished $2,500 bail.

Dr. E. J. Cronk, health officer of New Brunswick, today expressed his belief that the first investigation of the slayings had been incomplete and expressed his surprise that he had not been called before the grand jury at that time. He advanced the theory that the couple were killed in an automobile and their bodies taken to the farm where they were found.

Liquor Kills 700.

New York, August 2.—(AP).—Seven hundred persons died in New York City from poison liquor last year, J. W. Quillen, chief chemist of the bureau of internal revenue, said today in issuing a warning against drinking bootleg whiskey. Samples containing wood alcohol have been coming to the bureau recently, he said.

MINISTERIAL BODY INDORSES JUDGE EVE

Tifton, Ga., August 2.—(Special)—Declaring him to be a "high class citizen and a jurist of unusual ability," the Tifton Ministerial association has endorsed the candidacy of Judge R. Eve, of Tifton.

The resolution adopted by the body was as follows:

"Our fellow townsman, Judge R. Eve, is a candidate for associate justice of the supreme court of Georgia, opposing Judge J. K. Hines. We unhesitatingly endorse Judge Eve as being a very high-class citizen and a jurist of unusual ability. He bears the reputation of being one of the ablest trial judges in the state, and it would be very gratifying to us to see him elevated to a position upon the Supreme court bench because we feel that he is especially qualified and fitted for this service.

Coolidge Today Ends Third Year in Office

:: HE THRIVES ON WORK THAT KILLED TWO ::

Paul Smith's, N. Y., August 2.—(Copyright, 1926.)—After three years as president, Calvin Coolidge is thriving in the office that caused the untimely death of his two predecessors, Woodrow Wilson and Warren G. Harding.

Further, he is thriving on the very aspects of the office that brought about their end. The worries and actual labor of the job, instead of discouraging his health, have fattened and cheered Mr. Coolidge, who will round out his third year in office tomorrow.

The president flourishes under an unusual mental strain. Taking his recreation in work, he spends more time and energy in the executive office than has any other executive. It is not unusual for him to work ten hours at his desk, and return after dinner to work several hours more.

This unusual characteristic of Mr. Coolidge has been responsible in great part for his constant mention for a third term, particularly among those officials whose duties would be increased by a more leisurely executive. The president, they admit, has actually made himself responsible for sections of work in their jurisdiction which heretofore have caused them much distress.

With the tendency of the American people toward an administration that will diminish the people's responsibility for self government, republican leaders feel that the nation will reelect a party and platform that have conducted the government as a business institution.

The president's secretary, Everett Sanders, however, has not fared so well. On the eve of Mr. Coolidge's fourth year in office, Sanders is in a Boston hospital under examination by specialists for intestinal disorders. Since last winter Sanders has suffered from abdominal complaints and his ill health had been obvious for several months.

The Misty Pathway

By FLORENCE RIDDELL

INSTALLMENT VIII.

A DREAM COME TRUE.

The ship left Port Said next morning and steamed on her twelve hour journey down the Suez canal, then into the heat of the Red sea.

As the days went on Angus Brodie kept closer than ever to Richenda's side. He was going back to his little coffee farm in Kenya, he told her, after having spent six months' holiday in England.

Richenda sat raptly listening as he described his life in the Kenian Highlands.

"It is Living with a capital 'L,' he smiled. "Wonderful, elemental, perhaps even a little rough, but nobody who has learned to love such a life could ever go back to the London streets again."

He went on: "To lie in one's bed at night and hear lions grunting far across the plain, to delve deep into the forest on the track of a marauding elephant, to dodge death by inches a yard from the horns of a charging buffalo . . ."

"You've done all that?"

"All of it—and I'll do it again—scores of times before I've finished! But that's not all," he went on, his gray eyes firing suddenly. "It's the wonderful wide space about one—the great miles of silence—the big quiet barren mountains springing up from the rolling plains. They make one think! They tell one things . . ." He broke off suddenly, leaving the sentence unfinished.

"Don't you ever find it lonely?" she asked.

Angus Brodie looked full into her eyes then. "Never," he said slowly. "Never before. But now—perhaps I may!"

Something in his tone gave her a sudden warning. She fingered her book a little nervously, sought for a remark which might turn the conversation into other channels, opened her lips . . .

But the Scotsman was not to be turned from his purpose.

"Richenda," he said, quietly, "I'm thinking that when I get back to my little homestead this time I shall find it lonely—darned lonely, unless you'll consent to come and share life with me!"

Was this Brett Fairways?

"No—no!" said Richenda. "You mustn't say that! I—I'm sorry, but I—couldn't."

She was sorry—more sorry than the halting awkward words could express. She hated to see that look of pain come into the kind gray eyes.

"O, if only men wouldn't fall in love like this! Things would be so much easier!

"Can't we be—just friends?" she faltered.

"Of course we can—if there is no possibility of anything else." He laid his firm hand gently on her own. "Don't worry about it, little girl. Maybe I was a bit too previous. Let it be good friendship now—perhaps later on . . ." He paused for a moment, went on disconnectedly. "Anyway, you'll want friends in East Africa and—you won't find many there worth having. It's an 'out-for-oneself-and-the-devil-take-the-hindmost' sort of country with a vengeance!"

"At any rate I'll have one friend," she said, and took his fingers into her soft pink palm.

Next day they reached Mombasa.

"O, what a fairy island!" cried Richenda as the low, white coral cliffs, draped with a riot of emerald vegetation, came into view. They steamed slowly down the narrow channel towards the harbor of Kilindini and at length dropped anchor in midstream.

All was bustle and confusion now. The S. S. Tibetan was surrounded by a score of small boats, each bearing a meager crew of yelling native rowers. From these vessels white men clambered up to the deck and mixed busily among the voyagers.

An hour later Richenda set foot in East Africa—that strange new country to which the face of an unknown man smiling out from the page of a newspaper had drawn her.

"A rickshaw—every time!" she answered eagerly.

He chose a vehicle from the odd half-dozen which immediately surrounded them, gave an order to the khaki-clad native, who placed himself horse-wise in the front shafts, and they trundled off down the white coral road.

"What on earth is the matter with the boy behind?" asked Richenda presently as she cast a glance back to where the hindmost native assisted the rickshaw along the road. "He is trumpeting like an asthmatic elephant."

"That's nothing to what he will do when we halt," laughed Brodie. "Dear lady, it's a delicate sort of hint that he finds us heavy above the average and expects good baksheesh as well as his legal payment. For pity's sake take no notice of him.

The perspiring natives at length dropped the shafts of the vehicle at the door of a small hotel. A very charming building this, composed of square blocks of white coral and set among close-cut emerald lawns through which meandered vine-hung trellised paths.

From outside came the shrill voice of the asthmatic rickshaw boy, volubly demanding extra baksheesh from Brodie, who was finding some difficulty in deciding what should be a reasonable fare.

Richenda stood idly scanning the letters fixed behind the criss-cross tapes of a green notice board as she waited.

Suddenly she gave a little gasp, for, fixed through the tape in an upper corner of the board, sat a fat white envelope, and scrawled in bold handwriting across it she read:

So Destiny hadn't waited long! Within the first hour of her landing in East Africa she had been led to make her abiding place under the very roof that sheltered the man whose face had haunted her drams in far off Hampstead.

And Fate was moving on rapid feet again now, for, as Richenda stood there, a tall, lean man walked through a nearby door, strode across to the letter board, took down that very letter on which her eyes still dwelt, and ripped open the envelope.

Richenda had seen those thin tanned fingers reach out and take the letter from the rack, had heard the tearing rip of paper as he opened it, but not one glance had she dared to steal at the face of the man who stood reading his missive barely a yard behind her, for suddenly Jean Anderson's words had come hurtling back to her:

She stood for a moment very still, her cheeks blazing fire hot with sudden shame. Then she twisted slowly on her heel until her eyes were turned towards his face and suddenly a great amazement held her motionless.

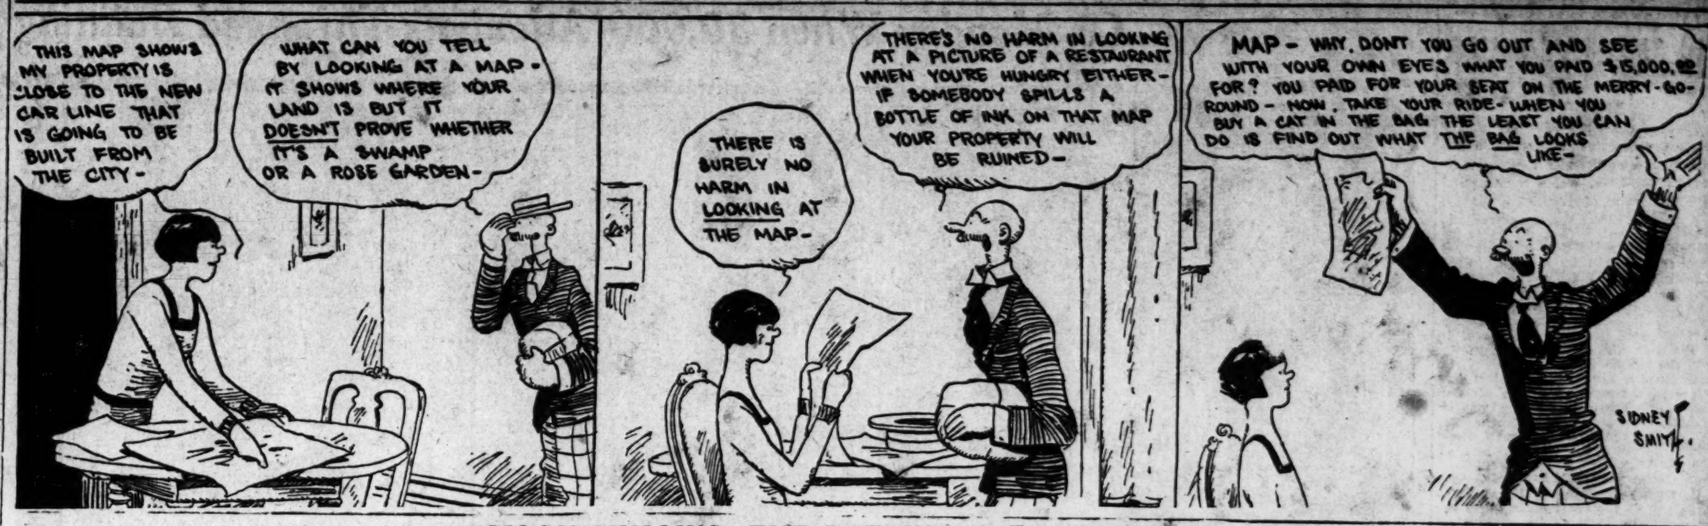

Was this Brett Fairways?

Feature by feature she analyzed the lean brown face. His eyes she could not see, but the finely shaped mouth was there, yet something of its firmness seemed lacking. A shade of looseness hung about its corners . . . the jaw line, too, was a little puffy. It was the face that she had seen in her dreams—yet somehow different, slacker, more "earthly." And hair and eyebrows were a flaming red!

Popular Society Belle Receives Ovation at Opera Monday Evening

Miss Louise Candler, popular sub-deb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Candler, scored a triumph in her debut Monday evening at the initial performance of the opera, "Sari," at the Atlanta theater, as a leading member of the opera chorus. She was accorded an ovation by her friends, who were numerous throughout the audience, this young society belle giving promise to a brilliant career in the musical world.

Monday night has become known as "society night" at the Atlanta theater during the light summer opera season, as society seems to have established a precedent in attending the initial performance of each of the lovely operas presented by the Municipal Opera company for the past six weeks. Although each evening members of Atlanta's fashionable social contingent are seen in the audience enjoying the exquisite music and beautiful dances attendant upon the operas, those attending the performance of the lovely Hungarian operetta, "Sari," last evening were enthusiastic over the colorful settings and the haunting gypsy melodies sung by the artists who have won a warm spot in the hearts of local music lovers. Particularly gorgeous were the ballet scenes, the group of graceful dancers wearing costumes of unusual beauty and featuring a riot of colors, causing exclamations of delight from those in the audience.

Among those attending the Monday evening performance were Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Cowles, Mrs. Adelaide Howell Bower, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heinz, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Candler, Colonel W. L. Peel, Mr. and Mrs. George Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Shepard, Dr. and Mrs. Calhoun MacDougald, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Smith, Dr. and Mrs. Bates Block, Mrs. Anne Bates Walsh, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thornton, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William A. Speer, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Lott Warren, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Forrester, Mrs. Harvey Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ryman, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Knowles, Misses Sallie and Lena Long, Misses Hannie and Lizzie Murphy, Miss Kate Lyman, Miss Lizzie McCauley, Misses Ellen Wolfe, Jennie Robinson, Katherine Candler, Idolene Lewman, Yolande Gwin, Frances McKenzie; Baxter Maddox, Howell Foreman, Henry Grady, Jr., Willard McBurney, Thomas Delbridge, John Ottley, Jr., Edward Van Winkle and others.

Miss Bonnie Booth Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Margaret Booth entertained at a birthday party in honor of her daughter, Miss Bonnie Booth, at her home on Cascade avenue, West End, July 24. Mrs. Booth was assisted in entertaining by her niece, Mrs. George Hooper, of Tallulah Falls, Ga. Those present were Miss Azelline Garrow, Miss Flora Davis, Miss Frances Booth, Mr. and Mrs. George Hooper, of Tallulah Falls; Mrs. Henry Lawson, Mrs. Leila Garrow, Miss Helen Upchurch, Miss Evelyn Garrow, Miss Loina Calhoun, Mrs. Julia Calhoun and Mrs. C. W. Donaldson.

Many Atlantans Take Part in Resort Gaieties

Tate Springs, Tenn., August 2.—The costume ball given at the Tate Springs Hotel Wednesday evening was a brilliant success and was attended by two hundred guests from many neighboring cities, besides the guests of the hotel. All of the participants were dressed as children and many attractive as well as ludicrous costumes were seen.

Handsome prizes were awarded for the prettiest, most unique and funniest costumes. The judges were Mrs. Charles McGehee, Mrs. Fred Lewis and Edward Austin, all of Atlanta.

The prize winners were Misses Mildred Keasley, of Knoxville, the prettiest costume; Miss Martha Waddell, of Albany, Ga., the most unique; Miss Margaret Arnold, of Atlanta, the funniest. The men who won prizes were Harris Long and Rufus Hickey, of Morristown, and Buckner Anderson, of Tate Springs.

Several favor figures were danced and attractive favors distributed. After the dance Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Piper entertained the guests at a moonlight swimming party in the new swimming pool.

Knoxville arrivals include Mrs. Horace Van Deventer, Mrs. S. G. Haskell, Mrs. J. T. Dewitt, Mrs. M. Talbott, Mrs. A. Black, Miss M. Mullins, A. W. Murphy, Frank Trent, Chris White and many others.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Brooke, of Miami, were popular guests at Tate this week.

Mrs. Edward Perry, Edward Perry, Jr., John Cochran, Clarence White and Sam Kirby, of Louisville, Ky., are prominent guests at the Tate Springs hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pinkston, of Montgomery, and Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Lumpkin, of Columbia, S. C., are spending some time at Tate.

A bridge party was given Monday evening in the parlors of the hotel, 50 guests taking part. Top scores were made by A. C. McHan, of Atlanta, who won the gentleman's prize; Mrs. C. V. Truitt, of LaGrange, who won the ladies' prize and Miss Isabel Hunter, of Atlanta, who won the consolation prize.

Miss Jane Hancock To Wed Mr. Mayson.

Miss Jane Hancock, of Dallas, Texas, whose marriage to James L. Mayson, of Atlanta, will be an interesting event of Wednesday, was honor guest at the bridge-tea given Saturday by Mrs. Albert J. Dillon, at her home on Bowen street. The honoree was presented with hand-embroidered pillow cases by the hostess. Six tables of bridge were played, favors going to Mesdames J. G. Hilbert, R. G. Buford and W. M. Bone. The hostess was assisted by Mesdames Fred H. Monr, William Mannerfield, A. W. Craighead, Robert H. Terrell and B. F. Hancock.

Mrs. Rice Honors Tennessee Visitor.

Mrs. Charles F. Rice entertained informally at luncheon Monday at her home on Peachtree road in compliment to Mrs. Benjamin Cates, of Knoxville, Tenn., who is prominently identified with the patriotic organizations of that state.

The handsomely-appointed table was decorated with pink and white flowers, this color scheme being carried out effectively in every detail. Covers were laid for six close friends.

Ivy Harris To Be Honored At Elaborate Ball Tonight

Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, and official hostess at the Marion Ivy Harris ball at the Biltmore Hotel Tuesday evening, will be assisted in receiving by Mayor and Mrs. Walter A. Sims, Mrs. John R. Hornady, Mrs. Delos Hill, Mrs. E. V. Carter, Mrs. J. A. Carlisle, Mrs. Eva Corrigan, Mrs. W. D. Williamson, Mrs. Joel Hunter, Mrs. Frank Nadele, Mrs. John Ottley, Mrs. Bolling Jones, Mrs. Hamilton Douglas, Mrs. Woods White, Mrs. McD. Wilson, Mrs. A. P. Coles, Mrs. P. J. McGovern, Mrs. J. N. Eachern, Mrs. Irving Thomas, Mrs. B. M. Boykin, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Mrs. Norman Sharp, Mrs. R. K. Rambo, Mrs. M. L. Thrower, Mrs. Frank McCormack, members of the executive board of the Atlanta Woman's Club and members of the Original Thirteen Group of the club and others.

The entertainment will be given in the ballroom of the Atlanta Biltmore Hotel, where beautiful decorations will be used and music will be furnished by the best musicians of the city. A beautiful program will be rendered by several of the most talented artists of the city, including numbers by the visiting artists accompanying Miss Harris from New York. Joseph Litteau will be guest director of the feature program and will render several beautiful selections, as well as other visiting artists who will render vocal numbers and be seen in artistic dancing.

The dancing will begin at 9:30 o'clock and last until 1 a. m. and the officers of the Atlanta Woman's Club will act as official chaperones. All friends of Miss Marion Ivy Harris are invited to attend the ball and meet the honor guests who are: Miss Harris, Mr. and Mrs. George Currie of New York, Mrs. C. I. Harris, mother of Miss Ivy Harris, and the eleven accompanying graduates of the Paramount Picture School. Tickets may be secured at the Atlanta Woman's Club, Biltmore Hotel, and Cable Piano Company's office.

A group of prominent Atlantans will act as patronesses for this interesting event. Miss Louise Hunter will also attend the ball.

General Wood Honored At Stag Dinner.

Among the outstanding social events on the calendar for the week was the stag dinner given Monday evening at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel by F. A. Wilson-Lawrenson.

This prominent and elaborate affair was given in compliment to Brigadier General Robert E. Wood, of Chicago, Ill., who is a distinguished visitor in the city for several days.

Dinner was served at 7:30 o'clock in one of the private dining rooms of the hotel. Two large baskets filled with a variety of summer flowers were used as decorations for the table.

Invited to meet General Wood were a group of influential citizens of Atlanta's social and civic world.

SLAMS AND SALAAMS

By Louise Doolin

ARTISTS might be presumed to know something about the curves and proportions which imply beauty in the human form.

The angular figure is easier to draw than the one which inclines to curves and dimples, but it tempts the brush only of the lazy painter.

The thin woman means more than the plump one to the doctor's mercenary sense, because in her he sees better chance of a patient. But he has a different formula for the appearance which means health, and that formula describes the woman whose bones are clothed in the pulchritude of flesh.

Painters and doctors, however, may talk until their tongues hang out about absolute ideals of beauty and health, and what happens? Just exactly nothing.

But let some theatrical producer, who makes it his business to exploit the female form—(purely, of course, as an art spectacle)—let him "glorify" the attentuated figure, and toast and black coffee become the standard national diet for women.

The only extenuating circumstance is that when the glorifier, in order to give life to a jaded publicity department, says that curves are to be restored to good society, his dictum then becomes sensationally effective health propaganda. The female of the species takes again to rational nourishment, and sanitariums are threatened, at least temporarily, with a falling off of business, until producers or "art spectacles" on the stage find it necessary again to start something.

It is pride in his "profession" which has finally coaxed Jack Dempsey, so I read in the papers, to re-enter the prize ring.

But think what must have been the long anguish of his indecision; the struggle it must have cost him to conquer what any sensitive soul must realize in his refined distaste for the garish atmosphere of the resin arena, and the boorish interlopers who manage always to squeeze in among the nobility of the sport world which always gathers for "professional" exhibitions like that finally promised in the September engagement of Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Tunney.

And here is another interesting question of terms: "Will this be a showing of the fine art of pugilism, or its surpassing science?"

Sport writers glibly interchange the two terms, but in a matter as important as this there ought to be definite and general agreement. Purists among sport writers have no time to waste, with the battle of the century only a few weeks off. It would be exceedingly irritating through the rest of the hot weather to see the two terms loosely applied and interchanged, and if something is not soon done about it, I personally may be forced to quit reading the sport page.

SPEAKING of sporting events, there was the lady who fastened a pedometer to her pocket the other day when she arose at 6:30 in the morning to attend the duties of a home, wife and mother, and when she took it off at 6 p. m. it registered seven miles.

But I believe that between the number of steps the average woman takes about her household duties and the number to which she might limit herself if she were efficient, there is probably a considerable difference.

Anybody who knows what motion study is and sorrows over the waste in lost motion would probably die of grief if he watched that woman with the pedometer for one whole day.

I'd be willing to wager that if she were making a pie she'd take separate trips to the pantry for each ingredient and if she were bathing the baby, she'd wait until she got him in the tub before she remembered that the soap was in another room and his clean clothes in still another.

And if she sees this, she'll probably turn up her nose and question whether I can make a pie or bathe a baby efficiently.

Which wonder I should consider of course entirely irrelevant to the matter under discussion. But I could retort that neither is my job.

ISN'T it funny that it is the things you can't afford that you want to do any have?

On the other hand, I have a feeling that somebody, some day, is going to make me a present of an automobile. The reason I think so is that I don't want one.

One out of every seven people in the world—or the United States (I forget which, but that is accurate enough for statistics) owns a car.

There are no figures available as to the number who don't want one, but it may be that I am unique.

My observation is, however, that the happiest people are not those inspired by the instinct of acquisitiveness as the psychologists would say, who must have at least a flivver. But it is those who throw the burden of upkeep on some taxi company.

Negative impulses can be more compelling than such positive instincts as acquisitiveness or hunger or love. Watch any lazy person, and my statement is proved. The most compelling instinct with a lazy person is to do nothing, and he does it.

Likewise, the great driving force of my negative instinct as to automobiles. It has enabled me to resist the temptation even of free rides by demonstrators.

Psychologists would say—any everybody is doing popular psychology in print these summer days; why shouldn't I?—that's the only thing which can conquer a compelling human instinct is another and more compelling human instinct.

And so—my negative attitude towards ownership of a car can only be overcome by somebody's else instinct of acquisitiveness of a car for me.

Which was part of what I set out to demonstrate.

The other part was intended as an illustration of just how silly is the stuff we are all of us willing to read in the silly season. If you have got this far, you have proved the latter part of my demonstration.

I can't talk of anything more futile, unless it is Gertrude Ederle's proposed swimming of the English channel; or the annual summertime bursting into newspaper interviews of H. G. Wells or A. B. See to pigeon-hole all the women according to their generalties as to what "all women" are, or why "all women" behave as they do under all circumstances.

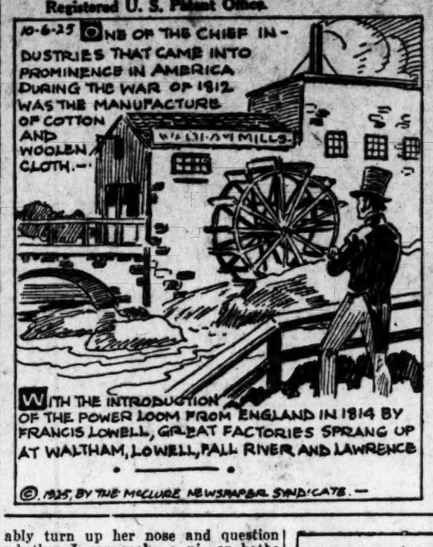

Mr. Wells' most recent dictum is that there are too many beautiful women. But I, for one, don't believe there will be anything done about it. The beautiful women don't want to make a change. The only man who does is H. G. Wells. The ugly women, therefore, are the only negative group. And there are not enough of them to make a difference. Even Mr Wells implies that, when he says there are too many beautiful ones.

Keeping Your Schoolgirl Complexion

By IRENE CASTLE

Copyrighted 1926 by P. O. Beauty Features

The Folly Of using just "any good soap" on your face

The kind beauty experts use themselves and how used

A SOAP may be good for any number of things, yet not be at all suited to the skin. The only kind of soap to use on your face is a soap made basically for that purpose. A good complexion is too priceless for experiment.

Before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." All soaps then were judged too harsh.

Then came this famous beauty creation. A soap made by experts in beauty of rare cosmetic oils—and made solely for one purpose: to safeguard the complexion. A soap that changed the beauty methods of the world.

Leading skin authorities urge it. It has brought natural skin loveliness to more women than any other method known. In your own interest, use it according to the following rule for one week. Note the improvement your complexion shows:

Nature's rule to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion"

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge, if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away. Just do this and keep your skin soft and lovely—wrinkles will be less a problem as the years advance.

Get Real Palmolive

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

J. R. SMITH & CO. RECEIVER IS NAMED

Receivership for J. R. Smith & Co., a partnership composed of the late J. R. Smith, who died recently, and W. D. Manley, president of the Bankers' Trust company, now in the hands of a receiver, was designated Monday by Judge E. D. Thomas in Fulton superior court.

William H. Sibley, prominent Atlanta attorney, was named receiver by the court following the filing of a petition for receivership for the company brought by the Bank of Molena in behnif of the creditors. The suit was filed by the law firm of Alston, Alston, Foster and Moise.

The receivership was appointed temporarily and September 4, 1926, at 9:30 o'clock was set as date for hearing, at which time the defendant must show cause, if any, why the prayers of the petitioner should not be granted and a permanent receiver named by the court.

The petition asked that Manley and representatives of J. R. Smith & Co., be "restrained and enjoined from interfering with the assets, books and property of the company, particularly from undertaking to collect or administer insurance moneys payable to said company on the life of J. R. Smith, or insurance money payable to W. D. Manley on policies insuring the life of J. R. Smith." A temporary injunction granting the request was signed by Judge Thomas.

Cuts in Streets At City's Expense Termed Robbery

Termed by Councilman John A. White as "highway robbery," an ordinance providing that all cuts in streets and sidewalks for sewer, water and gas connection be made by the city construction department, was referred to the finance committee Monday afternoon by city council.

Councilman White staged a fight on the measure on the theory that the property owners asking for such a cut should not be required to pay for such cuts. He declared that sewer assessments have been run up and that this will further serve to make assessments higher.

The ordinance was promulgated by the sewer committee and in a statement to council, Councilman Horace Russell said he was willing that the city pay costs of such cuts. It was not a question of how costs ran on such work, he declared, but it was an effort to keep the pavement from being broken in front of houses for such connections.

The scale of costs as presented in the ordinance for sewers ran from $25 a cut for streets not paved to $75 for streets paved with granite blocks. Cuts for water connections ranged from $15 for streets not paved to $55 on granite block paving, and gas connections would cost from $15 to $55 under the proposed ordinance.

In the past property owners have been allowed to make cuts in the streets with no costs for replacement of paving and as a result many streets were cut and pavement not replaced, it was stated.

PROPOSED TRAFFIC LAW CHANGE MEETS WITH OPPOSITION

An effort on the part of the police committee of city council to prevent vehicular traffic from turning to the right on red lights was temporarily thwarted Monday, when council voted to send the paper proposing the change to the traffic committee for a report.

The police committee contended that turning on red lights to the right even is a dangerous practice and makes street crossings especially hazardous to pedestrians.

AMERICAN STAR FAILS TO SWIM LONG CHANNEL

Dover, England, August 3.—(AP)—Miss Clara Belle Barrett, of New Rochelle, N. Y., failed in her attempt to swim the English channel. She got within two miles of Cape Gris-Nez, France, when she had to be taken out of the water. She was in an exhausted condition.

Proposals To Raise City Employees Pay Before Committee

Three proposals for raises in salary of city employees were referred to the finance committee by city council Monday afternoon.

An ordinance providing for the raise of policemen's salaries to the same basis received by city firemen was sponsored by the police committee. The ordinance was presented and recommended at the last meeting of the police board and no discussion of the measure was held in council meeting Monday afternoon.

An ordinance, sponsored by the fire board, to raise the salary of Chief of the Fire Department W. B. Cody $1,000 a year also was referred to the finance committee. The third salary ordinance was that providing for the increase of $300 for the city marshal.

Mrs. Mary H. Gunsaulus Plans

JUNIOR LEAGUE GIRLS TO FORM CONGENIAL GROUP

Interesting World Cruise

Mrs. Mary Hines Gunsaulus, of 862 Peachtree street, has invited a number of Junior league members from Atlanta and other parts of the country, as well as their brothers and husbands, to join a trip around the world. This very interesting trip which she is arranging will begin in January, when the party sails from New York for the cruise, including in its itinerary many interesting places.

An atmosphere of comeraderie will prevail, due to the fact that a congenial group will form the party. For every type of person this trip offers an irresistible charm, because each temperament will be appealed to in the many different phases offered on this delightful journey.

The thrill and lure of this very well-planned and thoroughly interesting cruise is assured and made forcible in the following abstract taken from a letter Mrs. Gunsaulus is sending to Junior league members:

"It will be like a big house party—bridge games, dances on deck at night with a tropical moon to lend charm; deck games for the energetic, lectures on the countries to be visited, long days on deck for the dreamers to lazily enjoy the sea. Life on board ship is a fascinating part of the cruise.

"Then the sightseeing—it's going to be a wonderful trip—south to Havana, through the Panama canal (there will be a dance for us there with many American officers present), across the Pacific 'west to the sinking sun, 'til the junk sails lift through the houseless drift and the east and the west are one.'

"Hawaii with the thrill of the outrigger canoe at Waikiki; Japan with 'sukiyaki' dinners served by pretty geisha maids almost under the shadow of the tremendous Kamakura Buddha; strange Korea, mysterious China, down to Manila and across the equator to Java and the loveliest tropical gardens in the world. Singapore; Rangoon with 'elephants pilin' teak' and Burma girls 'wasin' kisses on an 'eathen idol's feet' or smoking the 'whackin' white cheroots.' India—sunrise on the Himilayas and the jewel of the entire world, the Taj Mahal!

"Cairo where east meets west and where the sphinx whispers to the understanding its secret in the desert moonlight. Cool drinks on the terrace at Shepheard's and dances there at night.

An especially appealing feature of this trip is that the ship will be a "home" during the entire four months of the cruise thus relieving the hectic packing and unpacking that is required on most journeys. No worry to the passengers is attached in any way as all arrangements as to sightseeing, etc., will be completely planned by the management.

Reaching France in May, one will have the opportunity of either returning directly to New York or continuing their travels, with the privilege of using their return ticket any time within the year.

GOOD HEALTH NECESSARY

Many Busy Women Owe Their Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

The only new and different pipe tobacco in a generation

We have sponsored fine tobaccos for a generation.

We know tobacco! And we state with absolute conviction that "Half and Half" is the first really new, different and distinctive pipe tobacco brought out in years.

"Half and Half" is a mixture of two already universally known tobaccos—Lucky Strike, made famous by its exclusive toasting process—and ripe, rich, fragrant Buckingham.

If you love good tobacco and are hard to please—if you seek something different and far superior to the brand you now use, try "Half and Half." We already know the verdict.

You'll agree that "Half and Half" is the greatest pipe smoke you ever enjoyed.

SMOKING TOBACCO

Mlle. Lenglen To Tour U. S. as Professional

Paris, August 2.—Suzanne Lenglen has signed a contract which will take her to the United States next month to play professional tennis under the management of C. C. Pyle.

An offer of $100,000 for a four months' tour of the United States, Canada, Cuba and Mexico is reported to have persuaded the French tennis queen to abandon her intention never to relinquish her amateur standing.

Suzanne, accompanied by her mother, will sail for New York September 22 and will play her first match in the United States October 10. She also will appear in the movies.

Suzanne Signs.

The contract was signed by Suzanne at her summer home at Pourville last Saturday, Pyle, exploiter of "Red" Grange, being represented by his brother, H. G. Pyle, and an American lawyer, Colonel Hayward.

Pyle made the following announcement through the United News:

"The contract was signed at Pourville (a watering place on the English channel) last Saturday in the presence of Mlle. Lenglen's parents and my lawyer, Colonel Hayward.

"Mlle. Lenglen will make a film and also will play tennis in exhibition matches of women's and mixed doubles.

"I hope that eventually the international tennis rules will be modified so that professionals can meet amateurs in open competition as is the case in golf."

The promoter said that the mixed doubles team on which Suzanne will play would be "international." He refused to state who her partner would be, but said:

"No Englishmen."

Tilden as Partner.

Pyle inferred that he believed England had no first class tennis players worthy of partnership with Mlle. Lenglen.

This led to speculation as to the possibility of William T. Tilden, American national singles champion, or "Vinnie" Richards, of New York, becoming the French girl's partner.

"I hope she will obtain a better impression of the United States than she has at present.

"Mlle. Lenglen is the greatest tennis player in the world. I want people to know that."

Suzanne will be accompanied by her mother and a maid.

HELEN SURPRISED AT NEWS OF SUZANNE.

Sea Bright, N. J., August 2.—(United News.)—"That certainly is exciting," said Helen Wills Monday night, when informed that Suzanne Lenglen had turned professional and was coming to the United States for a four-month tour.

"I don't suppose we'll be able to meet again, then," the American champion added regretfully.

Suzanne Lenglen's decision to play professional tennis, which has no recognized standing here or abroad, leaves the field of women's supremacy open to Helen Wills and Kitty McKane Godfree, of England, winner at Wimbledon this year.

The French star's action is somewhat similar to that of a champion who retires undefeated, for she no longer will defend her title as world's unofficial champion.

One-Armed Caddie Plays Hole in One At West End

Did you ever hear of a one-armed man making a hole in one? Neither did we. But that very thing happened Monday morning at West End course in Atlanta, where the members of the "Fourth Estate" will stage their annual tourney this week and next.

The man who accomplished the feat is Jack Thomas, negro caddy master at the West End layout.

We wish we could tell the tale of the dodo performance just as it was told to us by Jack, but that would be far beyond our poor power at translation, so we will try to tell briefly in ordinary English just how it all came about.

Jack, playing with two other caddies, was shooting on the 125-yard sixth hole when his tee shot hooked slightly to the right and hit a tree beside the fairway. No one of the trio saw the ball come down, so when they went over the little hill in front of the green and did not see the ball they began searching in the rough around the green.

Believing they had a lost ball, the boys signaled the player behind them to play up. He did so and when his caddy went to take the pin from the cup he found Jack's ball.

Thereupon bedlam was loose and four excited colored caddies, one of them a one-armed hero, romped yelling back to the clubhouse to spread the good news of the newest member of the dodo organization.

Jack has but one hand, the other having been amputated at the wrist, and the boys say he shoots the course regularly around the 40 mark. Better than many of us can do with both hands, both feet and an eraser on our pencils.

U. S. TENNIS SUFFERS BLOW AS STAR LOSES

Sea Bright, N. J., August 2.—(AP) American tennis for the second successive day was rocked today by the downfall of a member of its "big four."

America's Davis cup captain, R. Norris Williams, today was defeated in the first round of the Sea Bright Lawn Tennis club's annual invitation tournament by an unranked collegian from the Pacific coast, Lionel Ogden, of Leland Stanford. The score was 6-4, 6-8, 10-8, three errors by the Davis cup star finally settling the issue.

Yesterday Vincent Richards conquered William T. Tilden in the metropolitan championship final. Today Richards and William M. Johnston, remaining members of American 1925 Davis cup squad, balanced the defeat of Williams with impressive victories. Johnston reached the third round with victories over H. L. Bowman, New York, 8-6, 6-1, and John Doeg, Pacific coast, 6-3, 6-4.

Helen Wills Wins.

In the women's competition, Helen Wills, national champion; Elizabeth Ryan, Eleanor Goss and Mrs. Molla B. Mallory were straight set victors. Miss Wills overwhelmed the local club champion, Mrs. Howlands S. Davis, 6-1, 6-0. Mrs. Mallory scored in love sets against Mrs. Edward M. Crane, also of the Sea Bright club, while Miss Goss had no trouble defeating Miss Florence Ballin, of New York.

After taking the first set, Ogden pressed into a lead of 4-2 and 6-5 in the second. He was within two points of match victory in the twelfth game when Williams broke through to tie the score at six-all and then save the set with perfectly timed drives from the base line.

The third set was a seesaw battle, each player repeatedly being within a stroke of clinching the set. With the games at 6-5 and 8-7, Williams twice needed only one point to win the battle. But each time he faltered as victory came within his grasp, and Ogden put on the final spurt which decided the contest.

Rain Halts Meet Of Cotton States

Stars from Atlanta, Birmingham, Montgomery, Tuscaloosa, Nashville, Chattanooga, Charleston, New Orleans and other southern cities had registered for the meet.

Effort To Remove Ad Valorem Taxes On Factories Fails

A move to lift the city ad valorem tax against all manufacturers coming to Atlanta for a period of "not more than five years," was blocked in council Monday afternoon.

An attack on the ordinance, presented by Councilman J. L. McLendon, was launched first by Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, who declared that such a measure would hurt the "man who has striven here for years to build up his business." A city the size of Atlanta has no need of such legislation because of the manifold industries, he said.

According to the resolution a referendum would be called on the question at the general election in December. Although blocked from passage Monday afternoon, the matter was referred to the finance committee for investigation.

Councilman Horace Russell declared that the question "deserves serious thought," and asked that it be held in abeyance until a committee from council could go into the matter thoroughly. Councilman Tom C. Morris also opposed the measure.

VISIT TO AMERICA OF QUEEN MARIE STILL UNDECIDED

Bucharest, August 2.—(AP)—Whether and when Queen Marie will depart for the United States for a visit to that country will not be decided until the end of the month, C. Hiott, minister of the royal household, informed the Associated Press today.

Mobile Releases Three Players

Mobile, Ala., August 2.—(Special.) Manager Milton Stock announced tonight that Outfielder Matt Donahue and Pitcher Rollie Naylor of the Mobile team, had been given their unconditional release. Donahue has been out of the game with a bad leg, injured in sliding ten days ago. He came to Mobile last season from the Dallas club of the Texas league. Leroy Drake, a right handed pitcher, was purchased today from the Albany team of the Southeastern league.

MILLER AND BOARD SPLIT ON REFEREE FOR TIGE BOUT

Boxing Board Ruling Declares That Referee Must Be Atlantan, While Ray Bronson, Selected By Walk Is Not Resident of City.

Charging that Battling McCreary is a big rough mauler, who may butt or wrestle Flowers down, Walk Miller yesterday declared that he should be allowed the privilege of naming the referee for the match to be staged at Spiller field Friday night. Miller declared that he would insist that the Atlanta boxing commission import Ray Bronson, former welterweight champion of the world, to handle the bout.

Miller's insistence on Bronson's being used as the third man in the ring brings up an interesting angle. The commission has a rule of its own making that non-residents of Atlanta shall not referee in matches here. Bronson, who is now in Florida is anything but a native of Atlanta.

However, Bronson would make a very fitting official. He is nationally known as a referee and promoter and is the man who put on the first match between Tiger Flowers and Harry Greb. The bout was a no decision affair, the newspaper writers being divided in their opinion regarding the victor.

McCreary Ranks High.

McCreary, one of the few fighters of national ranking who has never fought Flowers, has an impressive ring record. McCreary went eight rounds against Harry Wills, although he was outweighed by 40 pounds and handicapped by the further disadvantage in height and reach. He gave Wills plenty of trouble in that scrap and the fact that it took Wills eight rounds to put him away speaks well for McCreary's ability to take punishment.

McCreary has scored decisive victories over John Lester, Lee Anderson, Kid Norfolk, Bill Tate, George Robinson, Jack Taylor, Dan Dowd, Clem Johnson and other big scrappers equally as well known. Most of these fighters have been defeated by Tiger Flowers also, so you can draw your own conclusions regarding the comparative records of the two foes.

There is every reason in the world to believe that Flowers can and will outpoint McCreary, but Manager Miller is going to send the champion into action to kayo his foe. Such a finish to the fight would add to Flowers' drawing ability when he defends the middleweight championship of the world against Greb in New York on August 19.

All to Gain.

McCreary, on the other hand, has everything to gain by putting up a good scrap. Should he happen to the fortune of landing a knockdown or knockout blow his immediate financial future will be assured. Any man who knocks Flowers down or out draws well at the box-office.

Promoter Billy Lotz states that advance arrangements for the fight are being handled in satisfactory manner. Tickets for the fight were placed on sale at Chess' place yesterday morning. They will be sold there exclusively. A brisk demand was reported for the ducats throughout the day.

Electrical contractors have looked over the situation at Spiller field and will install large electric lights throughout the grandstand in order that every ticket holder will have a good view of the fight, which will be staged in a ring located directly in front of the grand stand. Every ticket to the fight will be under cover and a canopy will be erected, assuring the staging of the bout, regardless of weather conditions.

Jones in Training.

Tommy Jones, the sensational young featherweight who fights Hollis Sullivan of Marietta in the semi-windup, is busy training on Walk Miller's health farm near Marietta. He is just back from a barnstorming trip through Florida and will need only a few days' work to get him into condition for the fight with Sullivan.

Miller's flat statement that Jones is capable of beating Sullivan into pulp has divided the fans into two sides. There are those who believe that Sullivan's match cannot be recruited from the southern rank of fighters and then there are those who just as bitterly argue in favor of Jones.

Promoter Lotz is lining up two or three good bouts to serve as preliminaries and from the present outlook it seems that the fight card will be one of the best offered here in some time.

Colts Are Shipped For Big Auction

Hopkinsville, Ky., August 2.—(AP)—Lucian A. Moseley, owner of Riverside farms where Flying Ebony, 1925 Kentucky derby winner, and other outstanding race horses were bred, left here today with a shipment of 26 thoroughbred yearlings for Saratoga Springs, N. Y., where they will be sold next week.

The colts were shipped in two baggage cars and were accompanied by eleven attendants. One of the colts had "car fits" and had to be taken off the train at Guthrie, Ky.

Two additional cars of young thoroughbreds will be shipped to Saratoga later in the week. The latter colts were raised by John White, Redman Meacham and other breeders.

Last August local breeders shipped 45 yearlings east. The highest auction price recorded then was $9,000 for a single colt.

HALVERSTADT TO ENTER PLAY FOR NET TITLE

With many sport crowns resting safely on the brows of Atlanta stars, James Halverstadt, youthful Atlanta tennis star and holder of the boys' tennis championship of Atlanta, is seeking honors in bigger fields along with Bryan Grant, Jr., also of Atlanta and a prominent figure in junior tennis competition. They will seek victory in the national tennis championship tournament to be held in Chicago starting August 9.

Halverstadt, who is now in Ohio playing in matches, will go to Chicago the latter part of the week and rest up for the opening of the tournament Monday, as will young Grant, who is competing in the western tournament at Culver college.

Through his brilliant playing in the city championship tournament, Halverstadt gained entrance to the national tournament. For a young player he has everything that could be looked for in a tennis player. His coolness in matches and his dazzling game has brought much comment from tennis experts.

Halverstadt's sparkling display of tennis in the city tourney carried him to victory over the best young players in the city title matches.

Grant's rise to his present height in the junior tennis ranks has also been marked by some of the most brilliant tennis for a junior player. Grant has caused much comment with his display of tennis in local tournaments and also in others around these parts.

At present Grant is making a good stand in the junior division of the western tennis tournament and as soon as it is over he will leave for the national meet.

JACK EAGER FOR BIG BOUT IN SEPTEMBER

"I know as well as any other man acquainted with boxing that the long period of inactivity has not helped me one bit but I know this also, that the only thing any boxer can do is put himself in the best physical condition and then go out and fight. I am in good shape."

Asked if his skill as a boxer might not have suffered through idleness, Dempsey replied:

"No. On the other hand, I am just beginning to learn something about boxing. As in any other business, the more time a man puts in at the work bench the more he learns about his business."

"I gave the so-called syndicate up there eleven months in which to arrange a fight and they failed to produce," he said. "They have never paid me a cent and I am under no obligation to them."

Asked about the possibility of a fight with Wills, Dempsey said:

"I have been waiting a long time for some one to make the match. I am a fighter, not a matchmaker."

Free Fight Card At Duncan Gym

Wednesday night at the Duncan gymnasium on Alabama street fight fans will be given a treat in the form of another free card staged for the public by that organization.

Yankee Clan Rapidly Cinching '26 Pennant

BY FRANK GETTY.

New York, August 2.—The American league race enters August with the standing and outlook such that it now is possible to figure definitely and mathematically upon the New York Yankees as the pennant winners.

With the season two-thirds over, it will require one of those upsets which are by no means unfamiliar to baseball, to keep them out of the world's series.

If Miller Huggins can keep his inexperienced infield from cracking, the Yanks appear to be in a strategic position to win their fourth pennant in six years.

Indians Far Behind.

Careening along at the height of their third long winning streak of the season, the Hugmen have given no indication that they cannot maintain at least a .500 clip from now until September 28. If they do no better than this, the Cleveland Indians must win more than two-thirds of their remaining games to catch up.

It seems reasonable to suppose that the Yankees can do better than break even in the remaining games on their schedule, but maintaining a .667 pace during August and September should prove quite a tax upon the strength of Tris Speaker's none too powerful ball team.

Should the Yanks continue to play .600 baseball, the Indians would have to win 40 of their 51 games—that is play at a .784 clip—to tie for the pennant.

The Philadelphia Athletics have only the slimest sort of chance to catch the flying New York Express, for the Mackmen are 15 games behind and playing disappointing, dispirited baseball.

The Yankees excel the Indians in batting and pitching, while Cleveland has a decided edge in fielding, with the base running of the two teams about equal.

New York has made 100 more runs than Cleveland, 30 more hits, 60 more home runs and has a team batting average of .300, ten points better than the Indians.

Yanks Fielding Poor.

At fielding the Yankees fall far behind their closest rivals for the 1926 pennant. They have made more than 30 more errors than the Indians, and have completed 11 less double plays.

But fielding hasn't won a pennant in the American League since 1906, when the White Sox were the "hitless wonders."

When the schedules ahead of New York and Cleveland are analyzed, it is apparent that the Indians have the easier path. The two leading contenders have 11 more games to play between themselves. To date, the Yanks have won six of the 11 games played.

As for the other teams which the Indians and Hugmen must face, everything favors the former. Cleveland has 14 games to play with the Tigers, White Sox and Browns and 26 with the Athletics, Red Sox and Senators. A majority of Cleveland's games are to be played at home, while the Yankees must finish the season in the west.

Cleveland has nine more chances to gain by beating the lowly Red Sox, while the Yankees have but five games to play with Boston. On the other hand, New York meets the dangerous Tigers ten times more, while Cleveland has all but five games with the Detroit club out of the way.

Strong Hitting Staff.

If the Yankees can win 25 of their remaining 52 games, the Indians must win 33 out of 51 to grab the pennant. Tris Speaker will have to bank upon the veteran Uhle, Levsen, a newcomer, who pitched a great game Sunday, Shaute and Sherrod Smith to carry Cleveland along at this .641 pace.

The Yanks have a much stronger-appearing pitching staff, in Urban Shocker, Herb Pennock and Waite Hoyt, to go with nothing of Sad Sam Jones, Bob Shawkey, Braxton, Thomas and Beall. This array of pitchers, plus the Yank penchant for punching out homers on the least provocation and occasional deadly outbursts from "Murderers' Row" makes New York a most likely, if far from a certain, pennant winner.

Hartwell Tourney Won by Hayes

Hartwell, Ga., August 2.—(Special.)—The annual handicap golf tournament of the Hartwell Country club came to a close here after an exciting battle. Garland C. Hayes, wiuner in the upper bracket after defeating F. S. White, W. G. Hodges, H. L. Yates and J. B. Shaw, met J. Cary Kidd, who had defeated James Bradbury, R. E. Matheson, J. E. Cobb and Isham Hailey. At the finish of the 18 holes the score was tied and by agreement four more holes were played, at which time Hayes led by three strokes. Twenty-six golfers qualified. L. G. Balfour & Co., of Brattleboro, Vt., contributed a handsome bronze statuette as a trophy. J. E. Cobb was winner last year and G. C. Hayes runner up.

Berlenbach Bout Date Is Changed

New York, August 2.—(AP)—The international 10-round light-heavyweight contest between Paul Berlenbach, former world's champion, and Francois Charles, of France, European champion, originally scheduled for Ebbet's field August 11, has been set back a week until August 18, Humber J. Fugazy, the promoter, announced today.

Fugazy said Berlenbach asked for more time to get into fighting shape.

Girl Sets Record In London Meet

London, August 2.—(AP)—Miss D. A. Green, jumping 5 feet 13-8 inches at the Chiswick sports meeting today, set what is claimed as a world's record for the running high jump for women.

Although there is no recognized world record for the high jump, the best mark hitherto accepted is 4 feet 10 7-8 inches set by Miss Katherine Lee, of Chicago, in 1923.

JACK AND GENE TO BE TREATED LIKE OTHERS

Binghamton, N. Y., August 2.—(AP)—D. Walker Wear, of Binghamton, a member of the license committee of the state athletic commission, said today Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney will be given the "same consideration as any other applicant" when they file applications for a renewal of their licenses.

"There has not been filed with the license committee an application for Dempsey or Tunney," he said.

"It is not the policy or practice of the license committee to take action on proposed applications."

Wear and Colonel J. J. Phelan, of New York, comprise the license committee which is considered to hold the key to the Dempsey-Tunney situation. Their approval of licenses for the fighters is essential, although the boxing commissioners already have sanctioned the bout for September 16 at the Yankee stadium under Tex Rickard's direction.

112 Golfers Enter Buffalo Tourney

Buffalo, N. Y., August 2.—(AP)—One hundred and twelve of the best public links golfers of the country teed off today in the qualifying round of the fifth annual national public links tournament championship at Grover Cleveland park. Fifteen states are represented in the entry list. George Rae, of Toronto, gives the contest an international aspect.

Rain Halts Struggle With Memphis Clan In Series Opener

BY DICK HAWKINS.

That question is the burning—or rather dripping—one of the day. And the answer is not to be found. Of course, many blame it to "dog days" and others even ring the moon in on the proposition but that doesn't change the barometer and doesn't alter the fact that the Crackers and Chicks were drowned out of a double-header Monday afternoon.

R. J. Spiller, new owner of the club, announced Monday in the midst of the downpour that the Crackers and Chicks would play the six games on their present schedule in three double bills beginning today, in spite of something or other and high water.

Plenty of Games.

This assertion sounds hopeful to the fans and means that if the weather will "play nice" for a few days the baseball enthusiasts will have their fill.

There was fire in the eye of Mr. Spiller when he made the announcement regarding the flock of double-headers. He said in no uncertain terms that the games would be played if the players had to swim and that was that.

If the usual afternoon rain appears today it will have to drop buckets full to prevent the playing of at least one game, the boss declared, and he stated that the contests would not be called off until the last possible minute.

Now this string of double-headers may be good news to the fans but to the pitchers it is something else. It means that there is a very fine possibility that one or two of the hurlers in either camp will have to appear twice in three days. This eventually all hinges on the possibility that the assigned pitchers are not able to last the full game when they start.

But then, there's no use borrowing trouble. There are two or three of the Cracker outfit who can pitch twice in three days and suffer no harm and the Chickasaws are not without their "iron men" either.

Enjoys Singing.

Even rain has its good points. Monday while the elements were on a rampage outside, the Cracker locker room rang to the flats and sharps of the famous tossers' quartet. And any time you think the ability of the Cracker lads is confined to playing baseball you have made a mistake. True gems of harmony flow from the lips of Rod Murphy, Tommy Griffith, Al Niehaus and Ray Francis. These laddies don't just sing the words to such delectable bits as "My Old Girl" but they produce some real harmony. The next time it rains just open your windo wand listen in the direction of Spil[illegible] park.

WHITE SOX BEAT YANKS.

New York, August 2.—New York's winning streak of eleven games was broken today when Chicago defeated the Yankees, 2 to 1 in a pitching duel between Urban Shocker and Urban Faber, two spitball pitchers. Collins' single, Sheely's double, and Falk's hit gave the White Sox their two runs, while the league leaders made their lone tally on Gehrig's double, Paschal's single and an infield out by Lazzeri. The Yankees filled the bases in the ninth but were unable to score.

ATHLETICS WIN TWIN BILL.

Detroit, August 2.—The Athletics administered two thorough beatings to the Tigers today, shutting them out, 6 to 0 in the first when Ehmke allowed only three hits, and taking the second, 10 to 1 by falling on four Detroit pitchers. Walberg and Grove collaborated to win the second, Grove especially being invincible with men on base. Manush's home run in the second game was his eleventh of the season.

Mrs. Robinson Leading Field

Asheville, N. C., August 2.—(AP)—Mrs. J. I. Robinson, of Atlanta, led the qualifying field in the fourth annual Biltmore Forest women's invitation golf tournament which started here today. Mrs. Robinson's card for the 18 holes was four strokes better than her closest rival, Mrs. Nedgar Lowndes, also of Atlanta.

DERELICT BEACHED BY COAST VESSEL OFF HOG ISLAND

Norfolk, Va., August 2.—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Carrabeset, cruising along the coast between the Virginia Capes and the Delaware breakwater, picked up a derelict 25 miles east of Winter Quartet Light Sunday and beached it off Hog Island, Va., today, acacording to radio advices received at coast guard headquarters here today.

A full description of the derelict wast not given, but Captain A. J. Henderson, in charge of the local office, said it probably was of considerable size judging from the time it took the Carrabeset to get it to Hog Island and beach it.

DELINQUENT TAX LISTS NOT TO BE ADVERTISED

Due to the fact that all accounting work in connection with unpaid 1925 city taxes has not been completed, tax fi fas for 1925 will not be advertised for sale until September 1, it was stated by officials of the city marshal's office Monday.

The law requires that all unpaid fi fas be advertised for sale for 30 days and advertisements of the fi fas adds considerably to the total amount of the taxes due the city. There is approximately $150,000 worth of unpaid 1925 taxes on the tax books at present it was stated Monday.

DAVE IS GOING

Dave Barbee, but three short years ago a star on the diamond at Oglethorpe university, is stepping out in the big show in no uncertain manner.

Dave, who was passed up by the Southern league and went to the Cotton States league, was purchased recently for a goodly sum by the Philadelphia Americans. Monday, Dave played right field for the Athletics and in the two games gleaned a total of four hits and three runs.

Just another instance of an Atlanta college star going into the big loop and making good.

BARONS WIN ANOTHER.

Birmingham, Ala., August 2.—Birmingham returned home today to take a 5-to-2 decision over Little Rock in a game which was featured by a triple play, a hurling duel between Palmero, of the Barons, and Carroll. The Barons bunched hits in two innings, the first and fourth, and mixed one hit with passes in the eighth to score two runs. Palmero held Little Rock well in hand, save for the seventh and eighth innings.

LOOKOUTS LOSE.

Mobile, Ala., August 2.—Mobile defeated Chattanooga today, 4 to 2, when D. Jones, who relieved McKenty in the first inning, weakened in the ninth after allowing the Bears two hits. He walked three men in the final inning and Susko's pinch single to right field off Horan, who relieved Jones, scored the tying and winning runs. A total of 23 batters were issued bases on balls in the game. Both clubs used three pitchers.

GIANTS DOWN CARDS.

New York, August 2.—The New York Giants made it four out of five from the Cardinals by defeating St. Louis today 4 to 2. The winning attack was put over in the seventh against Vic Keen and then continued against Bill Sherdel, aided by two errors by Billy Southworth. The Cardinals' two runs came in the second when O'Farrell hoisted one out of the park with Douthit on base.

STONE, WEBSTER PLAN DEVELOPMENT ON DAVIS ISLANDS

Tampa, Fla., August 2.—Stone & Webster, Inc., of Boston, will form a syndicate and invest $2,500,000 in stock in a new corporation to finance and complete the development of Davis Islands, in Tampa bay, according to announcement made here tonight.

The program as announced calls for immediate concentration upon dredging operations and construction work. The project represents an investment of several millions of dollars.

COUNCIL FAVORS FUND TO REPAIR 2 STREETS

A joint request of the tenth ward delegation for a fund of $1,000 to repair Arden avenue and Evans drive in order to make these streets passable was referred by city council Monday afternoon to the finance committee for recommendation.

In presenting the resolution Alderman Charles M. Ford declared that the paper was offered at the earnest "solicitation of residents of the ward, who have declared the streets to be almost impassable."

Decatur Hotel Site May Be Announced At Meeting Tonight

Decatur, Ga., August 2.—(Special.) Decatur citizens, particularly those who bought bonds in the hotel proposed here, will meet Tuesday night at 7:45 o'clock in the courthouse, when it is expected that definite action will be taken toward selecting a site for the building.

It is thought probable that the Skeen lot, on the corner of Ponce de Leon avenue and Church street, recently purchased by Walter T. Candler, may be selected. Interest also centers in the report that the entry of Mr. Candler into the proposed hotel may mean that a more magnificent building than was first proposed, may be erected, which may include a handsome theater.

A stock issue of more than $200,000 was recently sold here with which to erect a 60-room, 3-story building. All stockholders and citizens generally are urged to attend the meeting Tuesday night, as definite plans for the hotel are expected to be announced.

New York, August 2.—(AP)—Prospects for improved weather in the south were not fully realized and slight early declines were followed by rallies in the cotton market here today. Contracts for September delivery sold up from 17.60 to 17.77 and closed at 17.72, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 3 to 7 points.

Trading opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 6 points under realizing or liquidation which seemed to be promoted by an idea that last week's advances had left the market in an easy technical position and by the talk of better weather in the southwest. October sold off to 17.59 and March to 17.83, making net losses of about 5 to 10 points on the more active positions, but offerings appeared to be quite readily taken at these prices, and the market firmed up during the middle of the day. The eastern belt forecast pointing to further showers was evidently a disappointment to some of the early sellers, while the day's detailed reports showed rather low night temperatures in nothern Texas and considerable rainfall in eastern belt sections. Buying was also promoted by a bullish construction of the season-end figures from New Orleans, placing the world's carryover of American cotton at bales and the world's consumption for last season at 15,165,000 bales.

October advanced to 17.31 and January to 17.80, making net gains of about 10 to 13 points, but at these figures there was another flurry of realizing and the close showed reactions of 4 or 5 points from the best. Two of the private end-July crop reports were issued, one of them making the condition 66.5 with an indicated yield of 14,195,000 bales, while the other made the condition 68.7 and the indicated yield 14,842,000.

PRICES FLUCTUATE IN NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, August 2.—(AP)—The cotton market was less active today than it has been and prices fluctuated within a narrower range. The feature of the day was the publication just at the opening of Secretary Hester's annual totals of supply and distribution for the past season which ended Saturday. The world's consumption of American cotton was shown to have been 15,165,000 bales, the largest on record. The carryover was put at 5,362,000 bales, or somewhat smaller than expected. Southern consumption totaled 4,778,926 bales, which was the largest season's total on record. These bullish statistics exerted a sustaining influence all session. After opening 5 to 8 points higher, prices eased off 10 to 15 points on favorable weather in the belt over Sunday. Later the market recovered on fears of a return of unsettled weather and on the bullish consumption totals. The close showed net gains for the day of 4 to 5 points.

As Liverpool was closed, the market was influenced at the opening by the rains in the eastern belt and Hester's consumption figures. First trades showed gains of 5 to 8 points. From this level, prices eased off owing to favorable weather in the west, until October traded down to 17.55, December to 17.44 and January to 17.43, or 11 to 15 points down from the early highs and 6 to 7 points under Saturday's close.

The later rally finally carried October up to 17.70. December to 17.59 and January to 17.55, or 12 to 15 points up from the lows and 6 to 9 points above the previous close. The close was near the highs. Exports for the day totaled 5,823 bales.

New Orleans, August 2.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed dull, 4 points up; sales 247. Low middling 15.42; middling 18.67; good middling 19.32. Receipts 136; stock 153,379.

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM

Rails Strong in Spots, But Outside Public Continues to Stand Aside and Look on. Much Higher Prices Are Predicted.

New York, August 2.—Some of the recent market leaders and some of the rails were strong in spots. But the great bulk of the turn-over continues in a comparatively few stocks. The average price of 50 representative stocks is now within striking distance of making a new high. But the big outside public continues to stand aside and look on. It is possible that between now and election time a new high record may be made in the average price. But it is a question as to whether the big outside public, having stayed out of the stock market during the recent recovery from the March low level, will come into the market at the existing high-price level.

In some ways the existing stock market may be likened to a big fireworks display on the Fourth of July night. Toward the end there is more noise and more different kinds of lights to be seen at one time. Undoubtedly money is to be made speculating in the stock market at what appears to be a climax in an extended upward price movement. But the trader who makes money in the stock market and keeps it is the one who uses the old rule of buying when nobody appears to want stocks and selling them, according to the tape, when everybody appears to want them. Conservative traders are keeping their working capital liquid in order to buy something cheap worth having and which can be carried at a good income return until the inevitable advance in prices shows a profit besides the income return obtained in the meantime.

Active Market.

Speculative Wall street is now predicting a very active stock market for August with prices much higher. A month ago it was generally thought July would be a quiet, uninteresting month stock marketwise.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent, the highest renewal rate since July 15, and in the early afternoon advanced to 5 with the banks calling loans to meet first of the month requirements. Time money was firmer, 4 5-6 being bid for six months' money with the offering rate 4 3-4 per cent.

Some gossip is heard in Wall street to the effect that if manipulation in the stock market continues the federal reserve banks here and elsewhere will raise their rediscount rates. It is not the business of the federal reserve banks to act as guardians of the stock market unless speculation is obviously absorbing credit required elsewhere. There does not appear to be today use of credit in the stock market needed by the rest of the country. It is conceivable, however, that if speculation in the stock market goes much further the federal reserve banks will act as they acted early this year and back in 1919.

It seems easy to make money in a stock like General Motors. Certainly the daily fluctuations offer an opportunity to either bulls or bears. But one reason why there is so little participation by the public in the speculation going on in General Motors is that brokerage houses are asking a 50-point margin on this stock. This means a margin of $5,000 to trade in 100 shares. The banks carrying the brokers ask for a margin of 20 per cent, which is not far from $4,000 on 100 shares. Banks and brokers are asking for a very large margin on General Motors because of the possibilities of sudden wide fluctuations in this stock. It is easy for General Motors to advance or decline ten points or more within a few hours.

Wall street was not surprised at today's cables reporting that Secretary Mellon had been ordered by President Coolidge to give up his holiday trip abroad and devote his time to consulting with representatives of European governments over the foreign financial situation. This is exactly what Wall street has been expecting Mr. Mellon to do ever since he went abroad last month. Naturally Wall street is encouraged over today's news that Mr. Mellon will take an active part in the conferences now being conducted abroad to see what can be done to help France, Italy and other countries. German and British financiers, however, according to today's cable advices, are not over optimistic regarding the outlook for France. The feeling there continues to be that France will not pay higher taxes and will not take any constructive measures to save the franc until the franc becomes worthless as a medium of domestic trade.

With the 5th a holiday, there were 21 five-hour days on the stock exchange during the month just closed. There were five Saturdays, but one—the 3d—was a holiday. For the month, with the exception of the 26th when only 727,000 shares changed hands, every five-hour day was a million-share day. But the stock market on the 26th was getting ready for the 29th, when the turnover was 2,327,000 shares, and for the 30th, when 2,384,000 shares changed hands. For the month, with the two days out, the turnover reached 36,731,000 shares, which was 4,458,000 larger than for July of last year.

Outside of industrial shares, discounting split-ups, it is not reasonable to believe that any great amount of investment buying is going on in industrial shares at the present high price level. Rails having a seasoned dividend record may still be bought, which offer an attractive income return. But if something should happen to start a decline in industrials, rails purchased for speculative account would also decline.

Building Permits Continue To Soar Throughout July

Building permits for Atlanta continued to soar during the month of July, passing the month of July, 1925, by a margin of $543,358 with a grand total of $1,191,151 against $647,793 for the same month last year, according to figures released Monday by A. C. McDaniel, assistant building inspector.

The total for the year stood at $13,683,198 for the first seven months of this year as against $7,495,948 for the corresponding period last year and against an approximate total of $11,000,000 for the entire year of 1925.

Every month of this year thus far has shown a substantial gain over the corresponding month of 1925, according to official records of the building inspector's office.

Included in the $1,191,151 in permits issued for July of this year were 114 frame dwellings, 13 duplexes and four apartment houses, which will house a total of 184 additional families. Nine new brick business houses at a cost of $161,400 also are included in the total of 335 permits issued during the month.

January	$1,463,667	$ 1,483,798
February	1,241,502	5,781,575
March	1,076,085	1,117,491
April	854,939	936,622
May	1,300,358	2,159,022
June	911,634	993,539

FUNERAL IN MACON TODAY FOR SOLDIER DROWNED AT TYBEE

Savannah, Ga., August 2.—(AP)—The body of Ernest Collier, private in battery D, 121st infantry of the Georgia national guard, which was recovered yesterday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock in the main channel of the river back of the encampment of the regiment at Tybee by Edward Ciucevich, of Savannah, was sent this morning to Macon.

The body was accompanied by a military escort from his battery, headed by Corporal A. L. Lyons. The funeral will take place at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning at Macon. It will be a military funeral.

Arkansas Requests Return of Alleged Murderer, Held Here

Little Rock, Ark., August 2.—(AP) The return of Paul Houston, alleged murderer, from Atlanta, was asked in a requisition issued today by Governor Tom Terral. Houston, after committment on the murder charge, in Lawrence county, escaped while three companions were being tried at Walnut Ridge.

ARRESTED HERE LAST WEDNESDAY.

Paul Houston was arrested Wednesday night by Call Offifcers J. G. Bowman and L. P. Higgins on Houston street, following an alleged quarrel with another man. He at first gave the name of Paul Houston and later gave the name of Jack Mason. When questioned by officers concerning the Arkansas murder, he is said to have admitted escaping from an Arkansas chaingang after he had served part of a 10-year sentence.

PRICES INCREASE ON CURB MARKET

New York, August 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Reflecting the bullish enthusiasm which marked dealings on the stock exchange, the curb market stocks worked higher today in moderately active trading. Oil and specialty shares made the best showing, with public utilities generally marking time.

One of the features of the day was a rise of more than 12 points in Stanley Company of America to a new high price at 75 in response to the announcement that this company would head a large combination of motion picture theaters.

Stiffening wholesale gasoline quotations in the west accounted for a revival of interest in the oil stocks, although gains were limited. Standard Oil issues moved up under the leadership of the New York company, which advanced a point on a large turnover. Humble Oil jumped 3 1-4 points, while Ohio Oil was lifted nearly 2 points on the announcement of an extra dividend. Creole Syndicate, large blocks of which recently were taken up by a banking group, reached the best price of the year but later reacted fractionally.

Among the utility issues which made good headway were Commonwealth Power shares and warrants, Engineers Public Service and Northern States Power "A," Celotex, Parke Davis and Singer Manufacturing displayed independent strength.

BONDHOLDERS BUY SHORT RAIL LINE IN FLORIDA AREA

Gainesville, Fla., August 2.—(AP)—H. A. Smith, of Hartford, Conn., and F. J. Lisman, of New York city, as the committee of bondholders, today purchased the Tampa and Jacksonville railroad, formerly the Gainesville and Gulf, a short line with headquarters in this city, at a special masters' sale. The purchase price was $300,000.

The T. & J. was indebted to the bondholders for $520,000 in bonds, $289,286.01 in accrued interest and $25,000 in counsel fees, according to the decree under which the sale was made by W. S. Browne, Gainesville, special master in chancery.

Representatives of Hampton and Hampton, attorneys here for the Guarantee Trust company, of New York, trustees of the bonds, and M. Pancus, New York attorney, who bid in the property, declined to comment on the reported contract between the committee and the Seaboard Air Line railway for the purchase of the road.

FATHER, BELIEVED DEAD, FINDS SON IN HOSPITAL HERE

Harold Troutx, 18, of 271 Luckie street, awoke Friday morning in Grady hospital and found his father at his bedside, after he had believed for 14 months that his father was dead.

Young Troutx has been a patient at the hospital since July 14 and he has told hospital attaches that his father was reported to have died 14 months ago in a New York hospital. He also told doctors that his mother and three sisters left Atlanta soon afterward and were later listed among the dead in a street car wreck at Seattle, Wash.

Hospital attaches also stated that young Troutx told them that he had received $1,800 from the traction company as a result of the Seattle accident and that he had spent the money in attorney's fees and in travels along the Pacific coast. He was said to have returned to Atlanta only a few weeks ago.

The boy's father is at a loss to explain how the report of his death reached his family.

Constitution Bureau.

Rome, Ga., August 2.—(Special.) Contracts to pave East Second avenue from East Sixth street to East Twelfth street have been let to the Atlantic Bithulithic Paving company, of Washington, D. C.

The bids for the two streets amount was approved by the members of the advisory board commission.

The bids for the two strets amount to about $45,000 and the contracts have been signed by officials of the city and paving company.

Prof. J. C. King Dies.

Rome, Ga., August 2.—(Special.) Funeral services for Professor J. C. King, well known Floyd county citizen, who died at his residence near Coosa Friday, were held Sunday afternoon from Sardis church. Rev. Cliff Freeman conducted the services.

Mr. King was superintendent of Floyd county schools for 13 years and had many friends throughout the state. He spent practically all of his life teaching and was also active in religious affairs.

He is survived by his widow, three children, Mrs. Julia King Ennis, of Atlanta; H. S. King, of Chicago, and John R. King, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Transfers Gain.

Rome, Ga., August 2.—(Special.) An increase of $6,363.45 is shown in property transfers for the month of July as compared with June. In the latter month the total was $75,545.76, while for July the amount was $81,908.15. The largest single transfer in July was $19,500.

Porter Is Active.

Rome, Ga., August 2.—(Special.) Claude H. Porter, local candidate for congress, visited four counties last week and made 15 speeches and this week he will present his race before the voters of Whitfield, Gordon, Bartow and Murray counties.

He will make one speech Tuesday at Chatsworth, county seat of Murray county, and spend the day visiting communities in the county. He will then go into Whitfield county for three speeches, Bartow county for three speeches, and Gordon county for eight speeches.

The time limit for entrance to the congressional race will be up Saturday, August 7. Mr. Porter is planning to speak in every community in the district.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATE OPENS HEADQUARTERS

Immediately after he opened his offices Monday, Mr. Gordon received assurances from scores of outstanding civic and business leaders of the city, that they would support him in his platform for a greater and better Atlanta.

New York, August 2.—(AP)—Another sensational advance of 12 points in General Motors, which touched the record high level of 201, overshadowed all other developments in today's stock market. Transactions in this one issue totaled 261,400 shares, or about one-eighth of the day's entire volume of business with buying stimulated by the statement, credited to a prominent banker, that the recent sharp rise had been justified and that still higher prices were warranted on the basis of current earnings.

The general market moved irregularly higher despite the marking up of the call money rate from 4 1-2 to 5 per cent coincident with the heavy calling of loans. Publication of another series of favorable earnings statements, predictions of good business in the second half of the year by several leading bankers and rail executives and reports of a further stiffening of wholesale gasoline prices in Chicago all helped to provide ammunition in the campaign for higher prices.

Offerings Absorbed.

Heavy profit taking was in evidence in many stocks on the theory that a technical reaction was in order after the brisk advance of last week, but offerings generally were well absorbed. Commission houses reported an increase in public participation which was brought out by the expanding volume of "odd lot" orders, but the big bulk of trading is still largely professional.

The general automotive list derived strength from reports that several of the new automobile models brought out this summer were meeting with an unexpected good reception. Hudson was bid up nearly 3 points to 75 1-4, but sagged a point below that figure on profit taking, while Mack Truck and Nash each closed at net gains of more than a point. The advance in Steel shares was held in check by reports of a slight curtailment of operations in the west. United States Steel common, however, closed nearly a point higher at 147 3-8, the independents showing only small fractional changes. Atlantic Refining up 4 7-8 at 114 7-8; General Asphalt up 3 3-8 at 71 1-4, and Pan-American "B" up 2 1-8 at 69 3-4, were the leaders in the oil group. Pools were again active in a number of public utilities and specialties. New peak prices for the year, or longer, were established by American Sumatra Tobacco certificates, Auto Sales, Brooklyn Edison, Bush Terminal Debentures, Butterick Publishing, Crucible Steel preferred, Dupont, Loose Wiles Biscuit preferred, J. C. Penny, preferred, and Public Service of New Jersey.

Rails in Demand.

Rails took on a new lease of life with the average of twenty leading issues mounting to the highest prices since the war. New York Central, Southern Railway and Baltimore & Ohio all exceeded their previous 1929 peak prices.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent, the highest renewal rate since July 15, and then advanced to 5 per cent as loans. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

A sharp rally of 20 points in French francs, which ruled above 2.60 cents, featured the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling was slightly higher around $4.85 3-4.

EXCHANGE HEAD SEES INCREASE IN COTTON CROP

New Orleans, August 2.—(AP)—Secretary H. G. Hester of the New Orleans Cotton exchange announced today the commercial crop for the year ending July 31, amounting to 15,614,707 bales, an increase over last year of 916,351, an increase over the previous year of $4,324,310 and an increase over 1922-23 of 4,331,901 bales.

Southern consumption, which he stated at 4,778,926 bales, Mr. Hester said indicates an increase of 398,808 bales compared with last year and an increase compared with year before last of 793,598.

Mr. Hester makes the world's consumption of American cotton, 15,165,000 bales and the amount carried over at the close of July 5,362,000 bales. The world's consumption, said the secretary, has never before reached 15,000,000 bales. He makes the year's exports, including shipments to Canada, 8,252,163 bales, practically reaching last year's total.

Commenting on the enormous world's consumption, Mr. Hester said that it is largely due to the use of relatively cheap low grade cottons by the mills and other consuming establishments.

Other data, relating to port movements, exports and other items, will be promulgated in a few days, Mr. Hester announced.

HOUSTON INTEREST RATE IS LOWERED BY FARM BUREAU

Washington, August 2.—(AP)—A reduction from 5 1-2 to 5 per cent in the interest rate on loans from the Houston, Texas, federal land bank was ordered today by Commissioner A. C. Williams, of the federal farm loan bureau.

Mr. Williams said that reduction was made because of the good record of the Houston bank "coupled with the strong condition of the bank, the present bond market and favorable agriculture conditions in Texas."

Seven Filipinos Sentenced.

Manila, August 2.—(AP)—The insular supreme court sustained today a lower court decision sentencing David Mutua, Pedro Zauiat and five other Filipinos to 17 years each in prison for having cut off the ears of Popio Montenegro, a high school teacher, because he expressed himself as opposed to Manual Quezon, president of the Philippine senate.

SOUTH G AINING IN TEXTILE MILLS

Washington, August 2.—(Special.) How the south is forging ahead of New England in the cotton textile industry is shown in comparative figures for the first six months of this year as compiled by the department of commerce.

While New England still has a few more spindles, the south is far head in the number of spindle hours, showing greater activity. At the end of June, this year, New England showed 18,057,480 spindles in place, as compared with 17,864,844 in the south.

The total number of active spindle hours in the south in the first six months of 1926 was 30,652,663,000, or 2.44 per cent head of the first six months last year, 23.38 per cent more than for the first half of 1924, a lean year, and 4.52 per cent above the first six months of 1923.

New England figures show 16,432,717,000 spindle hours for the first half of the year, which was 4.14 per cent less than the total for the first six months of 1925, but exceeded the total for the first half of 1924 by 17.85 per cent, and fell 24.73 per cent below the figure for the first half of 1923.

In 1923, the active spindle hours in the south numbered 29,326,801,000. There was a fall to slightly under 25,000,000,000 in 1924, a jump back up to slightly under 30,000,000,000 in 1925, with the figure going over 30,000,000,000 for the first time during the first half of this year.

New England, on the other hand, shows a drop from 1923 to 1926, with 21,832,099,000 in 1923, slightly under 14,000,000,000 for 1924, 17,142,717,000 in 1925, with the slump downward in 1926.

Coffee.

New York, August 2.—Coffee futures opened at a decline of 6 to 11 points under realizing or liquidation which seemed due to the easier ruling of Rio exchange and reports of slightly easier cost and freight offers. After selling off from 16.66 to 16.55, December closed at 16.58, with the general market closing at net declines of 11 to 20 points. Sales estimated at 19,000. Closing quotations: September 17.65; December 16.58; January 16.20; March 15.92; May 15.50; July 15.20.

Spot coffee dull; Rios 7s 19½; Santos 4s 22½ to 22¾. Cost and freight offers included part Bourbon 3s and 5s at 20.75 to 21.05.

Rio exchange on London 1-16 pence lower; dollar buying rate 30 reis higher. Rio market 200 to 300 reis lower; Santos unchanged to 200 reis higher. Brazilian port receipts 36,000; Jundiaby receipts 19,000.

Provisions.

Total bond sales (par value) $7,589,000.

New York, August 2.—(AP)—The bond market went forward today with little change from its temperate pace of the last two weeks. Transactions for the most part were confined to small lots and distinct movement was apparent.

The foreign list generally was firm under the lead of French issues. The 7s and 7 1-4s of that country both registered gains of a full point, the dealing in the former being comparatively heavy volume. Buying of French obligations followed receipt of a dispatch from Europe saying that Secretary Mellon had been instructed by President Coolidge to make a survey of the financial conditions there. This news was regarded as bullish, particularly for the French issues, but those of other countries also showed a response notably Belgian 6 1-2s, Rhinelbe 7s and German General Electric 6 1-2s and 7s which rose fractionally on moderate turnovers.

Internal troubles in Mexico apparently had their reflection in the market, Mexican 6s, small assented, dropping three points and other Mexican issues slipping off from 1 1-2 to 2 1-4.

Domestic corporation bonds were irregular and generally without variations. Among the stronger rail issues were Chesapeake and Ohio Convertible 5s which rose 2 3-4, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 4s which were up 1 1-8, Wabash, Omaha division, 3 1-2s, up 1 5-8, and Delaware and Hudson 5s, up 1 point.

New York street railways developed weakness on very small trading, losing 1 1-8 points, and Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1-2s closed a half down.

Trading in United States government bonds was very dull and prices were little changed.

Sugar.

New York, August 2.—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 4.18 for spot Cuban, duty paid. Sales reported were 30,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment.

Raw futures were quiet with prices moving within narrow limits. Commission house selling early, caused a partial decline of 2 points, but offerings were absorbed by shorts and trade interests and slight rallies followed, with the market closing 1 point lower on January and unchanged for other positions. Approximate sales 25,000 tons. September closed 2.41; December 2.57; January 2.61; March 2.64; May 2.73.

Refined business was of fair proportions and prices unchanged at 5.70 to 5.80 for fine granulated.

Dry Goods.

New York, August 2.—The gray goods markets today reported a good inquiry and a fair amount of business put through at firm prices. The demand was well divided between print cloths, sheetings and convertibles. Severable sizeable orders were placed for broadcloths, carded and combed, in the various constructions running from single coarse yarns to fine two-plies both way. Manufactorers pressed for spot deliveries of rayon colored yarn dress goods. The burlap market was reported unchanged for spots, afloats or shipments.

Men's wear trade marked time in anticipation of the opening of spring 1927 fancy goods lines by the leading producers, the American Woolen company and others. The floor covering market is preparing for the usual August sales.

TREND IRREGULAR ON WHEAT MART

Chicago, August 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Indications of 50,000,000 bushels more winter wheat being harvested in the United States than was looked for a month ago upset wheat values today. Closing quotations on wheat were weak, 3 3-8c to 4 1-4c net lower, whereas corn showed 3-8c to 1 1-4c advance with oats varying from 1-2c decline to 1 3-4c gain and provisions 2c to 50c down.

Unofficial domestic crop estimates issued here today by leading experts suggested winter wheat yields ranging from 596,000,000 bushels to 643,000,000 bushels, with an average of 617,000,000 bushels. These estimates were generally construed as meaning 50,000,000 bushels increase as compared with figures published as of July 1. The average of new private forecasts of domestic spring wheat production pointed to a yield of 201,000,000 bushels, practically the same as a month ago. Under such circumstances, the market took a rapid downward plunge and at no time displayed much power to react.

Visible Supply Total.

Contributing to the weakness of the wheat market was announcement of nearly 9,000,000 bushels increase of the United States wheat visible supply total. Besides, arrivals of new wheat at Chicago today were greatly enlarged, amounting to 1,212 cars. Better weather and crop news from Canada tended also to promote selling pressure here and to accelerate downturns in price. Notice was likewise taken of a Canadian crop estimate of 365,000,000 bushels for the three prairie provinces as against recent other estimates of respectively 284,000,000 bushels and 279,000,000 bushels.

Strength in the corn market resulted from estimates that production of corn this season will be 56,000,000 bushels less than was expected a month ago. Oats were affected by wheat weakness. The average of private estimates of the oats harvest, however, was cut down to 44,000,000 bushels under last month's figures.

Atlanta Girl Is Star Of 'Fascinating Youth'

Regardless of how choosy, particular or downright cranky you are about entertainment, you'll find the Howard theater program this week a delightfully pleasing one. One reason for the success of this particular program is a little lady with g v eyes and a winning smile that is distinctly her own, who in addition to possessing these aforementioned assets, claims Atlanta as her place of origin. All the smart little boys have probably guessed her name by this time, but for the benefit of the dumb boys, we'll say she is Marion Ivy Harris.

Miss Harris is seen in the leading female role of the picture, "Fascinating Youth," which was made by the graduates of the Paramount school of junior stars, and she is easily the one outstanding performer of the lot. Ivy Harris is facially a composite of Pauline Starke, Gloria Swanson and Aileen Pringle, but her smile is all Harris and a yard wide—in quality, not quantity.

Miss Harris is also seen in the stage production, "Alice in Movieland," which offering has to do with the desire of a certain young lady to effect entrance into the realm of the silver sheet.

Tests in Mornings.

The first series of screen tests which are being made by Paramount and The Constitution also took place Monday evening. The tests were scheduled for 11 a. m., but due to a delay in train schedules, the cameras and lighting equipment did not arrive on time, thus necessitating a postponement of a few hours. It is announced, however, that the remainder of the tests will be made at the hour previously provided—11 a. m.

The feature picture, "Fascinating Youth," will stand on an equal footing with any picture which has come this way in the current season, making no mention of the fact that it is these young people's first appearance on the screen.

It is the screen adaptation of a Byron Morgan story and the screen script has followed very closely the original story, to its decided advantage. It is a light thing in which there is much movement and excitement, which two elements serve to cover the few weak places in the performances of the junior stars.

Excellent Light Comedy.

Charles Rogers is seen in the male lead as the son of a wealthy and obliging father. After compensating several young ladies whose hearts have been damaged by his son's fickleness, the father decides to marry the son to a girl of his choice. Strange to relate, the son is by no means of the same inclination as his pater, and in order to prove himself a success and thereby annex the lady of his choice, he assumes the management of his father's defunct mountain inn, and the remainder of the film is devoted to iceboat racing, much galloping about on the part of all parties concerned and some excellent light comedy.

The most prominent male in the cast is Gregory Blackton, although he has only a bit in the current film. Charles Rogers would probably be more effective if he didn't look as though he were pondering deeply over the fall of the franc, or some other subject foreign to the camera.

"Second Hungarian Rhapsody" is Mr. Littau's overture for this week. Jane Jones Perkins at the Wurlitzer pleases with a novelty presentation of "Home, Sweet Home." A comedy is also on the bill.

—ELMO HAMBY.

West End Theater.

If one were asked to name the two most famous moustaches in the world, those of Chester Conklin and Charlie Chaplin would be found neck and neck. Conklin's lip decoration is of the variety known as the soup strainer, and was seen to great advantage in several pictures. He has the role of a Scotch laddie in "Behind the Front" which is being shown for the last times today at the West End theater.

Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton and Mary Brian are the featured players in this comedy of the world war. Edward Sutherland directed and Hugh Wiley wrote the story on which the film was founded.

The Metropolitan.

Mary Pickford and her litter of nine or ten ragged orphans touched not only the hearts of the responsive Monday night audiences, but as well those nerve centers that pick up and carry the thrills through the body. For "Sparrows" is a picture containing tense melodramatic moments interspersed throughout the underlying pathos of mother sympathy and child humor.

Mary, or "Mamma Molly," as she is called in her latest play, is the same young girl, childish but tender with the care and compassion of a mother, that we will always remember from "Daddy Long-Legs." She leads a motley gang of gamins through all their pranks and is one of the gang. It is a play that no child should miss, and one that no child could se without both pitying the gang and wanting to join it at the same time.

But "Mamma Molly" is not the only well-cut character in the absorbing drama. The part of "Old Grimes," the money-crazed owner of the baby farm in the swamps, is played without a movement of reproach, indeed, it is played so well that the audience gave palpalable evidence of its unanimous hatred for this character. Mary Pickford, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Roy Stewart, Spec O'Donnell, Monty O'Grady and Mary Miller each played their parts with studied accuracy.

Scenery and plot are hardly subordinate to characterization in this gripping picture. In a background of swampland and tumbled-down barns there are scenes to awe the imagination. The vast and miry pools of quicksand, sucking down everything it could surround, barely escaped by Mary and her orphans, and ultimately claiming that villian "Grimes," provides a chilling atmosphere. When Mary makes her way through this swamp, and crawls rottening branch bridges with man-eating alligators just out of reach below, all the time dragging her brood with her, there is a moment of tension unsurpassable.

KoKo Kwartet is an attractive novelty which weaves an old and popular song into a truly comical pen and ink reel. It is perfectly accompanied by the orchestra. And Enrico Leide does not fail to passionately strike the musical chords of the audience with fiery presentation of Offenbach's Orpheus.

The Rialto.

A laugh with every foot and a thrill between each laugh—such is an accurate description of William K. Howard's production of "Bachelor Brides," Rod LaRocque's new starring vehicle, which set a high standard of entertainment quality with first showing at the Rialto theater Monday. The film is a delightful comedy mystery piece, which masterfully combines genuine laughs with hair-raising situations galore.

The picture presents LaRocque, as a monocled English peer, who seeks the hand of a wealthy American heiress. The father of the girl, a Chicago butter and egg man, is seen in a hurried flight to Scotland in a vain attempt to block the marriage, and what happens at Duncraggan Towers the story night of his arrival furnishes first laughs—than suspense—then laughs again.

Jimmie Adams exhibits high qualities as a slapstick comedian in the educational production, "For Sadie's Sake," the two-reel laugh provoker on the same program.

The Tudor.

Now showing at the Tudor theater is one of the most powerful of all dramas of the north during gold rush days, a story of the hard men who went into a hard country to wrest wealth from nature, and there fought, loved, lived and died, "Flame of the Yukon," the romance of the toast of the Klondike, the beautiful woman who staked all on a single bet for the man she loved. In the cast of the picture are Arnold Day and Seena Owen.

Lakewood Park.

"The Ten Commandments," spectacular photoplay of Biblical adventures and the exploits of a modern couple who set out to break all the commandments, will be shown at 7 and 9 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night at the Lakewood airdome. A two-reel comedy and a western feature picture will be shown in addition to two complete performances of "The Ten Commandments," the most attractive motion picture program ever presented at Lakewood. A "Farmyard Dance" in the casino will begin at 8 o'clock, with prizes for the couple dressed most typically as farmers.

ALLEN ZEE SCORES BIG HIT AT GRAND WITH JAZZ BAND

Allan Zee, band leader, brought a jazz band to Loew's Grand theater Monday and proved that a jazz band is not all noise and discord. He played one number as a tribute to the late Victor Herbert in which he included several of Herbert's most popular compositions and it proved to be one of the most enjoyable musical numbers ever heard at this theater. Mr. Zee has a great band and his program is well worth hearing by those who think that it's not possible to get any real music from this class of organization. Incidentally, Mr. Zee brought with him one of the best dancers seen here in many months in the person of Miss Effie Martyn, who scored one of the big hits in the act.

This week's bill at Loew's Grand is good through and through. Coulter and Rose, two veteran comedians, appeared in a ludicrous skit entitled "Darktown Frolics," and they showed that the art of the burnt corkers is by no means a lost one. They probably got as many laughs Monday as any pair of comedians who have appeared here in years.

Jack Usher and company present a clever comedy skit entitled "Married Life," and it is far out of the ordinary run of domestic comedy. It is full of clever suprises and a musical number or two of unsual merit won favor.

"Sandy," the Loew feature picture offering with Madge Bellamy and Harrison Ford, is a great picture which holds the interest from start to finish.

—PAUL STEVENSON.

Charles W. Morse Suffers Shock; Condition Serious

Bath, Maine, August 2.—(AP).—Charles W. Morse, former New York financier, steamship magnate and ice king, was gravely ill at his summer home here tonight, the result of a shock which he suffered Sunday. Because of the age of the patient and the fact that the shock was his second, Dr. Byron F. Barker, his physician, admitted that his condition was serious.

The physician said that Mr. Morse was unconscious all day Sunday, but had rallied later. Tonight he remained in a semi-comatose condition.

It was learned today that his daughter, Mrs. John Geiger, of Chicago, will arrive here tomorrow to be with her father in his illness.

Mr. Morse's wife died suddenly on June 15. While arrangements for the funeral were in progress word was received that Mr. Morse had been ordered to appear in New York to plead to an old indictment charging him and others with conspiracy to use the mails in a scheme to defraud in the sale of steamship stock.

On the representations of his sons and attorneys that Mr. Morse was not in physical or mental condition to appear in court, Federal Judge Edwin R. Holmes postponed the hearing until October.

No Objection Made to Change Of U. S. Arsenal

Washington, August 2.—(AP)—Acting Secretary MacNider informed a delegation from Baltimore today that the war department would not oppose removal of ammunition stores from the Curtis bay arsenal seven miles south of the city, although it did not feel an explosion there would endanger the city.

The delegation, headed by Mayor Jackson, was armed with data regarding the munitions at the arsenal which apparently was obtained some time ago when a considerable quantity of high explosives was stored there. The secretary told his visitors this explosive and military pyrotechnics, which are the source of greatest danger so far as magazine explosions are concerned, had been removed some months past.

Mr. MacNider said he appreciated the apprehension of the people of Baltimore, and realized why they desired the stores removed.

"If the matter was brought up in congress," he said, "the war department would interpose no objection to removal of this ammunition."

In general the department has been against storing high explosives in bulk at any point adjacent to large centers of population and the powder at Curtis bay was removed long before the explosion at the Lake Denmark naval arsenal created uneasiness in cities, which have military magazines in their vincity.

HusbandMayBuy Chicago Theater For Young Star

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, Ill., August 2.—Mrs. Samuel Insull, wife of the traction and utilities magnate, is to have her own theater, according to best information today. Formation of the Sovereign Theater company and the leasing of the Studebaker theater are said to be part of the plan whereby she will be enabled to present the best plays, classical and modern. All interested parties declined to be quoted today, but said an announcement would be forthcoming shortly.

Mrs. Insull, who before her marriage to Mr. Insull was Gladys Wallis, a talented young actress, made a brilliant return to the stage last year as Lady Teazle in Sheridan's "School for Scandal." Following her remarkable success here, she went to New York in October and appeared in the play where it enjoyed the longest Broadway run in it's history.

M'LAIN JOINS U. S. TRADE BUREAU HERE

Announcement of the appointment of Captain Charles L. McLain, of Boston, as assistant district manager of the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, was made Monday by Harry O. Mitchell, chief of the Atlanta office. His headquarters will be in the bureau's offices in the federal building.

CAPTAIN CHARLES L. M'LAIN.

Although Captain McLain arrived two weeks ago, he did not enter on his new duties until yesterday, as he was stricken with appendicitis on the train and rushed to the United States veterans' hospital on his arrival.

Captain McLain brings to his new work a broad knowledge of world trade and is splendidly equipped both by training and experience to render a helpful service to the exporters and transportation interests of Atlanta and the southeast, Mr. Mitchell stated.

For the past two years he served as commercial agent in the Boston office of the bureau. Prior to that he was attached to the foodstuffs division of the bureau's Washington office and has written extensively for Commerce Reports, the government's weekly journal of foreign trade.

Captain McLain has traveled extensively and possesses a wide knowledge of foreign languages. He studied French in Sorbonne university in Paris and acquired a knowledge of Spanish and Malay dialects through four years' residence in the Philippines. He has traveled in China, Japan, the East Indies, Germany, England, France, Belgium and Mexico.

During the world war Captain McLain saw active overseas service and was decorated with the croix de guerre and distinguished service cross. He recruited and commanded by Company F of the 110th infantry of the 28th division from the outbreak of hostilities through February of 1919, with the exception of short perirods spent in hospitals recuperating from wounds.

Captain McLain has been prominently identified in civic activities in the east. He was president of the young men's club and senior vice-commander of the disabled veterans of the world war at Indiana, Pennsylvania, and president of the graduating class of the U. S. infantry school at Fort Benning at Columbus, Ga. Captain McLain is a thirty-second degree Mason and a member of the American Legion.

The old joke about "once the government gets your money in overpayment of taxes or any other account, you never get it back," suffered a setback Monday when more than 500 Georgians received checks covering overpayments of income taxes from the office of Josiah T. Rose, collector of internal revenue for the Atlanta district.

Although exact figures were not obtainable because remittances are still under way, it is estimated that the refunds will amount to several thousand dollars and that more than 3,000 persons will receive reimbursements from the government.

There is, however, also a dark side to this business of auditing accounts promptly and that is that there are some few persons who failed to pay all that the federal government requires on income taxes and these, of course, will be called upon to make up the deficit.

Mr. Rose's office is busy auditing the returns made for 1925 taxes which were filed March 15 of this year, and just as soon as discrepancies are discovered, immediate steps to correct them are taken.

Records are audited in district headquarters this year, instead of in Washington as heretofore, under the policy of decentralization, which the department adopted several months ago. This permits quicker adjustments.

FIRED POLICEWOMAN GETS HALF MONTH'S PAY

Council Monday voted to pay Miss Martha DuPree, discharged policewoman, $72, half a month's salary, and the paper today will be in the hands of Mayor Walter A. Sims for approval.

The paper came to council from the police committee and was passed without any fight. When Miss DuPree was dismissed from the woman's bureau, where she was employed several weeks ago, women's organizations of the city entered wide protests and demanded that she be given a public hearing, but the police committee declined to accede to their requests.

FORD TO SPEAK TONIGHT AT 10TH WARD MEETING

Charles M. Ford, candidate for mayor, will speak in the interest of his campaign tonight at 8 o'clock at the Stewart Avenue school at a free watermelon cutting. A band concert also will be given. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Tenth Ward Ford-for-Mayor club, which has a membership of more than 500 persons.

"My friends are growing stronger each day and I believe that we shall be victorious in the city primary of September 22," Mr. Ford declared Monday. "Campaign leaders are laying the foundation for one of the most aggressive mayoralty drives ever waged in this city."

Lady Astor, Virginia Born,

Lauds Prohi Law on Arrival

Boston, Mass., August 2.—(AP)—Lady Nancy Astor, M. P., today escorted her daughter, Hon. Phyllis Astor, 17, and her three youngest sons on a sightseeing tour of Boston and Harvard university as her first step in showing them America. The Astors arrived from England today.

"The typical English girl and the typical American girl are equally horrible," the quick-spoken Virginian, who became the first woman member of the English parliament, declared. "Your 100 per cent American is a rather awful creature. I want my girl to be, as every mother does, that fine type of woman who is above national prejudices."

Lady Astor was positive in her conviction that prohibition is here to stay in America. Terming it "A step toward moral attainment," she answered objections with references to the growth of savings deposits and general prosperity.

"If young girls are misbehaving, it is the fault of their mothers and not of prohibition," she said. "When I was a girl in Virginia, there were cocktails about, but we didn't drink them. Our father saw to that. It is no new situation, and there is no reason why the girl of today should be more tempted. Really, I can't understand it. There were eight of us, and I have six children myself. Catch my daughter doing it!"

Lady Astor asserted that General Andrews had the support of every right-minded Britisher in seeking cooperation in the prevention of liquor smuggling. Prohibition, however, had not yet become an issue in England and at present the coal crisis overshadowed everything else.

FORMER ATLANTAN, MAIL ADVERTISING EXPERT, IN CITY

OWEN C. HOLLERAN.

Mr. Holleran now is located in Chicago, where for eight years past he has held responsible positions with some of the greatest merchandising concerns in America. He was formerly assistant advertising manager of the Montgomery-Ward company, being in charge of direct mail advertising of that great mail order concern.

In addition, he formerly was assistant advertising director of the Benjamin Electric company, the largest industrial lighting company in the world. He was in charge of direct mail advertising and market research work for the Benjamin company.

Mr. Holleran now is advertising manager of the Lewis E. Myers company, a position won by progressive methods and new ideas he inaugurated while with the Montgomery-Ward and Benjamin companies.

ANOTHER BANK IN TRUST CHAIN REOPENS DOORS

The Bank of Hazelhurst, one of the chain of banks which recently closed doors after a receivership was ordered for the Bankers Trust company, of Atlanta, was reopened Monday through arrangement completed by T. R. Bennett, state superintendent of banks, it was announced at his office.

PLAN TO LICENSE HOTEL EMPLOYEES AGAIN POSTPONED

For a second time the ordinance providing for the licensing of bell boys, house detectives and janitors employed in Atlanta hotels was referred to the police committee for public hearing. The measure was introduced in council the second time Monday afternoon after Alderman Claude Buchanan announced that hotel men had asked that the hearing be postponed until a meeting of their organization could be held. The hearing will be held at the next police board meeting, it was announced.

GEORGIA TOBACCO MARTS OPEN TODAY

Douglas, Ga., August 2.—(Spl.)—Throughout approximately 60 counties in south Georgia preparations have been completed by the tobacco growers for the opening of the sale of tobacco on Tuesday, August 3. This date is one week later than the markets opened last year, but it is regarded as advantageous, inasmuch as it allowed the growers more time to get the tobacco housed and cured.

All through the tobacco belt the warehouses are full of the miracle weed of south Georgia which has come to rank next to cotton in importance as a money crop in this section. Bright leaf tobacco has been grown in Georgia for nine years, but this is the third year that it has passed the proportions of a money crop.

In 1925 the acreage was estimated at 70,000, which yielded 49,300,000 pounds which sold at an average price of 14.50 cents per pound, bringing into the state something over $7,000,000.

This year the acreage has been cut down to about 50,000 acres, and a finer quality of the weed has been grown and it is estimated that the price for 1926 will average 20 cents per pound on a yield of 50,000,000 pounds from which the farmers expect to receive from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000.

Douglas is located in the heart of the tobacco-growing area and in 1925 led all markets in the sale of the weed. Four warehouses here sold 7,795,000 pounds last year and it is expected that this city will maintain the lead again in 1926.

Forty-three warehouses are expected to be operated in 21 cities this year as follows: Alma 1; Baxley 2; Bainbridge 1; Blackshear 4; Cairo 1; Camilla 2; Douglas 4; Fitzgerald 2; Hahira 3; Hazelhurst 2; Lyons 2; Metter 1; Moultrie 1; Nashville 4; Pelham 1; Quitman 1; Thomasville 1; Tifton 3; Valdosta 3; Vidalia 2; Waycross 2.

Georgia bright leaf tobacco is used mostly in the manufacture of cigarettes, the bulk of the crop being shipped abroad for manufacture. Foreign tobacco firms all have buyers here who remain throughout the season, which usually lasts about two months. Cash is paid for the tobacco by the buyers.

BIG SALE EXPECTED AT BAINBRIDGE.

Bainbridge, Ga., August 2.—(Special.)—According to rough estimates, the Bainbridge warehouse will open this season Tuesday with between 30,000 and 50,000 pounds of tobacco on the floor.

Tobacco is not being rushed in on account of the rain, for fear of softening the perfectly cured weed.

Buyers are on the floor today and state that they are well pleased with the prospects for quality and quantity throughout the season, which will bring good prices.

BEN HILL GROWERS READY FOR OPENING.

Fitzgerald, Ga., August 2.—(Special.)—Diversification in its broadest sense is the program of George E. Ricker, of North Dakota, who operates six farms in Ben Hill county, on each of which he has acreage in tobacco, being cultivated by an expert grower from the Carolinas, all of whom report fine crops both in point of quantity and quality.

Besides tobacco, each of the farms grow cotton, sweet potatoes, corn, sugar cane and a hay crop.

"There is no reason why every farmer in the county should not plant at least five acres in tobacco. Compared with cotton any year, tobacco will leave a larger net return per acre and man power and the cost per acre does not exceed a properly worked cotton crop," states Mr. Ricker.

Sidney Clare, owner of the large Lynwood estate, is another landowner who has had the initiative to engage expert labor from the Carolinas to plant tobacco and is elated over the prospect for a good crop. He operates ten farms this year, on which tobacco is the main crop.

The tobacco acreage in the county is not as large as last season, but due to the better quality, it is expected about the same tonnage will be sold on the local market which opens here next Tuesday.

FORMER FEDERAL AGENT ON TRIAL ON FRAUD COUNT

New York, August 2.—(AP)—Benjamin F. Falter, head of the textile unit of the government surplus property division which, after the war, sold unused supplies contracted for during the war, went on trial in federal court today with three other men on indictments charging conspiracy to defraud the United States of bteween $250,000 and $300,000 by collecting from the government, through false claims, damages for the non-delivery of government goods.

The other defendants are Herman H. Canter, Bertrand Weiss and Abraham I. Levey.

U. S. DRY FORCES REPORT ACTIVITY IN MONTH OF JULY

William T. Day, director of prohibition enforcement for the northern district of Georgia, announced Monday that 3,179 gallons of whisky and 118,940 gallons of beer were confiscated in July. In addition to this, 76 illicit distilleries were captured and destroyed; 58 still captured; 33 distillery worms confiscated, and 18 liquor-laden automobiles taken.

The total amount of this property was $37,943.05, and the total value of automobiles taken was $5,850. The local United States prohibiiton officers made 60 arrests and recommended 84 prosecutions.

SOUTHERN SOCIETY AT CAPITAL NAMES DAVID BLAIR HEAD

Washington, August 2.—(AP)—David H. Blair, commissioner of internal bureau in the treasury department, tonight was elected president of the Southern Society of Washington.

Mr. Blair, whose home is in Winston-Salem, N. C., was not at the meeting, being in New York preparing for a European trip. His friends quoted him as having said it would be useless to present his name as he did not believe a republican would be chosen to head the Washington chapter of the organization.

He served as its vice president for the term just closed.

Disabled Veterans Conducting Drive For New Members

Woodrow Wilson chapter, No. 1, Disabled American Veterans of World War, is now in midst of a big membership drive, teams organized and team captains appointed. It is the intention of the chapter to get every eligible veteran in Atlanta into the chapter.

There will be a smoker held at the Ansley hotel tonight at 7:30 o'clock at which time regular chapter business will be transacted and a report of membership teams received.

Senators Hostile To Coolidge Clan Get Control Jobs

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, August 2.—Some vital control points in the senate organization are passing into hands unfriendly to the administration. These points are the chairmanships of the major senate committees and the men who hold them have far more power, direct and indirect, than is realized outside of Washington.

Some of these chairmanships are now in the hands of outright insurgents and some in the hands of nominal regulars who are opposed to the white house on some important specific matters.

The latest shift, caused by the death of Senator Cummins, of Iowa, brings Senator Norris, Nebraska insurgent, into the chairmanship of the senate judiciary committee. This is an important post because all dry legislation passes through this committee, all matters pertaining to anti-trust legislation, and the nominations of hundreds of judges, district attorneys and marshals.

Borah has held the chairmanship of the foreign relations committee since the death of Henry Cabot Lodge. McNary, of Oregon, generally regular but the namesake of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill which is opposed by the administration, will be chairman of the agriculture committee next session. Senator Watson, of Indiana, also generally regular but now understood to be hostile to the renomination of Coolidge, preferring himself, Dawes or Lowden, is chairman of the interstate commerce committee.

Major Appointment.

The chairman of a major committee has great power over legislation especially that which goes through his committee. No bill can reach a vote in the senate without first being approved by the appropriate committee. The chairman of a committee is a small autocrat, for he can pigeonhole a bill or speed it up, or he can attach jokers or pull out the teeth, or otherwise alter it so that its author finally is ashamed of his offspring and is glad to allow it to die a natural death. The chairman exerts similar influence over nominations which come from the white house for senate confirmation.

This power, when in the hands of a competent chairman, often is greatly enlarged by logrolling. Rank and file senators are not anxious to incur the hostility of a committee chairman who may later be in a position to block their bills or political appointments. It is not unusual for a senator, when he finds one of his political appointments or a bill in which he is interested languishing in committee, to seek the favor of that chairman with promises.

These influences, all working in gear, enable a committee chairman to exert wide influence on senate proceedings which otherwise are far outside the scope of his committee.

Senators Hostile To Coolidge Clan Get Control Jobs

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, August 2.—Some vital control points in the senate organization are passing into hands unfriendly to the administration. These points are the chairmanships of the major senate committees and the men who hold them have far more power, direct and indirect, than is realized outside of Washington.

Some of these chairmanships are now in the hands of outright insurgents and some in the hands of nominal regulars who are opposed to the white house on some important specific matters.

The latest shift, caused by the death of Senator Cummins, of Iowa, brings Senator Norris, Nebraska insurgent, into the chairmanship of the senate judiciary committee. This is an important post because all dry legislation passes through this committee, all matters pertaining to anti-trust legislation, and the nominations of hundreds of judges, district attorneys and marshals.

Borah has held the chairmanship of the foreign relations committee since the death of Henry Cabot Lodge. McNary, of Oregon, generally regular but the namesake of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill which is opposed by the administration, will be chairman of the agriculture committee next session. Senator Watson, of Indiana, also generally regular but now understood to be hostile to the renomination of Coolidge, preferring himself, Dawes or Lowden, is chairman of the interstate commerce committee.

Major Appointment.

The chairman of a major committee has great power over legislation especially that which goes through his committee. No bill can reach a vote in the senate without first being approved by the appropriate committee. The chairman of a committee is a small autocrat, for he can pigeonhole a bill or speed it up, or he can attach jokers or pull out the teeth, or otherwise alter it so that its author finally is ashamed of his offspring and is glad to allow it to die a natural death. The chairman exerts similar influence over nominations which come from the white house for senate confirmation.

This power, when in the hands of a competent chairman, often is greatly enlarged by logrolling. Rank and file senators are not anxious to incur the hostility of a committee chairman who may later be in a position to block their bills or political appointments. It is not unusual for a senator, when he finds one of his political appointments or a bill in which he is interested languishing in committee, to seek the favor of that chairman with promises.

These influences, all working in gear, enable a committee chairman to exert wide influence on senate proceedings which otherwise are far outside the scope of his committee. More legislation and more appointments are put through by this method than by speeches on the senate floor. In fact, most things in the senate are decided by an exchange of promises in the cloakroom or in an undertone as senators loll on the leather divans at the rear of the senate chamber.

There is nothing outwardly menacing to the administration in this increase of insurgent influence in the senate organization. Regulars still dominate, but the more numerous the weak spots the more trading they must do with the insurgents. The situation has not become sufficiently critical to start any movement against the seniority system automatically giving the chairmanship to the committee member oldest in point of service.

Rather than disrupt this system, the senate republicans withdrew party recognition to four La Follette senators two years ago so that the seniority rule could be technically applied without elevating any senators who had left the party in the Coolidge campaign.

COUNCIL APPROVES SEWER EXTENSIONS IN BOND PROGRAM

Three sewer extensions provided by the $8,000,000 bond issue were given the official stamp of approval by city council Monday afternoon. The three pieces of work already had been approved by the bond commission and the action of council now paves the way for work to begin immediately.

Two extensions amounting to $20,000 in cost each were approved, one being the West End Park trunk line sewer and the other the Browning street sewer. A third extension, amounting to $5,000, was granted for the Hill street sewer.

TWO ANSLEY PARK HOMES

Piedmont Avenue

A high type of southern architecture is represented in this home which we have to offer on Piedmont Avenue, overlooking the park; the construction is of the very best quality, practically fireproof; lovely lawn and shrubbery; house has recently been repriced at $22,500.

Ansley Park

This house is now vacant, we have the keys at our office, ready to show it to any one interested. The location is one of the most select in the entire city; it is a section where houses are occupied as personal homes and rarely does a broker have an opportunity to offer one for sale. We want an offer on this house to submit to a non-resident owner.
